PREFACE

The first edition of this work was published in 1869 by Professor Alexander Winchell of the University of Michigan. After its publication the author continued to collect genealogical information more or less actively throughout his life time. When he died in 1891, all his genealogical papers and documents were sent to his brother, N. H. Winchell, state geologist of Minnesota, who volunteered to continue the work. In 1896 the latter made plans to undertake the work more actively and in the following year, with the writer's assistance, he sent out thousands of copies of a printed circular letter, and many personal letters, obtaining a large amount of new information. In 1898 the work was interrupted by his absence in Europe, and pressure of other duties together with a serious illness prevented its resumption until about the year 1909. The next year a new circular letter was prepared and sent to all the Winchells (and their descendants) whose addresses could be obtained. At this time he was assisted by his daughter, Mrs. I. W. Stacy of Minneapolis. Once again considerable new information was obtained.

Throughout the long period of collecting information he was assisted at every opportunity by his younger brother, S. R. Winchell, of Chicago, and by his sons, Horace V. Winchell, of Minneapolis, and Alexander N. Winchell, of the University of Wisconsin. He also had the cordial coöperation of hundreds of cousins in all parts of the country without whose assistance the work would be impossible.

In 1912 he began preparing the material at hand for publication, devoting to the task all his spare time with untiring energy and devotion. He was at the time living in Minneapolis, and regularly spending a full day in archeological work in St. Paul. In spite of advancing years, and scientific work faithfully and brilliantly performed, he pushed the work forward, using evenings and other times given by many a younger man to rest or recreation. In April, 1914, less than a month before his death, he completed the first draft of the manuscript of the Windsor Branch.

After his sudden death, which occurred May 2, 1914, the task of completing the manuscript fell to the lot of the writer, who had spent some spare time during the preceding year in collecting information concerning the Winchells and the Wincolls in the library of the Wisconsin Historical Society. From this and other sources the writer has been able to add about ten percent to the manuscript pages devoted to the Windsor Branch, and to prepare genealogies of the Wincolls in England and America. In this work all the family genealogies and many of the local histories of the United States (together numbering thousands of volumes) in the libraries at Madison have been consulted, as well as hundreds of volumes of old English records.

The writer has also prepared the manuscript of the Columbia, Goshen, and German Branches and the (unfortunately long) lists of isolated families and individuals, together with summaries, tabulations, index, etc.

In the course of this work the writer has gradually obtained rather definite opinions regarding the origin of the family name, and the supposed connection between the Winchell and the Wincoll family, which differ somewhat from those of Alexander Winchell, expressed in the first edition, and also from those of N. H. Winchell given in the Introduction to this volume. Since they are supported by some evidence not elsewhere presented, and are believed to be of some interest and importance, they are given in the text.

GENERAL INTRODUCTION

ORIGIN OF THE NAME.

By N. H. Winchell.

On the southeastern coast of England, between Hastings and Dover, but nearer to Hastings, is what remains of one of the ancient "Cinque Ports" of England. It is near the mouth of a small stream whose debouchure into the channel formerly afforded sufficient entrance into a small harbor where ships could ride and discharge and receive cargo. In Roman times there is no reasonable doubt[1] that the galleys of the Cæsars here discharged some of the soldiers who conquered Britain. This stream is now called the Rother, and forms the boundary between Sussex and Kent. The dilapidated village near its mouth, now called Winchelsea, is the successor of the original city of the same name which was destroyed by the encroachment of the ocean in 1280. Nothing is known, so far as I have been able to ascertain, of the name of this stream or of this town in the time of the Roman power in Britain. When in the middle and latter part of the fifth century the Saxons under Hengist and Horsa took possession of southern England the first capital was established at Canterbury and the "Saxon Heptarchy" finally became firmly rooted in all of Britain as far north as the Avon and Thames. It was during the Saxon rule that this town seems to have acquired the name Winkel, and it is not improbable that the name was imported from Saxony. The word winkel (or wincel) signifies an angle, and was probably derived from some natural feature of the land, or perhaps from a turn in the river where the Saxons landed. At least the use of the name for the town suggests the existence of some "angle" in the river or in the coast line so prominent that it was chosen to designate the town which was adjacent to it. With lapse of time the spelling, always variable and uncertain during medieval time, whenever it denoted a family patronymic, took the form sometimes of Winkle, or Wincoll, or Wincall, and under the French influence of the Norman occupancy was softened to Winchel. These spellings became more or less fixed, and were also augmented by the addition of a final syllable, becoming Winchelsea, Winchelsey, Winchelcomb, Wincholback, and perhaps abbreviated into such forms as Winch, Winche, Wynch, Win, and Wynne. It is likely that the necessity of distinguishing between different families to some extent also contributed to these variations, some of which have become widespread. Such forms as Wincold, Winkall, Winchil and Winshall and probably others, may be considered simply as the result of misspelling some of the foregoing. At the same time there was also a tendency, especially in Germany, to which country some of the name seem to have migrated on account of the religious persecutions of the time of Queen Elizabeth, to revert to more distinctly German orthography. This gave rise to the forms Wünschel, Wünstel and Wünsch as well as Witchel and Wenzel. Such forms as Winchester, the camp of the Winchells, Winchonden, the valley, or glen, of Winchell and even the Dutch Van Winkle and the German Winklemann, manifest clearly some etymological relation. There is also a town named Winkel in North Holland, on the Zuyder Zee. This name also appears several times in the city directory of Rotterdam.

[1] Lewis: Topographical Dictionary of England, 1831, vol. 4, p. 492, states that Winchelsea was a place of considerable importance in the time of the Romans.

The termination ea or sea is not easy to explain. The original Saxon for angle is wincel, and ea in Saxon signifies running water. It has been presumed that by writing winceles, a case form of wincel, with ea, and softening the Saxon hard sound of c, the word winchelsea may have been formed. On the other hand the word sea may have been added, in the Anglo-Saxon form sæ, which means sea, because of some proprietorship or other relation of the town to a part of the sea coast. That this suffix was accepted by the town early in its history is well established. The traditional tales of King Arthur's round table mention one of the knights as Sir Petipase, from Winchelsea (Le Morte d'Arthur, by Sir Thomas Malory, vol. 1, Book III, p. 91, published about 1479) ; in 1293 "Robert Winchelsey" was elected archbishop of Canterbury.

As[1] family names did not exist in England generally (as

[1] This paragraph and the following one were written by N. H. Winchell in February, 1914, some time after the rest of this Introduction; together with a note on the first page of the manuscript: "This Introduction is to now in Scandinavia) back further than about the thirteenth century, it will be impossible obviously to trace either Winchell or Wincoll back of that. In that interval of time between the coming of the Normans and the adoption and preservation of surnames, presuming that Winkel was the pre-Norman word, it seems to me very probable that those who were affected by the French invasion and conquest, the town having been given to a bishop and his followers who came from France, would change Winkel or Winchelsea to Winchel or Winchelsea, while at the same time those Saxons who introduced or created it would perpetuate the hard sound of k in Winkel, and that after a few hundred years it would appear in the records in the forms Winkoll, Wincoll and even Wincold, and that hence there cannot be reasonably such an inference that one is derived from the other, but that the most reasonable presumption would be that they grew up contemporaneously.

This does not make any allowance for the fantastic idea that Frigemareventus, the old Roman name of Winchelsea, was translated by the Saxon into Wind-chil-sea.

ORIGIN OF THE NAME WINCHELL.

By A. N. Winchell.

There is little doubt that the family name of the Winchells is derived from the name of a place, and it seems most probable that it comes from the name of a town called Winchelsea, which was once an important port of England. The evidence of this origin may be summarized as follows:

Family or surnames did not exist commonly in England earlier than about the fourteenth century; just before and during the time when such names were gradually adopted, old records show that persons were commonly known by such names as: "William de Winchelcumbe," "Stephen de Wynshull," "Walter de Wyncalton," etc. The preposition "de" means of, and these names mean respectively: William of (the town or monastery of) Winchelcumbe (later known as Winchcomb), Stephen of (the town of) Wynshull (later known as Winshill be revised and rewritten," it suggests that the author had modified to some extent his views in regard to the origin of the name and the connection between Wincoll and Winchell.—A. N. W.

—a town in Derbyshire owned by monks at the date of the Domesday book), Walter of (the town of) Wyncalton (known also as Winchaulton about 1240, and now called Wincanton). In many instances it has been demonstrated that such names were shortened by losing the preposition, and a name like John of London became merely John London. The Winchell surname may be derived in the same way from any one of the following place names:

1. Winchelcumb, a monastery and town in Gloucestershire.
2. Winchaulton, a town in Somersetshire, England.
3. Winchala, a monastery in or near Ripon, England.
4. Wynshull, a township in Derbyshire, England.
5. Winchelsea, a port between Hastings and Dover, England.

There is no known evidence to indicate that the name Winchelcumb was ever used as a surname, perhaps because the place name was soon shortened to Winchcomb. It is possible that this word was afterward still further shortened to the surname Winch.

Similarly, there is no indication that Winchaulton became a family name similar in form to Winchell, possibly because it was soon changed to Wincanton. Whether the latter afterward became a surname is not known to me.

The only known record of Winchala is in Volume 74 of the publications of the Surtees Society which states that a synod was held in Winchala on September 4, 787. Winchala was probably a monastery or similar institution in or near Ripon.

There is good reason to believe that the surname Winshull is derived from the place of the same name (Wynshull), but there is no indication in the old records of any connection between the Winshull[1] and Winchell families. Apparently the Winshull family was not large, and it may have disappeared entirely.

That the surname Winchell (or Winchel) came from Winchelsea, at least in some cases, is almost beyond question. For example, Robert, Archbishop of Canterbury in 1300, is often called Robert de Winchelsea in the old records, but his name is also given frequently as Robert Winchelsea (or Win-chelse). Again, King Edward III sent a writ[1] on September 20, 1345, to "William de Wynchelse" directing him to collect 40 carpenters at Winchelsea to be ready to accompany the king on his next invasion of France. On February 22, 1346, King Edward[2] sent another writ of the same purport to the same person who was called this time "William Large de Winchese." Finally, the king[3] sent a third writ on April 11, 1346, to "William de Winchelse" directing him to take 39 carpenters (with their tools) to accompany the invading army. After the return of King Edward, "William de Wynchelse" (presumably the same person) was first, in 1348, sergeant-at-arms to the king, and later became a freeman[4] of York and a dealer in spices in the year 1350. The editor of the volume in which this last record is published calls attention (in the introduction) to the fact that during the fourteenth century family names were gradually adopted, and cites various instances, including some derived from names of places. From the same volume it appears that "William Wynchell" was a merchant and a freeman of York in the year 1412. According to the editor the right of freemanship could be purchased, or inherited, or obtained as an honor by gift. The right was probably purchased by "William de Wynchelse" and inherited from him by "William Wynchell."

In addition to these facts derived from old records, a tradition[5] existed in some branches of the family that our surname was formerly Winchelsea or Winchelsey.

The origin of the name Winchelsea cannot be stated with any certainty. The following derivations have been given by various authors, who agree in only one particular, namely, that the word is of Saxon origin.

1. From Wincheling, the son of Cissa, who founded the south Saxon kingdom, according to Clarke's British Gazetteer published in London in 1852.

2. From Wincel-ea, the first word being often written winceles and meaning an angle, just as the German word winkel does at present, and the second word meaning water, a watery place, or running water. The name would then mean a watery place at an angle, referring to the fact that the town was built on low marshy land at an angle in the sea coast or in the course of the small river Rother at the mouth of which Winchelsea was located; or the meaning could be given as an angle on running water. This is the derivation adopted by A. Winchell in the first edition of this book, and is given by several other writers.

3. From wincel-sæ, the first word meaning an angle, and the second word meaning sea. The name would then mean an angle in the sea coast.

4. From wind-chil-sæ, the first word meaning wind, or breeze, the second word meaning chill or cold, and the third word meaning sea. The name would then mean a cold windy place on the sea. This is the derivation given by Jeake in his translation of the Charters of the Cinque Ports.

5. From wind-chils-ea, the first word meaning wind or breeze, the second word meaning cold, and the third word meaning a place surrounded by water or an island. The name would then mean a windy cold island. It is said that the site was at one time an island. This is the derivation given by Holloway as quoted by W. D. Cooper in the History of Winchelsea, published in London in 1850.

The following extract from Cooper's work (pages 1-3) is of interest in this connection.

Ancient Winchelsea.

"Site.—The site of the first town of Winchelsea was a low flat island, situate at the southeastern extremity of the county of Sussex, about six miles northeast of Fairlight cliff, three miles S. E. by E. of the hill on which modern Winchelsea stands, two miles S. S. E. of the eminence which forms the town of Rye, and seven miles S. W. from Old Romney, in Kent. In the earliest times, the face of the district was very different to its present state; the town of Rye was a bare insulated rock; the hill of Hingham was surrounded by water on all sides, except the south,—the waters flowed below Udimore up to Brede in one level, and to Appledore, and indeed, close to Tenterden, in the other level,—whilst in the time of the Romans, the ground, on which Old Romney is now built, had just made its head above the waters. Jeake describes Old Winchelsea as washed by the British ocean on the south and east, and by the mouth of the river Rother (then running out there), on the north. The old town was separated, therefore, from most of the above-mentioned localities by a wide waste of waters, and the path to it on every side, save the west, was over a large estuary.

"Whether the town existed at the time of the Roman Conquest, is matter of doubt. Camden does not lay it down in his maps of Roman or even of Saxon Britain; in his map of Sussex he gives it under the Roman name of Vindelis,[1] with the addition of 'Old Winchelsey drowned'; but that name would be more correctly given to the isle of Portland. Jeake tells us,[2] that it was reported 'by Johnson in his atlas, to have been a city in the time of the Romans.' In Gough's edition of Camden, and in the map of Ancient Britain, published by the Society for Diffusing Useful Knowledge, the harbour is given as Portus novus. The spot on which the old town stood is accurately marked in the map given by Dugdale in his History of Embanking. The bearings indicate a place immediately on the east side of the east pier head of Rye harbour, constituting the Camber farm estate, which is in the parish of St. Thomas, Winchelsea, and must, therefore, have been the site, or adjoining the site of the original town. Norden, in his preface to the History of Cornwall, published in 1724, says, 'the ruins thereof now lie under the waves three miles within the high sea.' Tradition gives the same site; and report has spoken of ruins there found. A survey of the bay of Rye, however, has not brought any such to light; and the better opinion seems to be, that the ground, which was submerged at the latter part of the 13th century, began partially to reappear towards the end of the 15th or the beginning of the 16th, was gradually recovered and fenced in up to the close of the 17th century, and is now a fine rich alluvial soil.[3]

"Whether the town did or did not exist in the time of the Romans, it was, assuredly, built and had become an important place in Saxon days.

"Name.—From the Saxon it derives its name.[4] According

[1] Butler, in his Atlas of Ancient Britain, also gives this as the site of Vindelis.

[2] Chartres, 103.

[3] Mr. Holloway has supplied us with a piece of black hard wood, or as it is here called "moor bog," taken in July, 1849, from a spot dry at low water mark, and which was, doubtless, part of Old Winchelsea.

[4] The name has been variously written, Winchelsee; Winchelsey; Wynto Somner, it comes from the Saxon words 'Wincel' [meaning in Latin] angulus, and 'Ea' [meaning in Latin] mare, and signifies a 'waterish place, seated in a corner.' Jeake, in a note, gives an old Latin line [designating the 'Cinque Ports' or five ports of England as] 'Dover, Sandivicus, Ry, Rum, Frig:—mare ventus.' It [the last name] is literally 'Friget mare ventus,' Wind-chils-sea. 'Chil, an old name,' he adds, 'yet in use for cold, and well might the old town deserve that name, standing in a low place open both to the winds and sea.' Twine imagines it to have been written, originally, 'Windchelseum,' from its being exposed to the winds; for so he adds, 'Olim vento frigori et ponto obnoxium, undeci nomen obvenit.'[1] Mr. Holloway 'agrees with all these in the general root of the name, but not in all the particulars; he would give the name and interpretation, Winchelsea, Wind-cold-island, or more properly Cold-wind-island.'

"Saxon Times.—It is not mentioned in the Saxon Chronicle, nor by name in Domesday:[2] yet, according to Ruding, King Edgar had a mint here (Wencles) in 959; and it was a town of sufficient importance in the time of Edward the Confessor, or St. Edward as he is called in the charter of Henry III, to be granted by him, together with the adjacent town of Rye, to the abbot and monks of Fischampe (vulgarly Féchamp) in France; to whom they were further granted and confirmed by King William and King Henry, with their liberties, free customs, pleas, plaints, and causes."

It is mentioned under the name Wincaleseia in the Rotulus Magnus Pipæ of Henry I in the year 1130. It was the landing place of William the Conqueror in 1067 (Clarke's British Gazeteer) and of Henry II in January, 1188, on returning chelse, in French; 15 Rich. II, Wynchesie; in 17th Rich. II, Wynchelse; and the same in Latin in 22 Hen. III, etc.

[2] It is not strange that no mention is made in Domesday of the towns of Winchelsea and Rye; that document was not, as is often erroneously supposed, a record of all places and towns, it was an enumeration only of manors; and in it are mentioned the manors of Stainings and Rameslie, in Sussex, which were held by the Abbey of Féchamp. At the dissolution of the alien Priories, they held the manors of Stening, Brede, Charlton, and Wormenhurst, in Sussex, together with the patronage of their churches, and the patronage of the church of St. Leonard, near Winchelsea, and these possessions were granted to the newly founded Monastery of Syon.

from France, the name being given as "Wenchelase" (Master of Rolls, London, vol. 49).

THE WINCHELL NAME IN ENGLAND.

By N. H. Winchell.

No research has been conducted in England, as to the dissemination of the family, but by reference to published genealogical documents found in American libraries some interesting facts have been gleaned concerning the name and some of the families.

In the twenty-third year of Edward I (1295), in Calendarium Genealogicum, vol. II, p. 500, is the following record: "36, Galfridus de Knelle. Inquisition post mortem. De quibus terris et redditibus prædictis (in Knelle) Robertus Paulyn de Wynchelese habet medietatem per novum statutem pro debitis Mathaei de Knelle patris dicti Galfridi" . . . Sussex'. (V. Rot. Fin., 23 Edw. I, m, 13.)

In the twenty-eighth year of Edward I (1300), in vol. II of the same work, p. 54, is the following record: "150, De walliis et fossatis marisci de Wynchelese reparandis et sustentandis," etc.

Also in the thirty-first year of Edward I, (1303), as follows, p. 649: "120. De inquirendo de wallia maris etc. in marisco de Wynchelse."

In a work in two folio volumes, entitled Survey of the cities of London and Westminster, written in 1598, by John Stow, corrected and continued from 1633 to 1720, is an account of Dr. Thomas Winchelsey and his liberal benefactions, and of Robert Winchelsey, Archbishop of Canterbury, and his extensive charities.

In "Magna Britannia Antiqua et Nova, or a New Exact and Comprehensive Survey of the ancient and present state of Great Britain, more comprehensive and instructive than Camden or any other author on this subject," London, 1730, 6 vols., 8vo, are notices of Winchelseys (vol. 5, p. 503) under the head Winchelsea, the seaport, as follows, viz.:

"Robert Winchelsey, being a native of this town, is a great credit to it, arising to the high station of an archbishop, Anno 1294. He was educated in Merton college, Oxford, and, being a graduate, went to Paris where he took the degree of Master of Arts, and was made Rector of that University. Returning home he took his degrees in Divinity, and having passed through many preferments, was at length made Archbishop of Canterbury. He went to Rome for his pall, according to the custom then in use, and easily obtained it of Pope Celestine, and when he came home again was enthroned solemnly, and upon the same day consecrated one bishop, and bestowed twelve rich livings on twelve doctors, and as many smaller ones on other divines. He suffered many troubles from King Edward I, because in obedience to a canon of the Council of Lyons, he would not consent that a tax should be laid on the clergy without the Pope's allowance; but by King Edward II he was restored to his See, and though a strenuous opposer of Graveston and the Spencers, that king's favorites, lived and died in peace, abounding in charity and hospitality. He was a worthy prelate, an excellent preacher, and being learned himself loved and preferred learned men. His beneficence was prodigious, for he is said to have relieved, weekly on Sundays and Fridays, 4000 men when corn was cheap, and 5000 when it was dear; and to such as could not come to receive his alms, he sent it to their houses. After his death, which happened 1313, he was honored by the poor, as a Saint, though not canonized by the Pope."

"John Winchelsey was probably a kinsman of the Archbishop's, since he was a native of the same place and bore the same name. He was bred in Oxford, and was eminent there for his great learning. He is said to have made both poets and philosophers harmonize with the Gospel Divinity, as far as Nature could symbolize with grace. In his old age he turned a Franciscan, and entered himself into their convent at Galesbury, as thinking monkery a more direct way to heaven than a secular way of living, so much doth prejudice and superstition sometimes triumph over learning; but he died before the year of his probation was ended, and was buried in the convent, An. Dom. 1326."

It was to Robert Winchelsey, as Archbishop of Canterbury, that was addressed the celebrated Bull of Pope Boniface VIII, date June 27th, 1299, in which the Pontiff asserted his own claim to the throne of Scotland with which Edward I was then at war, and over which he asserted royal authority. Winchelsey, according to Lingard, did not receive the Bull until twelve months had elapsed, when he forthwith proceeded with it, through great difficulties, to Edward. This monarch decided to convene a parliament for the purpose of consultation in reference to the Pope's claims. Writs were accordingly issued Sept. 26th, 1300, and the Barons assembled at Lincoln, and agreed upon their celebrated "Letter" as the response of the commonwealth of England to the pretensions of the Pope.

In an edition of Valerius Maximus, with notes by Antonius Thysius, Lugd. Batavorum, apud Franciscum Hackium, Anno 1660 I find on p. 286 a note which begins:—Quod saepe evenit et humili, etc. In Winchel. Quo saepe evenit. This seems to imply that an edition of Valerius had been published by a classical scholar named Winchel.

In the Calendar of State Papers (colonial), East Indies, 1513-1616, p. 413, No. 993, June 20, 1615, Court Minutes of the East India Company, among other items is found: "Petition of Robert Wincall for Adderly's place refused."

These quotations go to show not only the early English antiquity of the name but also the varied spelling which it received.

In England the spelling Wincoll came to be prominent and permanent. As early as 1619, in the Visitation of the County of Leicester, taken by William Camden, the arms and crest of John Wincoll of Waldingfield, Suffolk, are described, and in 1577 the same arms and crest are described and assigned to John Wincold of Waldingfield, probably father of the former; but the record also has the spelling John Wyncold; and on page 160 of the same work it is stated that Mary, daughter of John Raven, married William Winckall, of London. A marriage license was granted in 1605 to Leonard Hallidaye and Anne Wincoll, and to Susan Wincoll and Robert Rawlins, June 1, 1644. These were issued by the bishop of London, and they show the prevalence of the family name, not only in London, but in the country adjacent, including Suffolk, Leicester, and Essex. Yet, the Visitation of London, 1633, 34 and 35 (2 vols., 4to) contains no Wincoll, a fact which indicates that the titled members of the family were landed proprietors in the country at large, though probably not descendants of those who had soldiers' grants from William the Conqueror. It is evident, also, from the records that the form Wincold was earlier than Wincoll.

So far as can be stated at present, from the information available, the spelling Winchell although prevalent in America since the time of English settlement in the first half of the seventeenth century, was less common in England.

THE WINCHELL NAME IN ENGLAND.

By A. N. Winchell.

In view of the derivation of the Winchell name from the name Winchelsea, as already described,[1] the earliest records of the latter name become of interest. The following list is not complete, but will give some idea of the frequent occurrence of the name especially in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries.[2]

Osbertus de Wincheleia, a knight of the Duke of Gloucester in 1166.

Godfridus, son of Legard de Winchelese, named in 1194 to 1200.

Jacob de Wincheleze named in 1199 and 1200.

Manasserus de Winchel'[3] named in 1204 and 1215.

Manasserus de Winchelesse named in 1205.

Wimundus de Wincheles' named in 1208.

Prepositus de Wincheles' named in 1215.

Bonefacius de Wincheles' granted a house in Portsmouth in 1216.

Henricus, filius Reginaldi de Winchelse, named in 1216 and 1224.

Henry de Winchelese and Matthew de Winchelese, his brother, named in 1217.

Paulinus de Wincheles' named in 1225; again in 1233-35.

Cliffande de Winchelse named in 1224.

Joseph, son of Mary de Winchelese, named in 1224.

Thomas de Winchel' named in 1225.

Stephen Andrew de Wincheles' named in 1225.

Paulus de Winchel' named in 1225.

Reginald de Winchel' named in 1226.

Ernald de Winchelese named in 1226.

Sampson de Winchelese named in 1226.

Edmund, son of Godfred de Winchelse, died in 1267.
Robert de Wynchelse, "going beyond seas" (probably to visit the Pope), named his brother Henry as his attorney in 1278; named many times in 1280-1320; died in 1330.
Robert de Winchelese, burgess of Newcastle-on-Tyne in 1281.
Peter de Wynchelese appointed vicar of Hadleigh in 1279, and of Lide in 1282.
Mikael de Wynchelese appointed vicar of Horslegh in 1283.
Simon de Wynchelese appointed vicar of St. Mary's in Romney Marsh in 1284.
John de Wynchelse ordained as acolyte at Tenham in 1286.
Walter de Winchelse became a priest in 1289.
Robertus Paulyn de Winchelse named in 1295.
Thomas de Wynchelse made chaplain of St. Giles, Wynchelse in 1296.
Mariscus de Wynchelese named in 1300 and 1303.
Joseph de Wynchelse died in 1305.
John de Wynchelse became a priest in 1304; "going beyond seas" in 1305; named in 1308; arrested in 1324; parson of the church at Northflet in 1326.
Henricus de Winchillese at Littleham, Exeter, in 1330.
Phillipus de Wincheleis named in 1341.
Henry, son of Vincent de Wynchelse, named in 1344.

William de Winchelse directed to collect carpenters to accompany an invasion of France in 1346.
William de Wynchelse, king's sergeant-at-arms in 1348.
William de Wynchelse, dealer in spices and freeman of York in 1350.
Walter de Wynchelse named in 1356.
Joh. Wynchelse renting a shop for "mercery" in Leicester in 1376.
William Wynchell a freeman of York in 1412.
Thomas Wynchelsey, doctor of sacred theology in 1420; named also in 1421-23.
John de Wynchelsey, doctor of theology in 1429; vicar of genminister of minorite friars in 1431; named in 1436.

Winchelsey as a personal name seems to be less frequent in the fifteenth and later centuries, perhaps because replaced to some extent by the shorter form "Winchel, Wynchell, or Winchell." However, published records of the Winchell name in England are very few in number. The earliest known is that of William Wynchell, freeman of York in 1412. No further records have been discovered until a much later date, only a short time before the settlement of New England. It appears that Annis Winchell, spinster, lived in Sherborne, Dorsetshire, England, in the latter part of the sixteenth century. Her will, dated 26 December, 1598, was proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury on April 28, 1599. An abstract[1] of her will follows:

Will of Annis Winchell, of Sherborne, co. Dorset, spinster;
dated 26 December, 41 Elizabeth (=1599).

I desire to be buried in Sherborne parish church, and give to the same 20 shillings and to the poor there 40 shillings.
I bequeath to John Waisk's two children, 40 shillings each.
To my servant Dorothy Geare, 40 shillings.
To my sister, wife of Harry Hobbs, 40 shillings.
To my sister Alice 10 shillings.
To Julian Yeatman, the money she owes me.
To John Wasse, a cupboard.
Residuary legatee and executor:—my brother, John Russell.

Witnesses:—Richard Masters, Michaell Humfreys.
Signed:—Annis Winchell (mark)
Debts owing by Robert Masters of Sherborne, Ellinor Knight, Edward Whitelock of Poynington.
Proved:—28 April, 1599, by Edward Willet, public notary, proctor to executor.

About the same time Robert Wynchell was a "citizen and painter-stainer" of London. His business was such as would now be called decorating; that is, before paper was used as an interior wall finish the walls were decorated by "painter-stainers." He was also a painter of coats of arms and crests, as shown by the "Petition of the Company of Painters Stainers of London" elsewhere quoted (pp. 19, 20). Finally, he was almost certainly the original possessor of the Winchell coat of arms described on page 19 and illustrated in the frontispiece. An abstract[1] of his will follows:

Will of Robert Wynchell, citizen and painter-stainer of London, dated on the last day of February, 1618.

I give my body to be buried in the church of St. Anne, London.
I give to my wife Mary all the plate I shall be possessed of at the time of my death.
My desire is that my wife and son William shall have their habitation together in my dwelling house in St. Anne's lane, and, as I doubt not she will be a kind mother to him, so I charge him to be loving and dutiful to her, especially considering her old age and infirmity.
All my household stuff I give to my wife for her life, with remainder to my son William at her decease, or to his children, if he be not then living.
The testator willed this to be set down in writing, but deceased before the same was sealed and delivered by him.

Richard Rothwell scr.

The next record of a Winchell in England is in a "Bill" filed 18 May, 1622, in a proceeding in chancery regarding certain land at Hayford Warren, Oxfordshire. It appears from the abstract that Judith Williams married William Winchell, and that she was entitled to hold the land as tenant during her life. She obtained this right in 1597 and was probably born at least 20 years earlier. The land was (and is still) owned by Winchester (now New) College, Oxford. The abstract[1] follows:

[1] Made by Miss Ethel Stokes of London.

Chancery Bills and Answers, James I.

Bill (filed 16 May, 1622) by Richard Barrett of Hayford Warren, co. Oxon, husbandman, vs. one William Winchell and Judith, his wife, and one John Hinde, and the Warden, etc. of Winchester College.

The complainant holds a messuage and 3½ yard lands in Hayford Warren from Winchester College, Oxford, lords of that manor, by demise made at the manor court 4 December, 2 Elizabeth (1559) to the complainant's father Thomas Barrett, for the lives of himself, his wife and his son, and the longer liver of them. On the father's death, his widow Margaret was admitted, and on her death (about 4 years since) the complainant succeeded. But the defendants have got into their hands the original copy made of the premises, and pretend that they or one of them have been lawfully admitted tenants at a recent court.

John Hinde answers for his part, that on 20 August last the other defendants demised the premises to him for 2 years.

William Winchell and his wife, in a separate answer dated 18 May 1622 say that at the court of 2 September 39 Elizabeth (1597) the reversion of the premises directly they should come into the hands of the lords was granted to the defendant Judith for term of her life. Thomas Barrett the father died long since, when the said Judith was an infant. They believe the complainant entered into the premises on his mother's death without any colour of title.

At a court holden 11 April 16 James I (1618) the defendant Judith was duly admitted tenant by the steward. They have made a lease to the other defendant for the purpose of a trial of their title in the King's Bench by proceedings in ejectment.

The answer of the Warden etc. says that at the court of 22 October 36 Elizabeth (1594) one James Dodwell surrendered the premises (in reversion on the death of Thomas Barrett) to James Williams and Philipa Dodwell, daughter of the said James Dodwell. In 39 Elizabeth, after the death of the said James Williams and Philipa Dodwell, the said reversion was granted to Judith Williams, now wife of the said William Winchell. On 11 April 16 James I, on the death of Margaret Barrett, the said Judith Williams, now Judith Winchell, was admitted tenant.

No other records of the name in England at any date are known to the writer, and it has been impossible to verify the report[1] that Winchells were living in London and Wales in the nineteenth century. But no investigations have been made in England or Wales.

VARIATIONS IN THE NAME.

By A. N. Winchell.

The family surname is known to be used in the following forms: (1) Winchell, prevalent in America; (2) Winchel, often found in early New England records and still used by descendants of 48 Stephen and 248 Robert; (3) Winchill, rarely found in Dorchester Records (Mass.) and used by some descendants living chiefly in Wisconsin and Minnesota; (4) Winchil, very rarely used in old records; (5) Wynchell, used in 1412 in York, England, and also in records of the Gen. Court Conn. It is very probable that the name was formerly: (6) Winchelsea, (7) Winchilsea, (8) Winchelsey, (9) Winchelse, (10) Winchelese, (11) Winchelesse, (12) Wynchelse, (13) Wynchelsay, (14) Wynchalse, (15) Wincheleseh, (16) Winchilse, (17) Winchillese, (18) Wynchelese, (19) Wincheleis, (20) Wincheleia, (21) Wincheleze. These names were sometimes written in the abbreviated forms: (22) Wincheles', (23) Winchels', (24) Winchel'. The following names are probable variations: (25) Winchol, (26) Winschell, (27) Wünschel, (28) Winschel.

It is very likely that still other forms exist, but after considerable study the writer finds no satisfactory evidence that the name has ever varied to Wincoll, Winkle, Witchell,[2] Winch, or any similar forms.

[1] Winchell Genealogy, first edition, p. 14.

[2] According to recent information from Mr. O. Witchell of Detroit, Mich., his surname was "de Wich Well" in 1320, becoming Witchwell a little later, and Witchell or Witchel since about 1680.

On account of the belief expressed by Alexander Winchell and by N. H. Winchell that Robert Winchell of Windsor, the founder of the Windsor Branch, was related to the Wincolls of early New England times, it is important to discuss this question somewhat fully.

Robert "Wincall" was admitted a freeman of Massachusetts on May 6, 1635. It is probable that this was the man who is known as Winchill, Wynchell, or Winchel in all other records, and whose descendants form the Windsor branch. This single record is the only evidence that is not easily explained of a relationship between the Winchells and the Wincolls. In view of evidence presented later of no such relationship the writer believes that this entry was incorrectly written, or, possibly, does not refer to Robert Winchell.

The second instance in which the names Winchell and Wincoll are said to have been used for the same person is in A Booke of Entrie for Passengers, etc. In this case the original manuscript must be indistinct since the same record has been printed by one editor[1] as: Elizabeth Winchell and John Winckoll; by another as: Elizabeth Winchell and John Winchell, and by a third[2] as: Elizabeth Winckoll and John Winckoll. The writer believes that the original manuscript has been correctly read by the third editor, and not by the others. The name Wincoll was often written Winckoll, as in this instance.

The evidence that the Winchell and Wincoll families are entirely distinct may be given briefly as follows:

1. A careful study of the history of the Wincoll (or Wyncoll) family in England does not supply the name of any Robert who was probably the same as Robert "Wincall" of Massachusetts.

2. An examination of old records of the family of Wyncoll in England does not disclose a single instance in which the name is spelled with an h, and no case in which it is spelled with an e, unless the name varies to Winkell, which is not probable, as that name is never used for persons known to belong to the family.

3. A comparison of the Christian names of the Wyncoll family in England during the years 1500-1630 with the Christian names of the Wincoll family in America and the Winchell family in America shows that the names John, Thomas, and Isaac are repeated frequently in the first and second families and are not used at all by Robert and only rarely by his children. On the contrary Robert used a group of Bible names five of which are not once found in the family of Wyncoll in England.

[1] WINCHELL GENEALOGY, first edition, p. 15.

[2] Original Lists of Emigrants, compiled by John C. Hotten, London, 1874, p. 54.

4. The name Winchell seems to be derived from the name Winchelsea, while the name Wyncoll is almost certainly derived from the old form Wendecole.[1] That is, the names do not have a common origin, but, on the contrary, the farther back they are traced the less they resemble each other.

5. The Winchell name has been traced back to 1412 (and in the form, de Winchelese, to 1194) and the Wyncoll name to about 1460 (and, in the form Wendecole, to 1361) without disclosing any connecting links. On the contrary, both families lived in England side by side for about two hundred years before the settlement of New England. The conclusion is that there is an independent source known for each family and no connection between them.

COAT OF ARMS.

In Burke's General Armory of England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales the Winchell coat of arms is described in the following terms:

"Winchell (London) Argent three eagles' wings, sable."

This signifies that the background of the design is "argent," that is, silver, or white, while the wings are "sable" or black.

It is illustrated by the frontispiece, which is from a photograph of a painted and framed drawing owned by the author of the first edition of this work. It was procured by him in 1873 of James Usher, 7 Murray Street, New York.[2] According to documents quoted by Usher in authentication of this form of the Winchell coat of arms it appears to be traceable at least to the year 1635-1636, and to a licensed painter of arms named Winchell, who, with others, is mentioned in a "course" which was brought by petition before Thomas, Earl of Arundall, recorded as follows in the Calendar of State Papers (Domestic), England, vol. cccvii, p. 38:

[1] The evidence of this derivation is given briefly on p. 48.

[2] The Winchell coat of arms was engraved by the University of Minnesota, and in the form of a book-plate was placed in a collection of books presented to the University in 1911 by N. H. Winchell. The collection is known as the Winchell Library of Geology of the University of Minnesota.

82. "Petition of the Company of Painters Stainers of London, to Thomas, Earl of Arundall and Surrey, Earl Marshall of England. The Earl having declared his purpose to settle a course between the officers of Arms and the petitioners in a controversy depending in the Earl's court, they beg him to take these considerations to his view. The point in dispute was, whether the painters might paint arms without the allowance or license of the heralds. The painters contended that all painters were to be made free of their Company, and that this extended to painters of arms which had been allowed by the heralds, to whom belonged, it was conceded, the marshalling of arms, who had always employed free men of the petitioners' company in painting them. Petitioners refer to Camden's book of certificates remaining in the heralds' office in proof that divers unlicensed painters painted arms in his time, besides Winchel, Treswell and Kinobie whom only the heralds say Camden allowed. They also state that by an order made in 1618 by the Lords Commissioners for the office of Lord Marshal, painters were permitted to paint arms well known and formerly allowed by heralds in their visitations without license. They point out that the charge will be great to the subject if gentlemen must have approbation of all escutcheons every time they have occasion to use them, and if painters be compelled to go to the heralds for allowance for arms whenever a sign is to be painted. They urge the antiquity of their art, and trace it back to Jeremiah and Ezekiel the prophets, and to Apelles in the time of Alexander the Great. Finally they complain of Dr. Rives who in a most contemptible manner in open court vilified and disgraced them."

The presumption is that a painter of arms named Winchel,[1] licensed by Camden, was the owner of the coat of arms described in Burke's General Armory. At any rate it is the only known source or foundation for the statement by Burke.

The coat of arms of the family of Winchelsey is described thus,[2] "Ar. on a fesse of the same barrulet gu. in chief cinquefoils vert."

The following is the coat of arms of the town of Winchel-sea:[1] "Per pale gu. and az. three demi lions pass. guard or. conjoin in pale, and as many hulks of ships ar."

The following is the coat of arms of the Earl of Winchelsea:[1] "Quarterly, first and fourth, az. a chev. betw. three garbs, or; second and third ar. a chev. betw. three griffins pass wings endorsed, sa. Crest,—A pegasus courant ar. winged, maned, and hoofed or. ducally gorged of the last. Supporters.—Dexter, a pegasus ar. wings, mane and hoofs or. ducally gorged of the last; sinister a griffin, wings endorsed, sa. ducally gorged or. Mottoes.—Nil conscire sibi and virtus tutissima cassis."

The arms of the Wyncoll family were granted at Cook's Visitation of Suffolk in 1577. They are described as follows:

"Ermine, a chevron quarterly per chevron or and sable, between three crescents, gules. Crest: On a wreath, an arm couped at the shoulder, embowed and erect from the elbow, habited in armour ppr., garnished or, holding in a hand of the first a spear of the second, headed argent."

BRANCHES OF THE FAMILY IN AMERICA.

It is certain that most of the representatives of the family of Winchell in America are descended from an English-speaking ancestry. There are traditions extant in some parts of the family to the effect that our ancestors were of Welsh nativity, and it is not at all unlikely that Saxons bearing our name migrated into Wales in the fifteenth or sixteenth century. In like manner members of the family, bearing the name Winchell, known to have been in Germany, are thought to have migrated thither from England. It may be that the name has been modified to the form Wünschel in Germany, though the German word wünschel (derived from a word meaning wish—a compound wünschelrute signifies divining rod) affords another possible origin for this name. In any case it is known that German emigrants have established some branches of the Winchell family in America.

The name first reached this country when Robert Winchell immigrated to Massachusetts in 1634 or earlier. His descendants form what is called the Windsor Branch, the name being derived from Windsor, Connecticut, the home of Robert in this country.

[1] Burke's General Armory.

The next immigrant bearing our family name seems to have been Munson Winchell. He is reported to have come from England to join the British army in the French and Indian War; he settled at Goshen, Connecticut, whence comes the name (Goshen) of the branch of the family he founded.

It is said that Samuel Winchell, who founded the Columbia Branch, was born in Scotland; the date was probably as early as about 1780. He settled at Columbia, Indiana.

Justus Winchell, who came to America about the year 1777 with Burgoyne's army, was born in Brunswick, Germany; he founded the Brunswick Branch.

Georg Michael Winchell, who founded the Jockgrim Branch, was never in America, but several of his children, all born in Jockgrim, Bavaria, came to this country and settled in three different States.

In summary, the Branches of the Winchell family in America are as follows:

I. Windsor Branch, founded in 1635 by Robert at Windsor, Conn.

II. Columbia Branch, founded about 1800 by Samuel at Columbia, Fayette Co., Indiana.

III. Goshen Branch, founded about 1760 by Munsen at Goshen, Conn.

IV. Brunswick Branch, founded about 1780 by Justus, who was born in Brunswick, Germany.

V. Jockgrim Branch, founded about 1850 by children of Georg Michael who were born in Jockgrim, Bavaria.

In the first edition of this work 18 sub-branches were recognized in the Windsor Branch. These sub-branches were each founded by a man who emigrated from the old home to some other part of this country, in most cases to the western "frontier," just as the Branches were founded by immigrants coming to this country at different times. With a few corrections and additions the sub-branches thus established are as follows:

1. Berlin Sub-branch. Founded by 31 Hezekiah (born 1697) in Berlin, Conn. Great-grandson of Robert.

2. New Hampshire Sub-branch. Name of Founder unknown, supposed to be 34 Samuel (born 1690). Settled at or near Hartford, Conn., and probably removed to New Hampshire.

3. Ulster Sub-branch. Founded by 48 Stephen (born 1698) on the manor of the "Great Nine Partners" in Duchess County, N. Y. Descendants mostly in Ulster County.

4. Hampden Sub-branch. Founded by 49 Thomas (born 1700), brother of Stephen. Descendants settled mostly in Hampden Co., Mass., or in that vicinity.

5. Maine Sub-branch. Founded by 56 Samuel, of the IVth generation (born 1711). Settled at Topsham, Me.

6. Torrington Sub-branch. Founded by 61 Ebenezer, of the IVth generation (born 1722). Settled at Torrington, Ct.

7. Egremont Sub-branch. Founded probably by 73 Azariah of the IVth generation (born 1710). Settled at North Egremont, Mass., in 1726.

8. Perry Sub-branch. Founded by 136 John of the Vth generation (born 1760). Settled in Perry Co., Indiana.

9. Washington Sub-branch. Founded by 147 Justus of the Vth generation (born 1755). Settled in Washington County, N. Y.

10. Duchess Sub-branch. Founded by 150 James of the Vth generation (born 1741). Settled at North East, Duchess County, N. Y.

11. Vermont Sub-branch. Founded by two brothers, 156 Nathaniel and 157 Dan (born 1753). Brothers of James. Nathaniel settled at Rutland and Dan lived at Pomfret.

12. Onion River Sub-branch. Founded by 177 Jonathan, of the Vth generation (born 1736). Settled on the Onion River, Vt. Supposed son of 67 Daniel.

13. Portage Sub-branch. Founded by 238 John of the Vth generation, born about 1770. Settled in Portage Co., O.

14. Indiana Sub-branch. Founded by 248 Robert Ruggles, of the VIth generation (born 1750). Settled at Brookville, Franklin Co., Ind.

15. Kensington Sub-branch. Founded by 251 Amasa of the VIth generation (born 1766). Lived at Kensington, Ct.

16. Philadelphia Sub-branch. Founded, as supposed, by 281 Ira of the VIth generation (born 1782). Settled at Bordentown, N. J. Descendants mostly in Philadelphia.

17. New York Sub-branch. Founded by 365 James of the VIth generation. Born about 1796. Settled in New York City.

18. Herkimer Sub-branch. Founded by 505 Eli apparently of the VIth generation. Born about 1769. Lived in St. Law-

Many other sub-branches might be recognized on a similar basis. But facility and frequency of travel have gradually made divisions on such a ground of decreasing significance. The family is now scattered in nearly every state of the Union from Maine to California and from Florida to Washington, as well as from Minnesota to Texas. Therefore no attempt is made to separate these sub-branches from other parts of the Windsor Branch in the body of this work. But the preceding table exhibits the affinities which exist (or are presumed to exist) amongst these sub-branches. It includes the names of all males known to have had descendants along the lines of the several sub-branches until their dates of founding, respectively. Any doubt regarding continuity is indicated by a query. The Roman numerals at the heads of the columns of names indicate the generation, counting Robert as the first. The dates accompanying the names refer to the births and deaths. The number at the left of a name is the serial number from the body of this work.

WINDSOR BRANCH.

INTRODUCTION.

Dorchester, Mass., was one of the earliest of the colony towns settled under the Charter of Massachusetts Bay. That charter was confirmed in 1629; and in 1630 (May 30) the ship Mary and John, sailing from Plymouth, England, came to anchor and landed the Dorchester immigrants at Nantasket, now known as Hull, the first of the fleet of 1630 to enter Massachusetts Bay. The Plymouth colony of "Pilgrims" from Holland, under Rev. John Robinson, had previously landed at Plymouth Rock in December, 1620, and Salem, Mass., had already been established about a year. There were also some English at Charlestown. The Dorchester settlers had been derived mostly from the counties of Devonshire, Dorsetshire and Somersetshire, and their affiliations were originally with the English Established Church, though they were dissenters from its liturgy and ceremonials,—Presbyterians with a Congregational form of government.

In 1635 a large migration took place from Dorchester and other towns to the Connecticut Valley, where, at Matianuck (now Windsor), a settlement had been made about a year previous by a party from Plymouth, Mass., chartered as the "Plymouth Trading Company." The Dorchester party comprised about sixty men with women and children, who went by land, driving their cattle before them. The larger part of the members of the original (Dorchester) church were of this party. They united with the Plymouth people, and with others who came from Newtown (Cambridge) and Watertown soon after, in the firm establishment of what was at first called Dorchester, but which, in 1637, was named Windsor.

Ancient Windsor.

The accompanying map of "ancient Windsor" is based primarily on a map loaned for the purpose by Mrs. J. E. Gear of Windsor, published on a circular broadsheet at the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the settlement of Windsor. The librarian of the Connecticut Historical Society at Hartford (Godard) kindly furnished also the basis of the same map in the form of a photostat from Trumbull's Memorial History of Hartford County.

From this can be determined approximately the location of Robert Winchell's home lot as assigned to him. But, though it is indicated near the point at which the road from Nathanael Bissell's ferry reaches the main street, running westward from the river, there is not perfect concord among the historic documents as to its location. There are also discrepancies between the Trumbull map and that of Stiles published in his Ancient Windsor. An attempt has been made, while mainly designed to show the correct location of Robert Winchell's "home lot," to insert on this map sundry other additions and corrections determined from a somewhat careful perusal of the old records.

The following description of ancient Windsor is from a broadsheet issued by the Connecticut Historical Society for a meeting at Windsor held in 1893.

PLACES OF HISTORIC INTEREST IN WINDSOR, CONN.

A bird's-eye view from the top of Stony Hill shows Plymouth meadow (about 140 acres), on which the Plymouth people settled in 1633; also the Great Meadow (about 600 acres), on the borders of which the Dorchester people and the Pioneers of the Lords and Gentlemen settled in 1635. These meadows were the only land "fit for immediate cultivation"; all else was covered with a forest, hoary with age. These meadows had once an Indian population to cultivate them, in their rude way, without plows, oxen, axes, hoes, or other implements of iron. The ground had originally been cleared by burning the trees at the ground until they fell, and removing them afterwards by the same process; but Ludlow says that now the Great Meadow "was void of inhabitants." The Indians in Windsor had been swept off by the smallpox a few years before, except a few at Wilson Station and at Poquonnock.

From the foot of Stony Hill we turn east, and a ride of about a quarter of a mile brings us to the island, and from "the acre on the hill to build upon," which Plymouth reserved when they quit-claimed their title to all the Great Meadow and a part of Plymouth to the Dorchester people in 1637. Here we have a near view of Plymouth meadow and the site of Plymouth House, which stood near the river on the "43 acres and three-fourth acres excepted and reserved to the House of the said New Plymouth." This was sold in 1638 to Mr. Matthew Allen of Hartford, who for several years denied the jurisdiction of Windsor, or of the colony of Connecticut, and claimed to be an independent Plymouth settlement.

Proceeding north, we pass the site of the Wolcott houses, Henry Wolcott, Sen., having been the first civil officer (constable) sworn in Windsor (he lived elsewhere before 1637), whose descendants have given us three governors for Connecticut, besides other statesmen, divines, doctors, and lawyers. The last house, as we proceed north, is the present residence of the Hon. Thomas W. Loomis of the Connecticut Historical Society, a lineal descendant of those who have owned and occupied; from the first, the land originally granted to Joseph Loomis in 1639, and this, together with adjoining territory, has been secured for the Loomis Institute.

Leaving the island, we come to the lot of Roger Ludlow, who came up with the Pioneers from Dorchester, Mass., in the summer of 1635 to prepare for the coming of their families the next spring. They were brooding over the Great Meadow when Brewster wrote his letter to Plymouth, July 6th, while searching for an open meadow elsewhere which would accommodate Dorchester. The Lords and Gentlemen's Pioneers arrived in the meantime and attempted to take up the Great Meadow.

In their report to their Lordships in England they say, "the Plymouth men sent a letter discharging our men for meddling with it." . . . "I conceive that Mr. Ludlow was the chief man that hindered it," . . . "seeing the Dorchester men had taken up the best place before" we could get possession.

Next we come to the house-lot of Samuel Allen, ancestor of our Mr. B. R. Allen. It was along this island road, between Mr. Ludlow's and Mr. Warham's that about a dozen first settlers built their houses. In the spring of 1638-9 there was a freshet "higher than the Indians had ever known," probably equal to 1854, and "drowned many houses very deep," and later on these parties are found living on the higher part of their lots, the east side of the present Broad Street, and in 1642 a highway was "laid across their home lots" for their accommodation, and a road thence (from Grace church) to the Island road. The parties in interest were authorized to make any changes in the lay-out they should agree upon, and they evidently swerved from the heads of their house-lots when they reached Mr. Branker's lot (next north of the residence of H. S. Hayden) to avoid the swale which extended about halfway across the present green, and when the Upland road to Hartford was completed, 1645, they continued their road directly to the present high-way, and the people living in the old mill district made a short cut through the commons from the northwest corner of the present Green directly to "the Upland road" at the southwest corner. Before August 14, 1654, the space between the two paths had been thrown open (from the "Millway" road across the north end of the Green to the ferry) "southward for a spacious country way." This was while it was in commons and before any house-lots were laid out on the west side. For nearly a century and a half the main thoroughfare from Hartford north and to the Bay followed "the mill highway," from the northeast corner of Broad Street east to the Island road about seventy rods, thence north to Mr. Warham's (David Rowland place), thence turning again to the east at right angles, about sixty rods to the ferry over the rivulet.

Windsor had a school fund which was begun by John Fitch, who was "called to go forth against the Indians (Narragansetts, 1657), and not knowing what disposition the Lord will make of me," gave his property for the school in Windsor. It was proposed to use this fund, to which additions had been made, for an academy to stand on one side of the river, and a union church on the other, when a causeway and a bridge should connect the two sides of the river. The causeway, built a century ago, was for that time so great a work that the State gave them a lottery to aid the enterprise. It looks a small affair to-day when compared with the railroad embankment across the same depression a few rods west of it.

Rev. Mr. Warham's house stood a few rods southeast of the Congregational chapel (at the south end of the causeway), where the present Rowland house stands.

When we reach the top of the hill after crossing the bridge we are within the Palisado. On three sides the palisades stood on the brow of the hill; the enclosure was nearly a quarter of a mile square. At the time of the Pequot War, 1637, all the Dorchester people, and those of the Lords and Gentlemen's party lived within the Palisado. Mr. Ludlow "tarried by the stuff," while Captain Mason and others went to fight the Pequots. Two weeks later he wrote to Mr. Pynchon at Agawam (Springfield): "If the case be never so bad we can neither help you, nor you us. We are so gleaned by that small fleet we sent out that those that remain are not able to supply our watches, which are day and night, that our people are scarce able to stand upon their legs."

Palisado green was, until the causeway and bridge were built, nearly as wide at the north end as at the south, and the meeting house stood near the center of it. The green or common was on all sides 18 rods from the Palisades. The highway entered the Palisado at the southeast corner, and passed out at the northeast corner, where it does now. At the southeast entrance lived Captain Mason of Pequot fame; at the northeast lived Matthew Grant, the ancestor of President Grant, the surveyor, the town clerk from 1652 to 1681, and the man who left more valuable historical data than all his fellow townsmen put together.

In the corner of the Palisado next to Matthew Grant stood a house which belonged to the town, and here stood the town barn, which was the tax collector's bank of deposit for the town taxes, when they were payable in "wheat, peas, and Indian corn."

The road north from the Palisado has several angles in it made to correspond with the angles in the meadow hill, and it was in the brow of this meadow hill ("sandy bank," Matthew Grant calls it), that Mr. Ludlow and his men built their cellars (dug-outs) that first summer and autumn, and hurried on their families, "their cows, horses, and swine" before winter, to be found in actual possession when further orders should reach here from the Lords and Gentlemen in England, who had the advantage, which a charter could give them which the Massachusetts men had not. Cold weather had set in before they arrived, their stock of winter supplies had miscarried, the river was frozen over, and starvation stared them in the face. Supposing their vessels were frozen in below, most of them took up a tedious winter march in the vain hope of finding somewhere their much-needed provision. Fortunately they found a vessel at the mouth of the river which took them home "in five days, which was a great mercy of God, or they would have all died, as some did." A few families remained with scant provision, supplemented with acorns and such other food as the place afforded. They had made all too little provision for their cattle, and many of them died. The Lords and Gentlemen's party had built themselves "a sufficient house," and with their wives and children were amply supplied, as doubtless the Plymouth company were for the winter, but they could do little for others. Several Dorchester families and the Stiles families were certainly here through the winter of 1635-6. Is it certain that there were any families in Hartford or Wethersfield?

These settlers had each their quota of "meadow" between their house-lots and the river, generally of the same width as their home-lot. Those who settled on the Island road south of the rivulet, and some in the Palisado had their quota in the lower end of the Great Meadow. None of the Dorchester people took up land on Plymouth meadow until after Plymouth sold them a part of it in 1637.

A mile north of the rivulet stands the Stoughton house on the original Stoughton lot, which was taken up before any houses were erected on the island and the Stoughton family, whose ancestors have owned it from the first, still own it. On a part of this lot stood a stone house known as the "old stone fort." Persons living thirty years ago remember it. It was undoubtedly considered a good place of refuge if the Indians ever attacked the town, but no evidence appears which shows that it was ever garrisoned, as were several houses on the east side of the Connecticut River at the time of King Philip's War, 1675-6.

A quarter of a mile farther on is the lot now owned by Mr. Strickland, which was "granted" to Governor Haynes of Hartford, "by purchase of George Hull." With it he bought Hull's rights to the undivided lands, and had several outlying lots, including "Mr. Haynes' great lot."

The Chief Justice Ellsworth place occupies the Stiles lot, occupied by sufferance of the Dorchester men, 1635, while in charge of the interests of the Lords and Gentlemen, who afterwards abandoned their purpose to come here. Macaulay says that Cromwell and Hampden were prevented from going to Connecticut by the government officers after they were on board the ship. Francis Stiles and his two brothers were, before 1640, recognized as inhabitants, and had their quota of land by the same rules as others.

The ferry across the Connecticut River was but about sixty rods above the Ellsworth place. The road is described on the other side of the river as passing over certain men's lots, "and over the brook and so on over other brooks to the Bay." John Bissell was the ferryman, and was succeeded by his son, John, Jr., who kept it until it was given to his brother, Nathaniel, at Scantic, a mile below, where it is still called Bissell's ferry. Directly opposite to the way to the John Bissell's ferry stands the model schoolhouse, erected fifty years ago under the auspices of a former president of the Connecticut Historical Society, the Hon. Henry Barnard, when he was Commissioner of Schools for Connecticut. It has been copied all over Connecticut and in every state of the Union, and in several foreign countries.

William Hayden's house was "as far up as any house-lots were laid out," before 1654, or the four-rod road extended. A private way, very crooked, was made by certain men—Governor Haynes among them—to Pine meadow, a mile above, which was open to cultivation, and without Indians. William Hayden was one of the first settlers of Hartford, and was conspicuous in the Pequot fight. His sword is treasured in the historical rooms. He removed from Hartford to Windsor in 1640, and to this spot in 1645. This was at the upper end of the meadow, and there was no attraction for settlers beyond. His son Daniel succeeded him, and his four grandsons possessed all the land beyond, and every house beyond, down to the close of the Revolutionary War, was owned and occupied by Haydens, and the neighborhood was called Haydentown.

The road to Agawam was via Bissell's Ferry and Warehouse Point. When Northampton was settled, 1654, a highway was needed on this side of the Connecticut River, and to avoid the swamps and the necessity of building bridges, the road was laid across the plains, where there is not a swamp or stream to cross for five miles, and this continued to be the great thoroughfare north and to Boston down to 1815.

When Washington was on his tour through New England, he wrote in his journal, under date of October 21, 1789:

"Between Windsor and Suffield you pass through a level, barren plain for several miles."

"The old pear tree" was set out by Samuel Hayden, grandson of William, who built here in 1708. It was "an old tree" a hundred years ago, and is probably nearly or quite 175 years old.

The brick house opposite was built before the Revolution by Captain Nathaniel Hayden, a grandson of Samuel, and now occupied by Samuel, a grandson of Nathaniel. Captain Nathaniel Hayden commanded the 23 "Lexington Alarm" soldiers who went from Windsor, and served as Captain at New York in 1776, and elsewhere.

The Levi Hayden house was built in 1737. The oak tree beside it had stood there in the midst of a forest many years. This house was built by Sergeant Samuel Hayden.

"The old Pond" was the source of supply for the Windsor Aqueduct Company. From this point they had laid their water pipe (3-inch bore) through the street three miles, to the present Windsor Bridge. This water supply was in use one hundred years ago, but was only a moderate success for a few years.

Around this pond a colony of colored people have settled since "de wah." They number 60 or 70, have a church organization and minister, and hold camp-meetings.

THE WINCHELL HOMESTEAD AT WINDSOR, CONN.

The approximate location of the Winchell homestead at Windsor is well known. It was visited by the late Alexander Winchell, July 21, 1867, and the following descriptive notes are from his diary:

"After a late breakfast I walked up the street—turned off along the old original road—crossed the Farmington River, passed the old Primitive Society's meeting house, and the ancient 'burying ground,'—continued on and passed some very large old shade trees, mostly elms and maples. I saw, however, one buttonwood, which at the height of the dooryard fence by which it stood, had a diameter of six feet and seven inches in one direction, and five feet in the other. I saw also an elm on the opposite (east) side of the street which must have been five feet in diameter. Continued on to the Bissell's Ferry road, on the south side of which lay the 'home lot' of Robert Winchell. Here I was invited by Mr. E. S. Clapp, who lives opposite, to ride to church with him, and I did so. We attended the Methodist church, which is near the depot and opposite the Windsor hotel. I heard Mr. Cushing read Wesley's sermon on 'Evil Speaking.' . . .

"After a midday lunch I returned, not being satisfied with what I saw in the morning. I walked again to Bissell's Ferry road, not less than a mile, and turned down to the river. The road takes precisely the turn indicated in Stiles' diagram. The bank whence we descend from the 'upland' to the 'swamp' is not over 20 rods from the highway. The swamp is a grassy marsh four to six rods wide along the foot of the bank, where the water stands after an overflow. Crossing this, the road rises four or five feet and passes over the alluvial bottom made by the overflows of the Connecticut, and called in the old records 'The Great Meadow.' This is, at this place, about half a mile broad and is now occupied by fields of grass, corn, wheat and potatoes. A few aged apple trees are scattered along the south side of the road, standing within the field. The different crops in the Great Meadow are not fenced off, and they are excluded from the road only by a wire fence.

"It caused me many interesting reflections to walk over the ground cultivated 225 years ago by my earliest American ancestor, and afterwards occupied by Nathaniel for many years. As a memorial of the place I preserved a flower and leaf of a vetch (Vicia sativa) which I found growing near the river's bank.

"The present Presbyterian church building is new, neat, and white in color. Another very old structure stands near by and sundry old rickety sheds and other structures cluster around it.

"I strolled into the old 'burying ground'—the original one —and made the following notes:

"A fine brownstone monument: 'Oliver W. Wells, d. 3 July, 1866, aet. 70.'

"Our darling Freddie!
"He's not dead; our Freddie sleeps.
"He'll waken by and by
"And we may meet our darling yet
"An angel in the sky.

" 'Here lyeth Ephraim Huit, sometimes teacher to ye church of Windsor, who dyed September 4, 1644.'

"Who when hee lived wee drew our vitall breath
"Who when he dyed his dying was our death
"Who was the stay of state, the churches staff
"Alas, the times forbid an epitaph.

"This epitaph of the old emigrant from England is upon the face of a broken stone slab which forms the side of a raised square tomb or sarcophagus.

"The slab on the opposite side bears an inscription to the memory of John Warham, who came with the original flock to Dorchester in 1630 and thence to Windsor in 1635. Died Apr. 1, 1670. 'Erected by this church, 1842.'

"'Here under lyeth the body of Henry Walcot, sometimes a magistrate of this jurisdiction, who dyed ye 20th day of May.

"'Anno { Salvtis 1655 / Aetatis 77.'

"I have examined nearly every stone in this cemetery in hope of finding the grave of Winchell, but without success. Robert Winchell died here, as also probably Nathanael, and also Nathanael, John and David, sons of Nathanael.

"Here is an old cemetery, 220 years old, and though it encloses probably less than 20 acres, and has been used to this time, it is not yet filled."

RELATION BETWEEN THE WINCHELL AND WINCOLL FAMILIES.

By N. H. Winchell.

In Stiles' History and Genealogies of Ancient Windsor, published in 1859, are to be found many of the historic facts respecting the family of Robert Winchell on which the following sketch depends. Others are from the "town records" and other publications. Winchell and Wincoll were confounded, and were employed interchangeably for the same individual. The existence of these orthographies probably resulted from the different anglicising of the original Saxon name, Winkel, and largely from the impress of the French in softening the hard sound of c; and the confounding of them in the records, both in England and in America, is entirely in keeping with the looseness and irregularities of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

Whether Robert Winchell, one of the earliest of the name known in America, and the probable progenitor of nine-tenths of those bearing the name in America, or any Winchell, was on board the Mary and John in 1630 is uncertain, but there is documentary proof that in 1632 a woman named Elizabeth Winchell, at the age of 52 years, came from London in the Rebecca with John Wincoll, aged 13, who is reported to have been the son of Thomas Wincoll, who came over earlier and presumably brought his wife, Beatrice, with him. On good authority (Savage) it is presumed that Elizabeth's name was Wincoll, and that she was the aunt of the boy who came with her. The same event is recorded, however, in another place in which both names are Winchell, as follows: "Theis underwritten names are to be transported to N. E. embarqued in the Rebecca p'rd.

"Elizabeth Winchell .....52 "Wm. Swayne, aged. .16
"Jo. Winchell .....13 "ffrancis Swayne ....14"

This is taken from a book in the Rolls Office, Chancery Lane, London, on the cover of which is this inscription:

"A Booke of Entrie for Passengers by ye Commission and Souldiers according to ye Statutie passing beyond the seas, begun at Christmas, 1631, and ending at Christmas, 1632.'' (New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Regist., Vol. XIV, p. 307.)

This Elizabeth Winchell (or Wincoll) was probably the wife of John Wincoll (or Winchell), who was at Salem in 1631, and she was doubtless selected as guardian during the voyage of the three youths who sailed with her. This is presumptive evidence (but not conclusive) that John Wincoll ''of Salem'' came with the emigrants in the Mary and John in 1630.

There is a reasonable tradition which is supported by some facts, that the Winchells (or Wincolls) of eastern Massachusetts and of Windsor, Conn., are descendants of three brothers who came to America, and if they came at the same time it was, on the above evidence of the date of the coming of John, in the year 1630, on board the Mary and John, but no other evidence of the coming of Robert on the Mary and John has been found. These brothers were Robert, John and Thomas. Robert was for a time apparently at Dorchester. John settled at first at Salem with his father, and Thomas at Watertown. It is stated, however, in Pope's Pioneers of Massachusetts (but not well authenticated) that a Thomas Wincoll arrived only in 1642. The descendants of John and Thomas retained at first the name Wincoll and formed a considerable family whose relationships have been traced out. (See The Wincolls in America.) There seem, however, to have been some of these who spelled their name Winchell, since, as will be seen in the sequel, there are scattered families which cannot be connected with Robert, who was the only one of the brothers who persisted in the spelling, Winchell.

Dismissing for the present the question of the consanguinity between Robert (Wincoll) Winchell and the Wincolls, let us now direct our inquiries to Robert's origin and history. It has been stated already that Robert was at Dorchester in 1635. There is a record quoted, as follows, from the History of the Town of Dorchester, 1859, p. 39, viz.:

''Robert Winchell was in Dorchester in 1635, and moved to Windsor, had children, Phœbe, baptized Mar. 29, 1638; Mary, Sept. 5, 1641; David, Oct. 22, 1643; Joseph, Apr. 5, 1646; Martha, June 18, 1648; Benjamin, July 11, 1642 (1652). Mr. Winchell died Jan. 21, 1667.''

It might be inferred from this that Robert was a citizen of Dorchester. Yet the name Winchell (nor Wincoll) does not occur in the Narrative History of Good Old Dorchester (Orcutt), 1893; nor in Records of the First Church at Dorchester, by a committee appointed for the purpose; nor in a "list of those made freemen" from May 18, 1631, to the date of Church records, Aug. 23, 1633; and finally, in a "list of the first settlers of the town," in the History of Dorchester, the name is not found. Although there is therefore no evidence that he came with the first migration to Dorchester in 1630, nor indeed that he was a citizen of Dorchester, there is evidence that he was made a freeman.[1] In a History of the First Baptist Church of Boston, from 1665 to 1818, by Rev. James M. Winchell, Boston, 1819, it is stated that the Town Records of Dorchester under date of Jan. 4, 1635, contain this entry:— "16 acres are set off to Robert Winchell, between Roxbury and Dorchester (at the bounds)."[2] Roxbury lies between Boston and Dorchester, and was under the jurisdiction of the General Court of Massachusetts Bay Colony. That Robert was not at this date a citizen of Dorchester but lived either at Salem where his parents (Wincoll) were, or at Boston, is indicated by the act of the General Court of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay, 6 May, 1635, in which his name appears as Robert Wincall, ordering that he be made a freeman.

In the Records of the Governor and Company of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, Vol. I, 1628-1641, p. 370, amongst Miscellaneous Records, is a list of persons made free May 6, 1635. This list includes Robert Wincall.

In Savage's Genealogical Dictionary of the First Settlers of New England, Vol. IV, is an account of "Wincol, Wincall or Winkle," but the name Winchell is not found. Yet Robert is mentioned thus: "Robert, Mass. but of what town can hardly be judged, as all that is known of him is his admission as freeman May 6, 1635."

Except for the statement that Robert Winchell "was at Dorchester in 1635" by the History of the Town of Dorchester, the authority for which is not given, there is not certain evidence, so far as I can find, of his ever living there. Prior to his removal to Windsor he lived apparently either at Boston or Salem, and he had barely had time to get settled on the land allotted to him "at the bounds betwixt Roxbury and Dorchester, at the great hill betwixt the said bounds," before he went to Windsor. He received his land in January, was made freeman in May, 1635, and migrated to Windsor, the same year, or in 1636.

[1] A "freeman" of Massachusetts was one who had the right to vote.

[2] New England Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. XXI, pp. 41 and 335; Publication of the Dorchester Town Records.

In the obscurity that surrounds the date of arrival of Robert Winchell in America, and of the place of his residence prior to his going to Windsor, there appears to be some reason to suggest that he was in some way related to the Elizabeth who came in 1632 in the Rebecca, as already stated, with three boys. It is highly improbable that a woman of this age (52) should come with a young boy without having relatives here before, and it is probable, as already intimated, that Robert Winchell was in some way related to the young John Wincoll who accompanied her. In that case Robert (and his presumed brother Thomas at Salem) came in 1629, or 1630, probably with Governor Endicott of Massachusetts Bay Colony. The arrival of Elizabeth and her young nephew therefore reunited the family, of which the father (Thomas) and the older brother (John of Salem) had come two or three years before. It was no uncommon thing that families were thus separated temporarily, a fact which still is illustrated by the migration at different dates of portions of the same Scandinavian family.

For further discussion of this interesting question the reader may consult the following sections regarding the Wincoll family in England and America.

THE WINCOLLS IN AMERICA.

By N. H. Winchell.

According to Savage's Genealogical Dictionary of New England, there was a John Wincoll at Salem, Mass., in 1631, probably the same as mentioned in a letter by Gov. Endicott to Gov. Winthrop Apr. 12, 1631. Also according to A Booke of Entrie for Passengers by ye Commission and Souldiers passing beyond the Seas (New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Register, vol. XIV, p. 307) a boy of the name of John Winchell (or Wincoll) who was 13 years of age, came in 1632 in the ship Rebecca, accompanied by a woman (Elizabeth Winchell, or Wincoll) who was 52 years of age.

This boy John is probably not the same as "John Winkell" to whom on Feb. 26, 1636, at Watertown was allotted land as one of the townsmen of the town, "at the Bevenbroke Plains, divided and allotted out by the freemen to all the townsmen then inhabiting, being 106 in number," for he was then only 17 years of age. (Convers Francis' Historical Sketch of Watertown, p. 131.)

According to Genealogies and History of Watertown, by Henry Bond, a John Wincoll[1] was made freeman in 1646. If this was the John Wincoll who came with Elizabeth in 1632 (not 1635) of which there is little or no doubt, he was then 27 years of age, the same who, after a residence at Watertown, went to Kittery in Maine (1662) and became a well known and influential citizen and military officer, first at Watertown and later at Kittery. In all cases he is called a "son of Thomas," who was a proprietor of Watertown in 1636-37. His wife's name also was Elizabeth, as shown in Bond's History of Watertown, in connection with the transfer of lands at Watertown, in 1672, to one William Price, and in Cambridge to Daniel Warren. John inherited his father's lands at Watertown in

[1] In Volume VII of the Maine Hist. Gen. Recorder, p. 207, is a record of a town meeting at Kittery, Me., 18 Dec., 1652, when John Wincoll was chosen one of the selectmen. This Wincoll is Winchell in the index of the volume.

1657. He left descendants in Maine. It appears evident, therefore, that there were two men named John Wincoll.

If the foregoing sketches the younger John, what became of the older one, who was at Salem in 1631? He must have been 56 years of age (assuming that he was about the same age as his wife) at the same date (1636) as the allotment of land to Thomas at Watertown, and would naturally remove with Thomas if he were his brother. At least, besides the boy John, we know of no other John Wincoll. He also bought land at Watertown (Town Records, p. 14), and perhaps at Cambridge. He therefore is confounded with the younger John by Bond, who recognizes but one John Wincoll. The record runs smoothly, as Bond gives it, but it must be considered an anomaly, on Bond's hypothesis, that a young man from Salem should become so soon the owner of so much real estate, unless by inheritance. Therefore the earlier portion of the land transactions of "John Wincoll" of Bond may be assigned to "John of Salem," and the later portion to John "son of Thomas." We have no record of the date or place of death of John of Salem, but it was most likely at Watertown and between 1638 and 1662, when the younger John went to Kittery. The only record which I can presumptively refer to John of Salem, aside from the early land transactions at Watertown, is in an account of the expenses for 1650 of the treasurer (Shearman) of Watertown in the Watertown Town Records, I, p. 25, viz.:

Paid "to Winckoll and harmton 6s 9d
"to ould Winckoll 6 —"

It is not stated for what these sums were paid, but it seems likely that the last mentioned was paid to John Wincoll, the elder, for at that date both Thomas of Watertown and John of Watertown were living at Watertown. If the land at Watertown owned by John Wincoll of Salem passed by inheritance to Thomas of Watertown, and if the estate of Thomas was inherited by John of Watertown, both of which are very probable, and the latter a matter of record, that might explain the method by which John of Watertown became so large a land holder prior to his departure for Kittery. At the "first inventory of the grants and possessions" in the Watertown Town Records, Thomas is credited with 14 pieces of land, aggregating 343 acres, including his "homestall of 24 acres," and John's land then (1646), at the "3rd inventory" amounted to 38 acres, in 5 parcels, all in Watertown (p. 127). Thomas of Watertown, here presumed to have been the father of John of Watertown, died June 10, 1657, at about 70 years of age, and that would allow his son the period of 5 years in which to settle the estate of his father prior to his permanent removal to Kittery. The wife of the elder John was Elizabeth, 52 years of age in 1632, and the boy who came with her was the son of Thomas, and therefore as presumed by Savage, was her nephew. It is necessary to assume, therefore, that John of Salem was an elder brother of Thomas of Salem.

There is another line of evidence that there were two John Wincolls, viz.: If the wife of John of Salem, at least 52 years old in 1632, was the wife of John of Watertown (and Kittery) she lived to the age of 94 years and on her death at Kittery, about 1674 (still living Sept. 20, 1673) her husband who was probably no younger than she was, settled a dowry (Feb. 29, 1675) on a second wife, Marie Etherington, whom he married, and had a son by her, viz.:

John Wincoll, Jr., b. about 1676 (Marie died before June 5, 1679).

Now, were there two Thomases? According to the first edition there were two, viz.:

1. Thomas of Salem, son of John of Salem.
2. Thomas of Watertown, whose sons are presumed to have been Humphrey and John.

So far as I can see, Humphrey Winchell (or Wincoll) is a myth. I have found nothing at all about him except what A. Winchell has stated in the first edition. There was a man named Humphrey Wincett at Cambridge, as shown in the Records of the Town and Selectmen of Cambridge, p. 9, and he was allotted 4 acres. I am disposed to believe that in some way Wincett has been confounded with Wincoll by A. Winchell.

That there was a Thomas Wincoll at Salem in 1631 is stated by Felt's Annals of Salem, vol. I, p. 171. If he was the same as Thomas of Watertown, as is almost certain, and died in 1657, at the age of "about 70," he was 44 in 1631 when at Salem. Beatrice was his wife, according to the Watertown Town Records and "dyed the eleventh of June, 1655, aged about 80 years." That is, she died two years before her husband, who was said to have died at the age of "about 70." That Thomas was not a son of John of Salem, is evident from a consideration of his age, 44 years in 1631, in comparison with that of John's wife who at the same date was 52 years of age, and must have been not yet in her "teens" when Thomas was born.

Thomas went to Watertown in 1642 (Pope's Pioneers of Massachusetts) though he seems to have been granted a home lot in 1636 (according to Bond's Genealogies and History of Watertown, p. 1016) when he was about 49 years of age and "was possessed of some of the habiliments of a gentleman." He was not yet a proprietor in 1633 when he appeared before the General Court of Massachusetts, but was styled yeoman, evidently still living at Salem.

In all the data, so far as I have seen them, although there are some ambiguities, I can find no valid reason to infer that there were two Thomas Wincolls, nor that either John of Salem, or Thomas of Watertown was married twice. It is however a singular coincidence that each John had a wife named Elizabeth.

(1) John of Salem (and Watertown) and his wife Elizabeth.
(2) Thomas of Salem (and Watertown) and his wife Beatrice.
(3) John of Watertown (and Kittery) and his wife Elizabeth.

In the foregoing is evidence of the coming to America of two brothers named Wincoll, of their living simultaneously at Salem from 1631 to 1636, and of their migration to Watertown, 1636-1642.

As to Robert Winchell (also called Wincall in the records of the General Court of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay, by which he was made freeman 6 May, 1635) it remains to determine whether he was in any way related by blood to the Wincolls of Salem and of Watertown. The earliest recorded notice that we have of him is that of Jan. 4, 1635, when he was given 16 acres "between Roxbury and Dorchester, at the bounds," or, as stated in another place, "on the hill, not to take in any meadow." This is probably that which later was called Blue Hill, and was occupied in 1775 by the Division of General Thomas in the defense of the harbor of Boston.[1] Why he changed his name to Winchell, after he was made freeman, is a matter simply of conjecture. He was made freeman as Wincall. He received his Dorchester land as Winchill, and settled at Windsor, Ct., as Winchill. But there can be hardly any question that at Dorchester and later at Windsor, Ct., he was the same man who was later known only as Robert Winchell (or Winchel).

There is no known evidence that he ever occupied his lot given him by the Dorchester people, nor that he ever lived at Dorchester. Stiles says he "was at Dorchester" in 1635, but that statement is derived from a general History of the Town of Dorchester, 1859, p. 39, prepared by a committee, and seems to have been based on the fact that he was assigned land on Blue Hill in January of that year. This committee give no other particulars of his being at Dorchester, but they got information concerning him after his removal to Windsor, derived evidently only from the church records at Windsor, since they do not mention the birth of his two elder sons, Nathanael and Jonathan, who were born prior to his going to Windsor. This is strong evidence that he did not live at all at Dorchester, and that he did not enter upon the land "at the bounds between Roxbury and Dorchester."

Where did he live at the time of the birth of his eldest two children? Assuming that he was then in America, the answer must be either Boston or Salem. The other Wincolls were at Salem and it is not likely that he was ignorant of that fact. In that case it would be the most probable residence for a young man with a wife and two small boys. This however was a period of general unrest and migration, whether at Dorchester, Salem or Cambridge. People went from nearly all the towns of Massachusetts to the valley of the Connecticut.

If prior to his going to Windsor (1635-36) we allow four years after his marriage for the birth of his eldest two sons, his marriage was about 1631, the year when we know Thomas and John (the elder) were at Salem. He was younger than either of the others, and received his Dorchester allotment when he had two little boys. The required age for admission to freemanship was 21 years, and it is probable that he was married at about that age, not later than 1631.

Hence the circumstances seem to point to the probable validity of the common tradition of "three brothers" of the name Wincoll, arriving at Salem at about the same date (1630 or 1631). They left no descendants at Salem.

THE EARLY GENEALOGY OF THE FAMILY OF WYNCOLL IN ENGLAND.

BY A. N. WINCHELL.

The Wyncolls formed a prominent family centered about Waldingfield, Suffolk, England, in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. The earliest man certainly known to belong to the family was John Wyncoll (or Wincoll), a clothier in Little Waldingfield, near Sudbury, Suffolk, at the opening of the sixteenth century. He was party to a grant of a messuage in Little Waldingfield in October, 1504. He was a devout Roman Catholic, as shown by his will in which he bequeathes his soul to "our Blessed Lady St. Mary and to all the Heavenly Company of Heaven," and makes several bequests for church purposes. He was wealthy and owned land not only in Little Waldingfield, but also in Groton, in Sudbury, on "Hompell Green" (Hempill Green), and at Bildeston.

An outline genealogy of the family, beginning with John, is given in the Visitations of Leicestershire of 1619 (Harleian Society, Vol. 2, 1870, p. 156). Information concerning the property holdings of the Wyncolls may be found in the Manors of Suffolk, 1905, pp. 243-246, and in the History of Essex, Vol. I, 1836, p. 483. But the most elaborate account of the family is contained in a volume entitled: The Wyncolls of Suffolk and Essex, by Col. C. E. Wyncoll, published in London in 1912, by means of which this account has been corrected and extended.

John Wyncoll, the clothier of Little Waldingfield, Suffolk, was probably descended from a family first mentioned in the records as "Wendecole" in the year 1361, when John Wendecole is named in the Court Rolls of Moules Eleigh, a manor about three miles from Little Waldingfield. Five years later John Wendecole is named as a taster of bread and ale and also as an "Afferor." In 1368, he is named as Chief Pledge, and continues in the office for at least five years. In 1372 he became owner of "Kynggesfen." In 1413 a John Wendecole, presumably the son of the preceding, was fined for an assault and also for not attending the Court, and John Wendecole the younger was fined for not flushing his ditch. John the elder died in 1420 and John the younger (who purchased certain land in 1419) is named as an executor of the will. Both men are named as Chief Pledges the same year; this time the name is spelled Wyndecole. Later, in the Terrier (an old document in the Public Record Office) a name spelled "Wyncolles" seems to refer to the same family. In 1391 Alan Wyndecole and Mabel, his wife, obtained land at Langham, near Colchester, which they sold in 1428; this land was called Wyndecoles in 1443, Wincolls in 1593 and 1609, and Wynkoles in 1620. According to the Court Rolls of Milden, Suffolk, John "Wyncolne" paid rent for land near Milden in 1492; this may well have been 1 John. Hugh Wyncolne was mentioned the same year. In the same Court Rolls in 1543 there is mention of Roger "Wyncoln'' (probably 9 Roger; perhaps 4 Roger) and Robert ''Wyncoln'' (probably 10 Robert); in 1571 the same family name was written ''Wyncoll,'' and in 1595 Roger ''Wyncoll'' (= 32 Roger) and his son John ''Wyncoll'' (= 67 John) are named.

First Generation.

1 John Wyncoll was a clothier, and a resident of Little Waldingfield, Suffolk. He married Alice ——; he died in November, 1521, and his will was proved Nov. 29, 1521, in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury. His wife was still living in 1524.

2 John, probably born at Little Waldingfield.
3 Robert, of Little Waldingfield.
4 Roger, of Netherhall.
5 William.
6 Katherine.

Second Generation.

2 John (1 John).

2 John Wyncoll was probably born at Little Waldingfield, Suffolk. He was a clothier, and was known as ''Black John.'' He married Joan, daughter of William Syday, of Bures, Suffolk. He owned property in Little Waldingfield, Great Waldingfield, Hempill Green, Woodhall, and Lavenham. He died Aug. 12, 1544, and is buried at Little Waldingfield. His wife's will was proved in 1550.

7 John, ''the Rich,'' of Little Waldingfield married 1st, Alice Groom, of Rattlesden, Suffolk, and 2nd, Margaret Gardener, of Ipswich, probably at Little Waldingfield, Nov. 7, 1573. He died in 1580 without issue.
8 William, of Ipswich.
9 Roger, of Clopton.
10 Robert, buried in Little Waldingfield church yard; died without issue.
11 Katherine, m. —— Crypp.
12 Joan, m. —— Cage, of Bures, Suffolk.
13 Mary; a dau. (Mary?) m. —— Wood of Glemsfield.
14 Margaret, m. —— Cowmery.
15 Alice.

3 Robert (1 John).

3 Robert Wyncoll was a ''cloth maker'' of Little Waldingfield; he married Margaret ——; his will was proved Aug. 31, 1531, in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury.

16 Andrew, probably died young; no issue.

4 Roger (1 John).

4 Roger Wyncoll of Little Waldingfield was a clothier and land owner. He purchased the manor of Twinstead in Essex from Christopher Goldingham, and also owned the manor of Bois Hall in Halstead. He married Thomasine, sole heir of —— Page. His will was dated July 1, 1559, and proved in October, 1559. His wife was still living in 1568.

17 Thomasine.
18 Alice.
19 John, only son and heir.
20 Rose, m. Julian Lufflein, of Boxted, Essex.
21 Anne, m. Thomas Rist (and? or?) John Jermyn of Bourley, Essex.
22 Katherine.

5 William (1 John).

5 William Wyncoll of Little Waldingfield was a clothier. He married Joan ——. He died before his father's death, and his will was proved July 11, 1519.

23 Robert.
24 Mary.
25 Joan.
26 Alice.
27 John, probably the John bur. Lavenham, 20 March, 1559.

6 Katherine (1 John).

6 Katherine Wyncoll married —— ——.
28 (One child.)

Third Generation.

8 William (2 John, 1 John).

8 William Wyncoll of Bedford married, 1st, Alice, daughter of Richard Spencer, and sister of Sir John Spencer, Lord Mayor of London. He married, 2d, Margaret, daughter of Robert Vaughan. He died in 1570, his will being proved the same year. He is buried in Little Waldingfield churchyard. He had no known children by his second wife.

29 Anne (or Agnes), m. 1st, at St. Edmunds church, Lombard St., London, on May 21, 1578, Sir Lionel Halliday, Knt., Lord Mayor of London in 1605; m. 2d, Sir Henry Montague, Recorder of London, afterward created Viscount Mandeville and Duke of Manchester. She died without issue and was buried at St. Botolph church, London, on Nov. 14, 1614.
30 Margaret, m. John Spencer, Esq., of Gorton (or Boxford), Suffolk.
31 "Elizabeth, dau. William Wyncoll," bur. June 12, 1573, at Lavenham, was probably dau, of 8 William.

9 Roger (2 John, 1 John).

9 Roger Wyncoll of Clopton, Suffolk, was not yet 23 years old in 1544; he married Anne, fourth daughter of John Gurdon, of Dedham, Essex, who was a clothier, and Lord of the Manor of Roushall in Clopton. Roger died in 1571. An Anne Wyncoll was buried at Little Waldingfield in May, 1573, but Robert Gurdon willed 10£ to his "sister Wyncoll" (probably Anne) April 3, 1578.

32 Roger, of Hitcham.
33 John, of Clopton.
34 Robert, of London.
35 Thomas, of Caxton.
36 William, of London.
37 Richard (of London?).
38 Apollo, of Bildestone.
39 John, of Leicester.
40 Anna, m. —— Garrad, of Bocking, Essex.
41 Maria, m. Thomas Hudson, of London.
42 Alice, m. —— Richardson, of Kersey, Suffolk.
43 George.

15 Alice (2 John, 1 John).

15 Alice Wyncoll married Richard Spencer as his second wife. He was the father and she thus became the step-mother of Sir John Spencer, Lord Mayor of London. She had children; died before 1544.

44 ——?
45 ——?

17 Thomasine (4 Roger, 1 John).

17 Thomasine Wyncoll married William Bogais, gentleman, of Edwardstone, Suffolk; she died before 1559.

47 Alice.
48 (Dau.)

18 Alice (4 Roger, 1 John).

18 Alice Wyncoll married Edward Coleman, clothier, of Great Waldingfield; she was probably dead in 1559 as her father willed money directly to her children.

19 John (4 Roger, 1 John).

19 John Wyncoll of Little Waldingfield, gentleman, married at Thorpe Morieux, Oct. 9, 1557, Margery, daughter of Edward Rose of Nayland, Suffolk, and widow of Robert Risbye of Thorpe Morieux, who died May 4, 1557. John was the only son and heir of his father, Roger, and was a "gentleman," not engaged in business. He owned Netherhall manor in Little Waldingfield and Twinstead manor in Essex, where he held his first court in 1562. He owned also the manor of Harberts in Rayleigh, and lands and tenements in Great and Little Cornard, Brent Eleigh, Milden, Alphamstone, Great Henny, Lamarsh, Pebmarsh, Raweth, and Great Hockley, Essex. He died 24 Dec., 1576, at Netherhall, and is buried in Little Waldingfield. His will was proved in the Archdeaconry of Sudbury, Feb. 25, 1577.

53 Anne, bapt. Thorpe Morieux, Nov. 22, 1558; m. 1st, Richard Huggins of Boxford, Suffolk; m. 2d, —— Taylor; died without issue.

54 Isaac, son and heir, b. Netherhall, 21 March, 1559.

55 Thomasine.

56 Jane, m. Richard Holborough, of Sudbury, later of Middleton, Essex.

57 John, bapt. Thorpe Morieux, 19 May, 1566; living in 1591; died without issue.

58 Bridget, bapt. Thorpe Morieux, 6 July, 1567.

59 Amy, bapt. Thorpe Morieux, 19 Sept., 1569; unmarried in 1592; died at Denham, Suffolk.

22 Katherine (4 Roger, 1 John).

22 Katherine Wyncoll, of Little Waldingfield, married about 1555 Thomas Coe, gentleman, of Belchamp (or Gestinghorp), Essex, who died about 1601.

60 Thomasine, bapt. Great Waldingfield, 20 June, 1557.

61 Edward, born about 1560.

62 Roger, born about 1565; m. —— Clopton; died about 1616.

63 Thomas, bapt. Belchamp, 14 July, 1567.

64 John, born about 1570; m. Anna Kent; no issue.

65 Robert, bapt. Belchamp, 18 May, 1578; died unmarried in 1604.

Fourth Generation.

32 Roger (9 Roger, 2 John, 1 John).

32 Roger Wyncoll of Hitcham was born about 1530; he married Susan, daughter of Thomas Bentock (or Bautof), of Hitcham, Suffolk; he died June 6, 1589, and his will was proved the same year. Susan married, 2d, Joseph Syday, of Hitcham, and, 3d, Bartholomew Church, of Earls Colne, Essex.

66 Elizabeth; in Waldingfield in 1578.

67 John, 5 yrs. and 8 mo. old at father's death.

68 Susan, died without issue.

69 Mary, m. —— Royston.

33 John (9 Roger, 2 John, 1 John).

33 John Wyncoll was rector at Clopton, Suffolk. He married —— ——. The will of "John Wincoll, clerk, of Clopton, Suffolk" was proved in 1598.

70 Dau.

71 Dau.

34 Robert (9 Roger, 2 John, 1 John).

34 Robert Wyncoll was living in London in 1619; he married Anna Crouch of London.

72 Maria, born before 1619.

35 Thomas (9 Roger, 2 John, 1 John).

35 Thomas Wyncoll, of Caxton, Cambridge, married Susanna Madock of Ipswich. He died in 1619.

73 Thomas (possibly Thomas of Watertown, Mass.)

74 Susan. A "Susan, daughter of Thomas" was baptized at Little Waldingfield, Feb. 7, 1584. "Susan, daughter of Thomas," received bequest from her cousin Margaret Gardener, of Ipswich in her will of April 26, 1596. The will of "Susan Wincole of Happton," Suffolk, was proved in 1611.

75 "Abigail, daughter of Thomas," bapt. Little Waldingfield, Oct. 16, 1586. Probably died before 1619.

76 "Anna, daughter of Thomas," bapt. Little Waldingfield, July 10, 1592. Probably died before 1593.

77 "Ann, daughter of Thomas," bapt. Little Waldingfield, Aug. 20, 1593. Probably died before 1619.

36 William (9 Roger, 2 John, 1 John).

36 William Wyncoll probably married and lived in London, as a William, apparently his son, is mentioned in the will of 7 John, "the Rich."

78 William, probably son of 37 William, an apprentice in London in May, 1580.

37 Richard (9 Roger, 2 John, 1 John).

37 Richard Wyncoll seems to have married Ann ——, and lived in London near St. James church, Clerkenwell, since its register of baptisms contains the entry: "July 5, 1625, Robert, son of Richard Winkell and Ann his wife."

79 Robert, bapt. St. James church, London, July 5, 1625. Assumed to be son of 37 Richard.

38 Apollo (9 Roger, 2 John, 1 John).

38 Apollo Wyncoll, of Bildestone, Suffolk, was not yet 23 years old in 1580. He married the daughter of Alan Johnstone; he also married Margaret Durant at Bildestone, Dec. 6, 1604.

80 John.

81 William.

82 Mary. A Mary Wincoll m. Richard Pepes at Horringer, Mar. 21, 1638.

39 John (9 Roger, 2 John, 1 John).

39 John Wyncoll, of Newark, Leicester, was counsellor-at-law of the Middle Temple, London, and Town Counsellor of Leicester. When James I visited Leicester in 1614, John made an oration in Latin. He entered his pedigree in the Visitation of Leicestershire in 1619. He married Anna, daughter of John Dover, of Gloucester.

83 Roger, son and heir, aged 15 in 1619. A Roger Wyncoll was vicar of Morden, 1635-1653. (See Ely Episcopal Record, p. 239.)

43 George (9 Roger, 2 John, 1 John).

A warrant to apprehend George Wyncoll of Little Waldingfield was issued in 1590. A George Wincoll was witness to the will of Edmund Chaplin, father-in-law of 67 John Wyncoll, on Feb. 8, 1618.

84 "Robert, son of George Wyncoll," bapt. Little Waldingfield, Nov. 19, 1595. Assumed to be the son of 43 George.

54 Isaac (19 John, 4 Roger, 1 John).

54 Isaac Wyncoll (or "Wincold") of Netherhall, Suffolk and Twinstead Hall, Essex, was born at Netherhall on March 21, 1559, and inherited nearly all his father's property. He married at Woolverstone, near Ipswich, Suffolk, on June 25, 1581, Mary Gawdy, who was baptized March 10, 1562, and was the daughter of Sir Thomas Gawdy of Gawdy Hall, Norfolk, Judge of the Queen's Bench, and of Anne Spring, a descendant of Sir John Spring, of Hitcham, and Sir William Waldegrave, of Smallbridge. Isaac lived first at Woolverstone, then at Little Waldingfield, and finally at Twinstead Hall, in Essex, which he seems to have built; his arms were reproduced in one of the windows. Isaac was granted special livery in 1580; he leased Ten Hall manor in Suffolk in 1585. His wife, Mary, died Jan. 4, 1610, and was buried at Twinstead church. Isaac married, second, Elizabeth, daughter of Anthony Waldegrave, Esq., of Ferrars, in Bures; she died and was buried at Twinstead April 22, 1631. Isaac died at 80 years of age and was buried at Twinstead, August 20, 1638.

85 Jane, buried Little Waldingfield, Feb. 20, 1589.
86 Judith, bapt. Little Waldingfield, Nov. 27, 1593; m. 1st, John Harrison, clerk, at Twinstead, Oct. 29, 1612; m. 2d, William Richardson, gentleman, Alderman of Hadleigh.
87 Isaac, bapt. Twinstead, 1 Jan. 1594.
88 Amy, buried Twinstead, Mar. 6, 1617. Unmarried.
89 Dau. A "Mary Wincoll" was buried 10 Jan., 1610, at Twinstead.

55 Thomasine (19 John, 4 Roger, 1 John).

55 Thomasine Wyncoll married Thomas Hull, of Denham, Suffolk.

90 Thomas.
91 Robert.
92 Mary.
93 Amy.
94 Jane.

58 Bridget (19 John, 4 Roger, 1 John).

58 Bridget Wyncoll married at Horringer, Aug. 28, 1588, Rev. Thomas Rogers, parson of Horning's Heath. She died in 1615.

95 Robert.

Fifth Generation.

67 John (32 Roger, 9 Roger, 2 John, 1 John).

67 John Wyncoll, of Waldingfield, was born about October, 1583, being less than 6 years old at his father's death. He married Awdrey, daughter of Edmund Chaplin, a clothier of Little Waldingfield, whose will was proved on Feb. 8, 1618, by 67 John Wyncoll and Thomas Bryan; George Wyncoll and Francis Wyncoll were witnesses. John was granted livery in 1607; he was living in 1619.

96 John, not yet 14 in 1618; seems to have died before his father who was survived by two daughters only, Susan and Martha (See Manors of Suffolk, p. 243).
97 Anne, not yet 14 in 1618; seems to have died before her father.
98 Susan, bapt. Little Waldingfield, Oct. 19, 1617.
99 Martha, bapt. Little Waldingfield, July 13, 1619.

87 Isaac (54 Isaac, 19 John, 4 Roger, 1 John).

87 Isaac Wyncoll of Twinstead Hall, Essex, was baptized there January 1, 1594; he was the only son and heir of his father, Isaac. He married Mary, daughter and co-heiress of Thomas Waldegrave, of Ferrars in Bures, Essex; by his marriage he obtained the manors of Peyton Hall and Ravensfield between Pebmarsh and Lamarsh, Essex. Isaac was member of a committee of Parliament in 1644; he inherited Twinstead manor in 1638; he was buried at Bures on August 6, 1650.

100 Isaac, d. young, bur. Twinstead, 24 July, 1620.
101 Thomas, bapt. Bures, Feb. 5, 1621.
102 Elizabeth, bapt. Bures, Oct. 23, 1626.
103 Waldegrave, bapt. Bures, Nov. 6, 1628; bur. there Nov. 20, 1628.
104 Penelope, bapt. Bures, July 8, 1620; m. Isaac Hubbard, of Pebmarsh, Essex.
105 Margarite, bapt. Twinstead, Nov. 16, 1634; bur. there Nov. 27, 1637.
106 Mary, bur. Twinstead, Nov. 8, 1638.
107 Hannah, d. unmarried, Feb. 25, 1680; bur. Twinstead.

Sixth Generation.

101 Thomas (87 Isaac, 54 Isaac, 19 John, 4 Roger, 1 John).

101 Thomas Wyncoll was baptized at Bures, Essex, on February 5, 1621; he was lord of the manors of Twinstead, Netherhall, Peyton Hall, and Ravensfield, and also owned land in Great Henny. He held court at Twinstead on Jan. 17, 1654. He married, first, Mary, eldest daughter of Sir William and Mary Cooke, of Broome Hall, Norfolk, by whom he had three children, Mary, Isaac, and Penelope. She died Dec. 27, 1658. He married, second, Mary, daughter of Joseph and Bridget Spring of Shalford, Essex. He moved to Dedham before his death, which occurred there Jan. 16, 1675.

108 Mary, born Twinstead Hall, Nov. 27, 1653; m. —— Golding.
109 Isaac, b. Twinstead Hall, Jan. 24, 1655; he inherited his father's property in 1675; he died there, unmarried, Mar. 14, 1682, leaving his property to his sister Mary's sons.
110 Penelope, b. Twinstead, Aug. 22, 1656; bur. St. Michael's Church, Cornhill, London, Jan. 20, 1659.
111 Thomas (''Spring''), b. Twinstead, June 6, 1663.
112 John, b. Twinstead, June 24, 1664; vicar of Bovedge near Woodbridge, Suffolk, in 1727.
113 Catherine, b. Twinstead, Aug. 6, 1669.

Most of the property of the Wyncoll family passed into the possession of William and Edward Golding, sons of 108 Mary, upon the death in 1682 of 109 Isaac. 111 Thomas Wyncoll was ignored in his brother's will; he adopted the name ''Spring'' from that of his mother. He married Dorothy Umfreville of Langham Valley, Essex. His descendants through seven generations to those living in 1912 are given in The Wyncolls of Suffolk and Essex. They include Charles Edward Wyncoll, Colonel in His Majesty's Army, living in London in 1912, and William Wrench Wyncoll, of Colchester, as well as others living in Suffolk, England, South Australia, West Australia, etc.

GENEALOGY OF THE WINCOLLS IN AMERICA.

BY A. N. WINCHELL.

"John Wincoll of Salem."

The record of John at Salem in 1631 seems to be a mistake. He is mentioned by Savage[1] with a reference to Felt, but Felt[2] names Thomas at Salem in 1631 and does not mention John. If there was a John at Salem in 1631 then Elizabeth, who came over in 1632, was probably his wife and John who came with her was probably his son. If there was no John at Salem then Elizabeth was probably the first wife of Thomas, and John, who came with her, was probably the only John Wincoll in the colony for some years. It is certain that John Wincoll of Watertown was granted land there on July 25, 1636 (when the John who came over with Elizabeth was only 17), and again on June 28, 1637. In 1658 a John Wincoll was deputy from Watertown to the Assembly. No descendants of any "John of Salem" are known.

1 Thomas Wincoll of Watertown.

1 Thomas Wincoll was in Salem in 1631; he sold land in Cambridge in 1637; he was granted land in Watertown in 1642; he died at Watertown June 10, 1657, "aged about 70." His wife Beatrice died at Watertown June 1, 1655, "aged about 80." He was a brother-in-law of Thomas Hewson a merchant of London who owned stock in the Massachusetts Bay Company, and who was a "brother" of Mr. Gurdon of Assington, Suffolk. Beatrice may have been his second wife and Elizabeth, who came to America in 1632, when 52 years old, may have been his first wife. He had a son (2) John.

2 John Wincoll of Watertown and Kittery (1 Thomas).

2 John Wincoll, son of Thomas of Watertown, administered the latter's estate. His wife Elizabeth was still living at Kittery in Maine, Sept. 20, 1673, but died soon after, since he made a marriage settlement on Marie Etherington of Kittery on Feb. 29, 1675. His wife Marie died before June 5, 1679. John married, third, Olive, widow of Roger Plaisted, before Sept. 16, 1682. She was then well along in years, being the mother of at least 3 and probably 7 children. John died Oct. 22, 1694; he was a "brother" of Thomas Broughton of Massachusetts. He had a son (3) John Wincoll, Jr.

3 John Wincoll, Jr., of Kittery, Maine (2 John, 1 Thomas).

3 John Wincoll, Jr., was the son of John and his second wife Marie; therefore he was born between 1675 and 1679. He married Deborah —— before 1699. He was called a "mariner" in Kittery in 1709 and was a sloop appraiser at Portsmouth, N. H., on June 21, 1709. In 1708 he was Captain of a company from Portsmouth at Fort William and Mary at New Castle. In 1711 he was Captain of a company sent against Port Royal (in Canada) from New Hampshire. He died about 1714 and his widow Deborah administered his estate Nov. 12, 1715. He is supposed to have had the following family:

4 John.
5 Deborah, bapt. Portsmouth, N. H., 27 May, 1709, at North Church.
6 Isaac, bapt. Portsmouth, N. H., 27 Oct., 1711, at North Church.
7 Mary.

4 John Wincoll of Boston (3 John, 2 John, 1 Thomas).

4 John Wincoll (supposed to be son of John, Jr.) married Lucy Lee at Boston, April 22, 1725. They had a son named (8) John born June 23, 1726, at Boston. The will of John Wincoll was administered in Suffolk County, Mass., in 1739. (According to Index to Probate Records of Suffolk County, Mass. it was case No. 7288.) He is supposed to have had a daughter (9) Mary. Widow Lucy Wincoll of Boston was left £13 6s in the will of Mary Ireland made 18 Oct., 1761. A widow "Winkell" was granted public aid in Boston in April, 1769.

5 Deborah Wincoll of Boston (3 John, 2 John, 1 Thomas).

Deborah Wincoll (supposed to be daughter of John, Jr., and his wife Deborah) married Ebenezer Wright at Boston on Oct. 17, 1728.

6 Isaac Wincoll of Kittery (3 John, 2 John, 1 Thomas).

Isaac Wincoll (supposed to be son of John, Jr.), was a witness in Kittery in 1734. He married Mehitable Whitney, daughter of John and Lettice Whitney, in Kittery in 1737. He is supposed to have had a son (10) Joseph.

7 Mary Wincoll of Boston (3 John, 2 John, 1 Thomas).

Mary Wincoll (supposed to be daughter of John, Jr.) married Jonathan Read at Boston on Jan. 21, 1724.

9 Mary Wincoll of Boston (4 John, 3 John, 2 John, 1 Thomas).

Mary Wincoll (supposed to be daughter of John of Boston) married Thomas Allen at Boston on Aug. 15, 1754.

10 Joseph Wincoll of Portsmouth (6 Isaac, 3 John, 2 John, 1 Thomas).

Joseph Wincoll (supposed to be son of Isaac of Kittery) signed his name by a mark as evidence of loyalty to the Continental Congress in Portsmouth, N. H., in 1775. The next year he was a private in Captain James Arnold's company in Colonel Joshua Wingate's regiment which was raised to attack Ticonderoga. He was still in the Continental army in 1780 when he was 32 years old. In 1790 he was living in Portsmouth, N. H., and had three daughters, including Mary, who was baptized at North Church, 2 Jan., 1774.

No other persons of the Wincoll name are known to have lived in America at any time.

Plan of the Records and Explanation of Abbreviations.

In the following pages an attempt is made to indicate the relationships of all persons born in America with the surname of Winchell, and also all whose mothers were born with that name. The members of the great Windsor Branch are first arranged in order, and after them the other Branches. In each Branch the names are arranged by generations and in each generation by families. In each family the children are given in order of seniority, and in all succeeding generations descendants of an older child precede descendants of a younger child.

Each Branch begins with the earliest known ancestor, whose name and number are given in black-faced type at the left margin of the page; this is followed by the date and place of his birth, marriage, and death, and the name of the person whom he married; next, his children are given in the order of their birth; finally, all other known facts of interest concerning him are stated.

Immediately after the name of each head of family the first names (and numbers) of his Winchell ancestors are given in parentheses in regular order.

In each family the names of children who become heads of families in the next generation are printed in black-faced type; the children of any one of these may be found by turning forward to the next generation and finding his number in black-faced type in its numerical order at the left margin of the page.

Any one person has only one number (always printed before the name) in this book; the number is in ordinary type in that generation in which the person is one of the children of a family; the same number in black-faced type at the left margin of the pages precedes the name of the same person where he stands as head of a family.

So many additions have been made that it has been found impracticable to retain for each individual the number used in the first edition.

The date and place of birth of each person are given when first mentioned; if he is the head of a family in the next generation his full history is given there.

The "old style" chronology, found in many old records, has been changed, whenever possible, to conform to present usage.

The letter b stands for "born," m for "married," d for "died," bapt. for "baptized," w for "wife," dau. for "daughter," s. for "son," ch. for "child" or "children." The preposition "at" is commonly omitted in records of births, marriages, and deaths.

Suppose a reader wishes information regarding Calvin Winchell. He should turn first to the index where under "Winchell, Calvin" page references are given to each mention of that name in the book. If the name happens to be a common one in the Winchell family there may be several or even many page numbers listed. It is necessary to turn to each successively until the correct one is found, unless the reader knows the name of some member of Calvin's family, or, better, the maiden name of his wife. By turning to that name (Rhoda Sawyer) a single page reference will direct the reader immediately to the family wanted. On that page, 1285 Calvin Winchell is printed in black-faced type at the left margin of the page and followed by several names and numbers in parentheses. The first name (and number) thus given is the first name of Calvin's father, the second name is his grandfather, etc. The first paragraph gives the date and place of Calvin's birth, marriage, and death, and the maiden name of his wife. Then follows a list of his children (with their serial numbers) in order of birth. Three of these children became heads of families and their names are printed in black-faced type (2559 Josiah B., 2560 Daniel, and 2562 Sarah M.). Calvin's grandchildren may be found by turning forward to the place where these numbers occur in numerical order in the series of black-faced numbers at the left margin of the page. Similarly the account of the family of each of Calvin's male ancestors may be found by turning backward to the place where the number of the given ancestor (name and numbers given in the list in parentheses after Calvin's name) occurs in numerical order in the series of black-faced numbers.

The number of the generations in this book refers to the heads of families. For example, the "Fifth Generation" embraces the fifth generation of heads of families, beginning with Robert as the founder of the Branch. Those children (of these heads of families of the fifth generation) who later had families appear as heads of families in the "Sixth Generation."

For directions to find the relationship between two persons of the same Branch and generation, see page 501.

WINDSOR BRANCH.

FIRST GENERATION.

1 ROBERT WINCHELL. Robert Winchell was probably born in England. His possible relationship to earlier Winchells and to Wincolls of England and America has been discussed in the Introduction. He was at Dorchester, Mass., at least as early as 1634, but removed to Windsor, Conn., about 1635. He died at Windsor, 21 Jan., 1668, and his wife died there, 10 July, 1655. He had the following family:

2 Nathanael, born probably about 1633 either in England or Massachusetts, and brought to Windsor with his parents about 1635.
3 Jonathan, born probably about 1634, probably in Massachusetts.
4 Phebe, b. Windsor, Ct., bapt. 29 Mar., 1638; d. Windsor, 23 May, 1662.
5 Mary, b. Windsor; bapt. 5 Sept., 1641; d. Windsor, after 1668.
6 David, b. Windsor; bapt. 22 Oct., 1643.
7 Joseph, b. Windsor; bapt. 5 Apr., 1645; d. before 1668, as he was not named in his father's will.
8 Martha, b. Windsor; bapt. 18 June, 1648; d. Windsor, 12 July, 1655.
9 Benjamin, b. Windsor; bapt. 11 July, 1652; d. Windsor, where he was buried 24 June, 1656.

In the History of the First Baptist Church in Boston from 1665 to 1818, by Rev. James M. Winchell, Boston, 1819, is an extract from Dorchester Town Records, Jan. 4th, 1635: "It is ordered that the p'tyes here underwritten shall have lotts at the bounds betwixt Roxbury and Dorchester, at the great hill betwixt the said bounds, and above the marsh as fol. not to inclose medowe."

In the list of twenty persons receiving from 16 to 30 acres is the name of Robert Winchill (from publication of Dorchester Town Records, by N. E. Hist. Geneal. Soc., vol. XXI, pp. 41 and 335).

As Robert probably migrated to Windsor in 1635 he probably made no permanent settlement on this land, and with his wife and two boys he may have lived at Dorchester. Opposed to this is the consideration that had he lived there his oldest two children would have been born there, of which there is no known record.

Robert Wincall (Winchell?) was made a freeman at the General Court of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay, 6 May, 1635.

It is surprising to find that Robert Winchell (with William Smarley) bought land[1] in Isle of Wight Co., Virginia, from Anthony Jones, March 25th, 1639. There is, however, no evidence that he went to Virginia, and it may be surmised that Smarley acted for both purchasers. No Winchells are known to have been in Virginia till about 200 years later.

Robert Wynchell was on the Jury in Conn., 1 Aug., 1644, and 30 June, 1646. (Rec. Gen. Court, Conn.)

From the Town Records of old Windsor, it appears that certain lands were assigned to Robert on the first division of the public domain among the original immigrants. The following is a copy of some of the original records entered by Matthew Grant, "Dec. 25th, 1640":

"Robert Winchel hath granted from the plantation an home lot, with the additions to it, nine acres, more or less, the breadth twelve rod, the length from the meadow bounds to George Phillips his land, bounded by Joshua Carter, north, and Joseph Clarke, south."

"Also, in the meadow adjoining, five acres and a half, more or less, in breadth nine rods, the length from the upland down to the Great River, [the Connecticut] bounded by Thomas Dibble, north, Joseph Clark, south."

"Toward Pine meadow fourteen acres and quarter, in breadth fourteen rods and quarter, the length from the great river back to the east one hundred and sixty rod."

"Robert Winchel hath exchanged with Thomas Dibble the lying of his meadow, and now stands bounded north by Samuel Gaylord, south by Anthony Hawkins."

"Thomas Dewey, legal attorney to Nicholas Canope and his wife Eady, formerly Eady Filley."

"Robert Winchel hath purchased of Thomas Dewey the house and land on which it stands, which was formerly belonging to Eady Filley, being in quantity three quarters of an acre, more or less, as it lies bounded by the land of Samuel Gaylord, north, of William Hannum, south, Thomas Buckland, his meadow, east, and the highway, west.

[1] Va. Mag. Hist. Biog., vol. V., p. 407.

"Also, in the great meadow,[1] two acres, more or less, being in length from the home lots down to the Great River.

"Also hath purchased the half of Thomas Buckland's meadow, five acres and a half, more or less, in breadth ten rod, in length from the home lots to the great river. Bounded north by Peter Tilton, south by a highway."

"Also by exchange with William Hannum, his home lot, three quarters of an acre, more or less, in breadth five rod and six foot, in length from the highway down to the meadow bounds, bounded by the land of said Robert which he purchased of Eady Filley, north, and the land of Joshua Carter, dec'd, south."

The "home lot" of Robert was located toward the north end of Windsor Main Street, north of the Farmington River, on the south east corner of Main Street and the Bissell's Ferry Road which leads to the ferry over the Connecticut River. (Stiles' Hist. of Ancient Windsor.) A neat wooden framed dwelling occupied the site of the ancient homestead, owned by Mr. Cushing in 1867.

Under date of "Feb. 29th, 1659," Matthew Grant records another transaction in real estate by which Robert acquired 3½ acres. He made still another acquisition of 8 acres, 25 Oct., 1660. On the 30 Nov., 1663, Robert entered into an agreement to maintain a fence between his land and that of Joseph Clarke.

The whole amount of land acquired by Robert was at least 48 or 50 acres. He seems to have borrowed money of one Abigail Alcott, of Hartford, to the amount of "forty-two pounds, three shillings and one penny." "For the payment of the said sum," says the record of the mortgage, "I am to have three years time, beginning on the second day of April, 1667, and end the second of April, 1670, which said three years I am to pay yearly rent after eight pounds pr. 100 in wheat and peas, at the price current; and for her more certain security" he mortgaged two parcels of land. But he died in 1668.

Jan. 18th, 1660, Robert was enumerated among the householders of Windsor, and was rated 6s for a seat in the church for himself and wife.

Robert's will is dated 1668, and bequeathes his estate to his three sons, Nathanael, Jonathan and David, and his daughter Mary. The inventory showed an estate valued at nearly £62, or $310, no small sum for early colonial days. His will[1] was not written, but the following certificate, dated 20 Jan., 1668, was probated three days later.

[1] This was the flat lying between the river and the upland. The home lots were on the upland bordering the great meadow.

"We, the undersigned do witness that, being with Robert Winchell that night in which he died, desired us to take notice that if he lived not till the next morning, and so could not have it written, that this was his will: That before anything was meddled with all his debts should be paid, and that his two sons Jonathan and David should have the lands on the northwest of the Highway, this being all the lands he had left, only Jonathan should have the north side and David the south side. Sister Randall says: 'What shall your daughter have?' He answered: 'I have done for her already. And as for my eldest son, he is in my debt; I acquit him that; yet let them have something.' And said also: 'I desire that you two and Brother Phelps would be my overseers.' To this we set our hands.

"Memo. He expressed that what was left of his estate besides his debts his two sons Jonathan and David should have.

SECOND GENERATION.

2 NATHANAEL WINCHELL (1 Robert). Born probably in Massachusetts or England about 1633, and brought to Windsor, Ct. with his parents. Married 8 Apr., 1664, Sarah Porter, dau. of Thos. Porter, of Farmington, Ct. She was born in 1646, bapt. 24 July, 1653, and died Windsor, 7 Oct., 1725. He died Windsor, 8 Mar., 1700. His will is given in Early Conn. Probate Records, I, p. 599.

10 Nathanael, b. Windsor, 7 Aug., 1665.
11 Thomas, b. Windsor, 25 May, 1669.
12 Sarah, b. Windsor, 26 Dec., 1674.
13 Stephen, b. Windsor, 13 Aug., 1677; bapt. 26 Aug., 1677.
14 John, b. Windsor, 1680.
15 Mary, b. Windsor, 1683.

In the old Windsor Land Records I find the following under date as early as "Dec. 15th, 1658": "Nathanael Winchel hath by purchase of John Hakes, two acres of meadow in the great meadow, in breadth three rod and half, more or less, bounded north by a highway, south by the meadow of Samuel Gaylord, east by the great river, west by the bounds of the home lots in the swamp." Nathanael had, however, been made freeman, 21 May, 1657.

"Feb. 16th, 1664. Nathanael Winchel hath land made over to him by his father, and to his heirs forever, viz.:—his dwelling house, orchard and lands pertaining to it on the east side of the street, one acre and half more or less, as it bounds north by the lands of Samuel Gaylord, south by the land of John Strong, west by the street, east by the swamp at the bounds of the meadow."

"This may certify that the above specified parcel of land recorded to Nathanael Winchel, he stood possessed of in the year 1668, and since to this day, in his own right, without any person claiming and prosecuting the claim thereto, in due form of law, as they had heard of, as appears by the testimony of John Bissill, Sr., and that it may be confirmed to him according to law, we have here signed to this record, seventh day of June 1684.

BENJAMIN NEWBERRY, Commissr.
HENRY WOLCOTT, Register.
THOMAS BISSILL, Select Man.

(Land Records, Book I, p. 71)

The following is an abstract of further transactions in real estate by Nathanael:—

Feb. 18, 1664. Obtained of Henry Stiles 3½ acres in Windsor, "for good consideration," (Bk. I. p. 178.)

Feb. 27, 1670. Bought of Joseph Gillet one acre on east side of the river. Also adjoining this "one acre and half." Latter, "made over again to John Styles."

Apr. 25, 1673. Bought of Thomas Buckland 4 acres in Windsor. Also "of his brothers Jonathan and David, both jointly, all that land that was their father's, Robert Winchel, deceased, and was bequeathed to them and made over to them, as it lies on the westerly side of the common highway or street, as it lies bounded easterly against the common street, in breadth twenty-three rod and half, more or less, and is bounded north on the land of John Denslow and south by land of Thomas Dible, Senr., and for the length of it, from the common street until it comes over the wood swamp to the land of George Phillips Stoughton, and may be in quantity sixteen acres more or less. * * * "This made over. Witness, Matthew Grant."

Under same date Nathanael pays off the mortgage made by his father to Abigail Alcott, and thus comes into possession of two parcels of land. Nathanael was now sole proprietor of the estate left by his father.

Sep. 11, 1677. Nathanael obtained from Samuel Gaylord of Windsor, by exchange, two parcels of land, 5 acres, on the west side, and one parcel on the east side of the river. Certified to him by the town officers 7 June, 1684.

Feb. 27, 1679. Nathanael sold John Osborn, Jr., one acre on the east side of the river. (Bk. I. p. 31.)

Feb. 22, 1681. Nathanael bought of John Gaylord for 39 pounds, 10 acres on east side—ten rods on the river and 3 miles 10 rods east.

He signed, May 13, 1680, along with 89 others, a petition addressed to "The Honored, the Genl. Assembly of ye Colony of Connecticut," asking the establishment of an organized town on the east side of the Connecticut River and the institution of the Second Church of Windsor.

His wife Sarah, like most of the women of her time, was unable to sign her name. She was admitted to the Windsor Church, Aug. 1671. Savage says her father was of Hartford, but he may have moved thither after Sarah's marriage.

A Sarah Winchel, of Windsor, married Joseph Judd, of Farmington, 3 June, 1713 (Farmington Town Records). As Nathanael's wife was only 53 at the time of his death, and her own relatives belonged in Farmington, this was probably Nathanael's widow.

3 JONATHAN WINCHELL (1 Robert). Born probably in Massachusetts before 1635. Married 16 May, 1666, at Farmington, Ct., Abigail Bruson, dau. of Richard Bruson (sometimes Brownson). She was born about 1644 and was baptized 29 May, 1659; she d. Suffield, 27 March, 1710. He m. 2d widow Mary Townsley, Suffield, March, 1713, who d. 10 Feb., 1729. He d. 5 March, 1715.

16 Jonathan, b. Windsor, Feb., 1667.
17 Jonathan, b. Windsor, 14 Feb., 1669.
18 Benjamin, b. Windsor, 28 June, 1674.
19 Abigail, b. Suffield, Conn., 18 June, 1679.

There may have been a younger daughter Phebe, since Phebe Winchell of Suffield m. Thomas Kent, 27 Oct., 1708.

The first wife's name is Bruson in the Windsor records, and Brownson in Savage's Geneal. of New England. The latter also states that she was perhaps the daughter of Richard Brownson of Farmington. There is some doubt whether there were two Jonathans among the ch. The first is given in Genealogical Register, vol. v., p. 363.

Jonathan was on the freemen's list in 1659. He was on the list to work the roads on the east side of the river in June, 1672 (Stiles' Anc. Wind. 223). The same year he signed a petition for the organization of a new society on that side of the river. In 1673 he made over jointly with his brother David to their brother Nathanael all the property on the west side of the highway, which had been bequeathed to them by their father, "sixteen acres more or less." (See under Nathanael.) About this time he probably removed to Suffield.

Jonathan Winchell was the sixth original grantee of Suffield, Conn., 16 May, 1671, receiving 60 acres.

6 DAVID WINCHELL (1 Robert). Born at Windsor; bapt. 22 Oct., 1643; m. first Elizabeth Filley, dau. of William and Margaret Filley of Windsor, 17 Nov., 1669. She was born 4 Mar., 1650. He died 29 Dec., 1723 (probably at Suffield, Ct.).

20 Joseph, b. Windsor, 13 Sept., 1670; bapt. 18 Sept., 1670.

David married, second, 1 May, 1672, Mary Griffin of Windsor.

21 Christian, b. Windsor, 9 Mar., 1673.
22 Elizabeth, b. Windsor, 7 Dec., 1675.
23 Martha, b. Suffield.
24 David, b. Suffield, 19 March, 1682.
25 Mary, b. Suffield, 8 Feb., 1685.
26 Jedediah, b. Suffield, 13 March, 1688; d. Suffield, 1690.
27 Jedediah, b. Suffield, 29 Dec., 1690; m. Thankful Smith, of Suffield, 1710; she was b. 13 May, 1692; he d. Suffield.
28 Samuel, b. Suffield, 9 June, 1693.

Mary Griffin was daughter of John of Windsor, and was b. 1646, and d. 23 June, 1728. John was one of the first settlers of Simsbury, where he had a grant of land as a reward for the introduction of the manufacture of pitch and tar. He was representative for some years and died in 1681, leaving ten children.

Under date of 25 Apr., 1673, David sold to his brother Nathanael all of his paternal estate lying on the west side of the highway at Windsor. In the record of voluntary contributions for the relief of families distressed by "King Philip's War," David Winchel stands credited for 2s 6d.—date 1676. From this time David disappears from the Windsor records and his subsequent history is found in the records of Suffield. I have not been able, however, to obtain abstracts from the Land Records there.

Mr. H. S. Sheldon writes from West Suffield, May 20, 1882, that David and Jonathan were "among the first settlers of this town, and were its most prominent and useful citizens."

David Winchell was the seventh grantee of Suffield, Conn., May 16, 1671, receiving 60 acres. He was sent on an expedition to Springfield, Mass., July 26, 1666; he was made a freeman in 1671; and was selectman and surveyor for 25 years, surveying 9000 acres.

THIRD GENERATION.

10 NATHANAEL WINCHELL (2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Windsor, 7 Aug., 1665; bapt. Aug. 19, 1677; m. 1st, Mary (or Mercy?) Graves of Hartford, 15 Mar., 1694; d. Farmington, 4 Oct., 1741. A farmer and weaver, a sergeant in the military service. Removed to Turkey Hills (in Windsor), and thence to Farmington. Married 2d, about 1700, Mary, widow of John Root. Mercy Graves was dau. George Graves of Hartford, Repre. from Middletown in 1658, and at one time marshal of the colony. He m. 2 Apr., 1651, Eliz. Ventris; d. 3 Dec., 1692. He was son of George Graves, an original proprietor and Repre. in 1657.

29 Nathanael, b. Windsor, 23 Dec., 1694.
30 Hannah, b. Windsor, 5 Nov., 1695; m. Ebenezer Hurlbut, 11 May, 1710. He was s. of John, of Middletown, and b. 17 Jan., 1683.
31 Hezekiah, b. Windsor, 20 June, 1697.
32 Mercy, b. Windsor, 29 Feb., 1700. A Mercy Winchell married Amos Bronson of Farmington 13 June, 1748. (Town Records.)
33 Zebediah, b. Windsor. A Zebediah Winchell died 16 Feb., 1698.

June 15, 1708. Nathanael Winchel, of Windsor, weaver, conveyed to John Winchel and Josiah Phelps (brother and brother-in-law) for "divers good causes and considerations" a tract on the east side of the river, 11 rods broad and 3 miles long, being 66 acres.

Oct. 21, 1709. Nathanael Winchel of Windsor, weaver, purchased of Capt. Thos. Stoughton of Windsor, for 19 pounds, a piece of land on the east side of the river in the town of Windsor, partly upland and partly meadow land—"it being the same land that I, said Stoughton, lately bought of the said Winchel, and is 9 rods in breadth and 3 miles in length," (54 acres) "bounded north by lands of said Nathanael Winchel or Josiah Phelps and John Winchel."

Oct. 22, 1700. John Winchel conveyed to his "loving brother Nathanael Winchel of Farmington," all that land on the east side of the river which was formerly Nathanael's—20 rods wide and 3 miles long.

At the same date Nathanael Winchel of Farmington, weaver, and Mary his wife, for 90 pounds, conveyed to John Gaylord Jr. a tract on the east side of the river 20 rods broad and 3 miles long (120 acres). Signed by Sarah Winchel (mother, who made her mark), Nathanael Winchel and Mary his wife (who also made her mark).

Dec. 8, 1713. Nathanael Winchel, at the annual meeting of the Great Swamp Parish (now Kensington) at the southeastern boundary of Farmington, was chosen to take care and get firewood for Mr. Burnham, the minister. 8 Dec., 1714, he was chosen one of the moderators. 6 Dec., 1716, voted by the society, "to give Nath'l Winchel ten shillings for his son's beating the drum on the Sabbath for the year past, to be paid in Mr. Burnham's rate this year." 7 Jan., 1716-17, the society by vote, seated the inhabitants in the "meeting house" and Nathanael Winchel Sen. was one of six to occupy the "first seat in the square body."

The old town of Farming, till 1785, embraced localities which in this book are designated "Farmington," "Berlin," "Kensington," "Worthington," and "New Britain." In 1785, a new town, Berlin, was set off (principally) from Farmington, which included Kensington, Worthington and New Britain. In 1850 New Britain was set off from Berlin and made a town by itself. The society called Kensington has therefore always been known as such since 1722. It was in the town of Farmington till 1785, and has been in the town of Berlin ever since. The same is true of Worthington, or East Berlin.

11 THOMAS WINCHELL (2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Windsor, 25 May, 1669; m. Windsor, Ct., 26 Apr., 1690, Sarah Moore, who was b. there 6 Dec., 1672; d. August, 1697, Windsor. His widow administered the estate 2 Sept., 1697, and m. 18 July, 1700, 18 Benjamin. Thomas' will is given in Early Conn. Probate Records, I, p. 600.

13 STEPHEN WINCHELL (2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Windsor, 13 Aug., 1677; bapt. Aug. 19, 1677; m. Abigail Marshfield, 10 Mar., 1698; d. before 1728.

48 Stephen, b. Windsor, 20 Nov., 1698.

49 Thomas, b. Windsor, 2 Apr., 1700.

50 Caleb, b. Windsor, 6 Dec., 1701; m. Mary Owen. At Poquonnock (a society of Windsor) in 1723. On the 26 Jan., 1729, Caleb bought of Josiah Higley for 42 pounds, 16 acres of land in Simsbury towards the northeast corner adjoining land belonging to Stephen Winchel, Senr.

Mar. 14, 1734, Caleb and his brothers Thomas, Robert, Martin and Stephen divided among themselves the 100-acre lot in Simsbury, bequeathed to them by their father.

Jan. 26, 1736, Caleb bought of Josiah Bissell of Windsor for 46 pounds, 46 acres of land in Simsbury adjoining other land already in his possession.

On the same date, Caleb sold to Isaac Owen, Jr., for 12 pounds 10 shilling, 13 acres of land in Windsor, adjoining Caleb's land in Simsbury.

Dec., 1742, Caleb deeded to the representatives of the town of Windsor for a highway 13 acres of land, and received in exchange 12¼ in another location.

May 31, 1743, Caleb of Windsor bought of his brother Robert of Simsbury, for 300 pounds, 50 acres of land at Turkey Hills (a society in the west part of Windsor, now E. Granby).

Oct. 25, 1743. In the division of the "Windsor town commons," Caleb Winchel received lot 275 amounting to 20 acres and 80 rods.

Apr. 3, 1744, Caleb of Windsor, for 1200 pounds bought of John Lewis of Simsbury two tracts of land at Turkey Hills—one of 40 acres, the other of one acre and a dwelling house.

Nov. 16, 1745, Caleb of Windsor, for 560½ pounds, sold Gideon Moore of Simsbury, land at Turkey Hills with a dwelling house thereon.

On the same day he bought of Samuel Griswold of Simsbury for 32 pounds, 16 acres of land at Turkey Hills—the same which Robert Winchel lately sold said Griswold.

Dec. 11, 1752. In a division of common and undivided lands in the town of Windsor, on the west side of the river, a lot was assigned to Caleb Winchel, containing 24 acres.

Sept. 1, 1756, Caleb, still at Windsor, deeded land to Thomas Winchel of Simsbury (see 49 Thomas).

The foregoing information from the public records of Windsor and Simsbury is all that has been learned of Caleb. He seems to have been a citizen of respectability and worth.

51 Dorothy, b. Windsor, 2 Oct., 1703.
52 Robert, b. Windsor, 28 May, 1705.
53 Martin, b. Windsor, 23 Dec., 1708.

13 Stephen was unable to write. Under date of 23 June, 1707, Samuel Wilcoxon, Senr., of Simsbury, "for a valuable sum of silver money to the quantity of ten pounds" conveyed to Stephen Winchel, "husbandman," of Windsor, a parcel of land in Simsbury township "amongst a teer of lots towards Symsberry north-east corner bounds, being the 17th lot there." Deemed 80 or 90 acres.

June 4, 1708. Stephen of Windsor, for 44 pounds, conveyed to John of Windsor 10 acres of meadow, being part of a home-lot west of the river and north of the rivulet (Farmington River).

Under same date Samuel Gibbs, for 30 pounds, conveyed to Stephen and John Winchel, both of Windsor, 10 acres.

June 13, 1711. Stephen, late of Windsor, now resident of Simsbury, deeded to his brother John, of Windsor, for 12 pounds 10 shillings paid, and 5½ pounds "secured in the law to be paid to me within half a year after the decease of my honored mother Sarah Winchel," a piece of land in the great meadow, 2 acres, "being one half of the 4 acres which was set out to me out of my father's estate as part of my portion." Two thirds of this was to the use of John Winchel immediately, and the other third after the death of his mother.

Under the same date Stephen conveyed the other half of the same real estate to his brother-in-law Samuel Gibbs, Jr.—two thirds for immediate possession and one third on the death of their mother.

Sep. 30, 1715. Stephen of Simsbury purchased of Enoch Phelps for 21 pounds, 10 acres in Windsor, at a place "known as Salsbery Plain."

In a division of the commons lying a mile to the east of the 3-mile tracts on the east side of the river, and a half mile to the west, on the west side of the river, lot 321 was assigned in 1723 to Stephen Winchel's heirs, containing 4¾ acres. Again, in a survey of lands in Simsbury belonging to several persons who had grants made to them by the town, at their town meeting 2 Jan., 1733, 88 acres were laid out to the heirs of Stephen Winchel. At still another division, same date, 3 acres (lot No. 5) were laid out to the heirs of Stephen Winchel, "on the west side of the mountain near the copper hill." Finally, in a division of the "equivalent land, so called," in the township of Windsor, consummated 1 May, 1743, lot 149 in the first tier, was assigned to Stephen Winchel's heirs, containing 16 acres and half.

14 JOHN WINCHELL (2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Windsor, 1680; m. 3 Jan., 1706, Martha Eno (b. 6 Apr., 1685); d. Windsor, 1733. A "husbandman." Inventory of his estate, 5 July, 1733, amounted to £110.

54 John, b. Windsor, 5 Apr., 1707; living in 1753 at Windsor; d. 5 Dec., 1773. 24 Apr., 1733, he received from his father certain lands in Torrington. He was in Maine with his brother Samuel as early as 1743 when he signed a petition. John (=54?) was soldier in Deerfield, Mass., in 1748. 12 Nov., 1745, he deeded land in Torrington to one Gaylord. 11 July, 1753, he sold other land in Torrington.

58 Hannah, b. Windsor, 13 Feb., 1715. When some of 56 Samuel's family went from Maine to visit their Conn. relatives they brought back an account of two sisters who wore each two gold chains on their necks.

59 Daniel, b. Windsor, 22 Apr., 1718; d. 19 Apr., 1733.

60 Ebenezer, b. Windsor, 15 Sept., 1719; d. 9 (21?) Apr., 1721.

61 Ebenezer, b. Windsor, 31 Mar., 1722.

62 Martha, b. Windsor, 5 Dec., 1726; d. Windsor, 17 (27?) Jan., 1729.

Martha Eno was dau. of John, b. 10 May, 1681, who was son of James who settled at Windsor in 1646. Martha, like most women of her time, was unable to sign her name.

Nov. 7, 1702. Josiah Strong of Colchester, Conn., husbandman, for 28 pounds paid by Samuel Gibbs Jr., and John Winchel, of Windsor, conveyed two tracts of land in Windsor "for the improvement of my mother Buckland during her natural life"—1st parcel 3½ acres, bounded N. by lands of John Denslow Jr., S. by land of formerly John Denslow, now John Winchell, E. by the Great River, W. by the swamp; 2d, ¾ acre bounded N. by land formerly belonging to Robert Winchell, now, to the heirs of Thomas Winchell, late of Windsor, deceased, etc.

June 4, 1708. John Winchell, husbandman, for 41 pounds, conveyed to Samuel Gibbs his share of the land held jointly by them under deed of 7 Nov., 1705.

Under same date bought land of his brother Stephen and his brother-in-law Samuel Gibbs Jr.

On the same date he bought land of his brother Nathanael —66 acres on the east side of the river.

Oct. 22, 1709. John "quit claimed" to his loving brother Nathanael, land on the east side of the river.

June 13, 1711. John received of his brother Stephen, in trust, certain land for the benefit of their mother.

March 9, 1715. Joseph Judd and Ebenezer Hulbert of "Symsbery" for 40 pounds, paid by John Winchel of Windsor, conveyed two tracts of land in Windsor—the first containing a "mansion dwelling house," the second being two acres of ground.

March 15, 1715. Sarah Winchel of Windsor, for love and good will for her loving son and daughter, John Winchel and Mary Gibbs, wife of Samuel Gibbs, Jr., conveyed three tracts of land in Farmington "which I have by virtue of an agreement or conveyance by or from the children or heirs of Thomas Porter Senr." Number of acres not stated.

Jan. 26, 1716. Nath'l and Mabel Hall of Suffield, Mass., for 20 pounds paid by John Winchel of Windsor, conveyed one third part of two tracts of land in Windsor.

Dec. 10, 1718, "About sunset." "John Winchel his earmark for his creatures is a slit down the top of the neer ear, and a slit in the under side of the off ear. Recorded by me Timothy Loomis Register."

Aug. 14, 1719. John Allen of Windsor quit claimed to John Winchel of Windsor, a certain tenement or piece of land on which his house and barn were standing.

Same date. John Winchel and Martha of Windsor, for 66 pounds paid by Jonathan Styles, conveyed a certain house and one acre and half of land, lying in Windsor—"being that which I bought of the heirs of my brother Thomas Winchel, deceased." Also 3½ acres in the "great meadow." "And Sarah Winchel, widow, mother of said John Winchel" relinquished her claims to said property.

Nov. 3, 1729. In a division of the commons lying a mile to the east of the 3-mile tracts on the east side of the river, Lot No. 50 was laid out for John Winchel, containing 93 acres.

Apr. 24, 1733. John Winchel of Windsor, for love and good will, conveyed to his three sons, John, Samuel and Ebenezer, of Windsor, his home-lot with dwelling house thereon; also all the remainder of his lands in the township of Windsor, divided and undivided; also the land which he held in the township of Farmington—to have in equal proportion. (Records of Windsor and Torrington.)

In a book at Windsor entitled, Here followeth the laying out of the first lotts at Farmington, Anno Dom., 1734, I find "No. 31, A Lott laid out to John Winchel, containing 53 acres and half." (Here follow boundaries.)

May 1, 1734. In a division of the "Equivalent Land" in the township of Windsor, Lot 253 was assigned to John Winchel's heirs, containing 26 acres, being 26 rods wide to an oak staddle and stones, and in length 160 rods, bounding south by Tolland, etc.

15 MARY WINCHELL (2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Windsor, 1683; m. 4 Mar., 1703, Samuel (or Seth?) Gibbs of Windsor, who was son of Samuel, son of Jacob, son of Giles who is supposed to have been from Devonshire, Eng., and who was freeman at Dorchester, Mass., in 1633.

125 Abigail, b. Farmington, 1 June, 1747.

29 Nathanael when a boy used to beat the drum on the Sabbath. He was a member of the church in Kensington, 14 July, 1756.

It is probable that Abigail Ruggles was dau. of Rev. Benjamin Ruggles who was born in 1676, grad. at Cambridge in 1693, d. in 1708. His wife was Mercy ——. He had seven children. He was son of John Ruggles, b. 1632 in England, who was son of John Ruggles (and Barbarie ——), a native of Nazing, Essex County, England, who came to America in 1634 with John Eliot, settling at Roxbury, Mass.

31 HEZEKIAH WINCHELL (10 Nathanael, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Windsor, 20 June, 1697; m. Mary Cole of Farmington, Conn. She d. Blue Hills, New Britain, 3 Jan., 1794; he d. Kensington, 27 Dec., 1760.

128 Ezekiel, b. Farmington (?), 11 Mar., 1732; d. Farmington, 4 Nov., 1737.

129 Dan, b. Kensington, 20 Nov., 1736.
130 (Dau.), b. Kensington; d. young.

31 Hezekiah's widow m. Samuel Lankton.

Hezekiah was a farmer at Windsor and removed to Kensington. He built there the mill known for many years, as "Winchell's mill," and more recently as "Moore's mill," but at present known as the "Chisel Shop" of the Hart Manufacturing Co. April 27, 1752, a petition for division of the Parish of Kensington, in the town of Farmington (not granted), was signed by Solomon Winchell, Hezekiah Winchell and Hezekiah Winchell, Jr. July 14, 1756, Hezekiah Winchell, and Mary, his wife, were members of the church in Kensington; as also 6 Feb., 1757. In his will he left a farm to each of his three surviving sons.

34 SAMUEL WINCHELL (11 Thomas, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born (Windsor?) 5 Jan., 1690.

132 James.

The father of Job and James—whether 34 Samuel or not—is said by Thomas J. Winchell, the humorist, to have been a Baptist preacher at Stamford, Ct. He is also said to have descended from one of "three brothers" who emigrated from Wales in the earlier part of the seventeenth century and settled in Providence Plantation and the colony of Massachusetts Bay. But we have not been able to discover any warrant for the statement that any immigrants of the name Winchell settled in Rhode Island.

From Mrs. Lovina Wadleigh, of Lawrence, Mass., we have information that the father of Job and James settled in Conn. at or near Hartford, where he taught school many years. She states that he came from England with his brother; that the latter was conscripted by English officers and placed on board a man-of-war to serve under the King; that he deserted and settled in Sandford, Me., calling himself Willard, and that after the return of peace Congress legalized the change of name. She also states that Job and James had sisters. We have not been able to obtain any further statements from representatives of this division of the family in reference to their remote ancestry; and the records render it probable that Job and James are descended from Robert, while it is also not improbable that 34 Samuel was their father.

36 SARAH WINCHELL (11 Thomas, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Windsor, Ct. (?), 1695; probably the Sarah who m. Joseph Judd, 3 June, 1713, of Farmington, Ct.

133 Reuben, b. ——; grad. Yale College, 1741; a minister.

48 STEPHEN WINCHELL (13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Windsor, 20 Nov., 1698; m. Mary Rouse, of Nine Partners, Duchess Co., N. Y., about 1744; d. in Duchess County. Mary was b. 1705. After he died she m. —— Smith and attained the age of nearly 100 years.

134 Lemuel, b. Nine Partners, Duchess Co., N. Y., 1745.
135 James, b. Nine Partners, Duchess Co., N. Y., 1753.
136 John, b. Nine Partners, Duchess Co., N. Y., 1760.
137 Rebecca, b. Nine Partners, Duchess Co., N. Y.

Stephen Winchell of Windsor was at Fort Dummer, Brattleboro, Ct., June 1 to Aug. 31, 1724.

At the town meeting in Simsbury, held 2 Jan., 1733, Lot No. 11, 36 acres, "on the west side of the mountain, near the copper hill," was assigned to Stephen Winchell, Jr.

Stephen, on the 14th of March, 1734, received land from the town of Torrington, as I learn from an old MS. called, "Here followeth the Laying out of the first Lotts in Torrington, Anno Dom. 1734," which contains the following: "No. 23, a lot laid out to Stephen Winchell containing 4 acres and 90 rods." (Here follow boundaries.)

On the same date Stephen and his brothers Thomas, Caleb, Robert and Martin, divided among themselves the 100-acre lot bequeathed to them by their late father Stephen, situated at Turkey Hills, in Simsbury.

Dec. 12, 1737, Stephen and his brother Martin sold their brother Thomas, for 12 pounds, ten acres of land at a place known as Pope's Farm, near Salisbury Plain, "which land our honored father Stephen Winchell bought of Enoch Phelps, our rights therein being two-fifths parts thereof."

Dec. 13, 1737, Stephen for money and land sold his brother Thomas, of Simsbury, land at Turkey Hills, being one-fifth part of two tracts "which were granted and surveyed unto our honored father Stephen." 31 May, 1743, "Stephen Winchel, late of Windsor, now of Simsbury,'' united with his brothers in making over to John Thrall, for 9 pounds, ''a piece of land in Windsor in that division commonly called the mile and half mile division, bounded north on Suffield,'' etc.

There is no further record of Stephen in Connecticut; but in a division of public lands at Windsor 1 May, 1743, Lot 149, containing 16½ acres, was allotted to Stephen Winchell's heirs (perhaps 13 Stephen).

About this time 48 Stephen seems to have launched into the western wilderness, since we next learn of him on the estate of ''The Great Nine Partners,'' in Duchess County, N. Y., where he married, about 1744. This tract or patent, granted about 1714, was a belt ten miles wide, stretching across the county from the Hudson River to ''The Oblong'' (1¾ miles from the Connecticut state line), and comprising parts of the present towns of Rhinebeck, Hyde Park, Clinton, Pleasant Valley, Washington and Amenia, and the whole of Stanford. In North East the north line of the tract was the north line of the ''old James Collins farm.'' ''The Little Nine Partners' '' patent covered the present towns of Pine Plains and Milan, and part of North East in Duchess County.

One of the Great Nine Partners, named Rouse, had a daughter Mary whom 48 Stephen married. He lived and died in Duchess Co., though all his family removed to Ulster, on the opposite side of the Hudson. It is not known upon what part of the Great Nine Partners' patent Stephen resided, but Lewis Hollister of Olive Bridge, N. Y., stated that it was near the Connecticut line. As his younger brother, Robert, is known to have settled in the ''North Precinct in Duchess Co., N. Y.,'' it is probable that Stephen lived either in North East or the contiguous parts of the town of Stanford.

49 THOMAS WINCHELL (13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Windsor, 2 April, 1700; m. Mary Owen, who was b. 13 Apr., 1707. He lived at Turkey Hills, Conn.

138 Thomas, b. Turkey Hills (now E. Granby; then a Parish of Windsor).

139 Elisha.

140 Jehiel, b. Turkey Hills; bapt. 3 Apr. 1737.

141 Abigail, b. Turkey Hills, Feb., 1743; d. Turkey Hills, 11 June, 1747. From the burying ground at Turkey Hills:—''Abigail, daughter of Thomas Winchel, died June 11th, 1747, aged 4 yrs. and 9 mos.''

Mary Owen, 49 Thomas' wife, is supposed to have been great-granddaughter of John who came from Wales and settled in Windsor. John was b. 25 Dec., 1624, and settled at a place called then and now Polly's orchard, on the opposite side of the stream from Poquonnock in Windsor.

49 Thomas, on the 2d of Jan., 1733, by vote of town meeting, received 40 acres within the bounds of Simsbury, in addition to what he and his brothers received as heirs of Stephen their father. At another division of land authorized at the same time, he received 30 acres, being the 13th Lot, "on the west side of the mountain near the copper hill."

Mar. 14, 1734, he and his brothers divided among themselves the 100-acre lot bequeathed by their father, lying in the north part of Simsbury, near Turkey Hills.

Feb. 23, 1736, he purchased of his brother Martin, for 155 pounds, several tracts of land at Turkey Hills.

Feb. 27, 1737, he (with two others) purchased of Obadiah Owen, 47 acres of land in Windsor.

Aug. 5, 1738, Ebenezer Smith of Suffield, and Thos. Winchel of Simsbury, bought a joint estate of 53 acres, at Salisbury Plain, in Windsor, which "formerly belonged to our honored father Obadiah Owen, of said Windsor," bounded south partly on land belonging to the heirs of Stephen Winchell. This they divided between them.

Aug. 26, 1738, he and Ebenezer Smith had another transaction, in which Thomas sold Smith for 18 pounds, a half interest in 48 acres at Salisbury Plain.

March 14, 1739, Thomas exchanged land in Simsbury for one-third interest in 47 acres in Windsor.

In the division of Windsor town commons made 25 Oct., 1743, lot 321, containing 20 acres, was assigned to Thomas Winchell—"in width 20 rods to a stake standing six foot from an oak tree marked. Butts south on Isaac Brown's land, west on highway, north on Samuel Drake's land, east on sequestered land."

Mar. 27, 1747, Lieutenant Thomas Winchell of Simsbury, bought of Gideon Moore, for 800 pounds, 102 acres at Turkey Hills.

Jan. 25, 1749, "Thomas Winchell of Simsbury, for love and good will to his son Thomas Winchell, Jr., of Simsbury," and as part of his portion, to the value of 800 pounds, confirmed to him 50 acres of land at Turkey Hills—being the east end of the lot bought of Gideon Moore, with dwelling house thereon.

Feb. 18, 1755, Thomas, on the same terms, deeded 800 pounds worth of land (48 acres) at Turkey Hills, to his son Elisha.

Apr. 10, 1759, Thomas also confirmed to his son Jehiel, two lots of land in Turkey Hills, adjoining a lot previously owned by Jehiel—also 6 acres adjoining Elisha's land—3 rods square.

Feb. 13, 1760, Thomas Winchel and Joshua Holcomb divided land at Turkey Hills.

Dec. 10, 1766, Lieut. Thomas Winchell brought six suits against Thomas Winchel, Jr., (evidently his own son) and levied on land worth in the aggregate about 25 pounds.

Nov. 6, 1767, Lieut. Thomas, of Simsbury, bought 12 acres at Turkey Hills, "between the highway and the mountain"—bounding on land of Martin Winchel, Jr. The same day he made an exchange of land with Joel Clark.

Apr. 1, 1768, Lieut. Thomas, for 41 pounds, sold Martin Winchel, Jr., 9 acres at Turkey Hills.

Apr. 17, 1770, Lieut. Thomas, for 28 pounds, bought of Dea. Samuel Owen 2 acres and a mansion house at Turkey Hills.

From this date his name disappears from the records. For other transactions, see under his brothers Stephen, Caleb, Robert and Martin.

52 ROBERT WINCHELL (13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Windsor, 28 May, 1705; m. Lydia Hollebirt of Woodbury, Ct., 6 Sept., 1733. Lived at Turkey Hills, Ct., and at or near North East, Duchess Co., N. Y. Lydia was probably dau. of Ebenezer Hollebird. (The name is spelled variously and is the same as Hurlbut.) Abstract of her will is in N. Y. Hist. Soc. Coll., 1899.

142 Sarah, bapt. Turkey Hills, 3 Apr. 1737; m. David Benton of Litchfield, Ct.
143 Lydia, b. Turkey Hills, 8 July, 1734; m. William Smith.
144 Robert, bapt. Turkey Hills, 2 Sept., 1739.
145 Timothy, b. Nine Partners, N. Y.
146 Stephen, (twin of Justus); m. Releaf Glazier at Bolton, Mass., 24 Dec., 1772.
147 Justus, b. Nine Partners, Duchess Co., N. Y.
148 Anna, b. Nine Partners, N. Y.; m. Hanchet.

Nov. 14, 1733, Robert purchased of John Lewis of Suffield, for 16 pounds, a dwelling house and an acre of land at Turkey Hills, formerly belonging to Ebenezer Hollebird of Simsbury.

Mar. 14, 1734, Robert and his four brothers divided among themselves the "100 acre lot" bequeathed to them jointly by their father Stephen.

Nov. 1, 1737, Robert sold his brother Martin the house and lot bought in 1733. On the 4th of March, 1739, he repurchased this property of Martin, as also another piece of land and an orchard—10 acres—adjoining the house-lot, paying for the whole 100 pounds. On the same date he resold to Samuel Owen, for 31 pounds, the house and lot.

June 29, 1740, Robert bought of Azariah Case of Newark, N. J., for 150 pounds, 50 acres at Turkey Hills. Sold, 31 May, 1743, to his brother Caleb, for 300 pounds.

Sept. 1, 1740, Robert and William Moore agreed upon a boundary line between them.

May 31, 1743, Robert sold Benjamin Griswold, for 300 pounds, 43 acres at Turkey Hills, bounded north on Thomas Winchell. [Spelt for the first time with two l's. From Simsbury Record.]

June 4, 1743, Robert sold his brother Thomas, for 28 pounds, two tracts at Turkey Hills, "which were granted and surveyed unto my honored father Stephen Winchell, of Simsbury, dec'd."

In a division of "Windsor Town Commons," made 25 Oct., 1743, Lot 86 was assigned to Robert Winchell, "containing two acres and half, in width three rods to a stake marked R. W. Butts south on land of Maj. Henry Allyn," &c.

In the XIth volume of Windsor records, p. 104, I find the following: "Robert Winchell, of the North Precinct in Duchess Co., N. Y., for 30 pounds, old tenor bills, paid by my brother Thomas Winchell, of Simsbury, Conn.," conveys to him two acres at Turkey Hills, in Windsor,—"it being in partnership with my brothern," and "is the fifth part of a Ten lott," &c. 4 Nov., "in the 28 year of his majesty's Reign George ye Second of Great Britain, &c., king, Anno D. 1754." Acknowledged in Salisbury, Ct., 4 Nov., 1754.

The "North Precinct" embraced what is now known as the town of North East. From the records it would appear that Robert removed to Duchess County at some time between 25 Oct., 1743, and 4 Nov., 1754. He probably removed with his brother, about 1744; since we have already seen that Stephen disappears from the Conn. records 31 May, 1743, almost simultaneously with his brother Robert, and reappears in Duchess County about 1744. From 375 Ira Winchell, I get information which identifies this Robert with his grandfather. Ira says he lived in Mass. [probably Conn.], near Winchell's Pond. "I've heard my father tell about the Nine Partners. I should think my grandfather lived in Duchess County at Nine Partners," &c.

53 MARTIN WINCHELL (13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Ensign Martin Winchell was b. at Windsor, Ct., 23 Dec., 1708; m. Lucy ——, who was b. 1705; and d. 29 May, 1785. He d. Turkey Hills (now East Granby), 14 Feb., 1785.

149 Martin, b. Turkey Hills about 1739.
150 James, bapt. Turkey Hills, 24 Feb., 1740.
151 Lucy, b. Turkey Hills.
152 Deborah, b. Turkey Hills; m. Simeon Lewis, a lawyer of distinction at Windsor.
153 Timothy, b. about 1745. I have no information of this Timothy except from 1118 Col. John Winchell of North East, N. Y., who says: "I well remember that Timothy, the brother of my grandfather, (150 James) visited my father and his brothers the winter that I taught school on the Winchell Mountain, which was in 1814-15. He was at my father's some time, and his head was white—age propably 70 or over."
154 Abigail, b. Turkey Hills, 1748; m. Alexander Phelps son of Joseph b. 1688; son of Joseph b. 1667; son of Joseph, who came from Eng. to Windsor with his brother Samuel (Phelps' Hist. Simsbury). She d. Turkey Hills, 4 May, 1773.
155 Dolly, b. Turkey Hills.
156 Nathanael, b. Turkey Hills about 1751.
157 Dan, b. Turkey Hills, 1753.

Ensign Martin's first appearance in the records of Windsor and Simsbury is under date of 30 March, 1729, when he bought, for 40 pounds, 50 acres in the north part of Simsbury—"marsh and upland"—"lyeth between Manatuck and the Turkey Hill mountain";—also, for 95 pounds, 75 acres, with dwelling house, "lying and being situate near the copper hill, within the township of Simsbury."

March 14, 1734, he and his brothers Stephen, Thomas, Caleb and Robert, made a division of the 100 acre lot "which was our honored father's, late of Simsbury, dec'd."

Feb. 23, 1736, Martin bought of Josiah Higley, for 260 pounds, two tracts, containing 70 acres, at Turkey Hills—one on the west side of the highway, bounded south by land of Thomas Winchell—another on the east side of the highway opposite the first, bounded south partly on land of Thomas Winchell and partly on Caleb, easterly by land of Caleb, and northerly by the highway bordering the burying ground. At the same time he sold, for 155 pounds, to Thomas, several tracts at Turkey Hills.

Under date of Nov. 1, 1737, I find a record of which the following is an abstract: "Robert Winchell of Windsor, for 100 pounds paid by Martin Winchell of Simsbury," conveys to him "a certain dwelling house and about one acre of land lying in Windsor aforesaid, at a place called Turkey Hills, which was formerly Ebenezer Hulburt's, formerly of Simsbury, aforesaid, now of said Windsor, as the same is bounded west on the place formerly soposed Simsbury, east bounds, fifteen rod in length, and ten rods wide by compute, be it more or less; as also another piece of land and an orchard, in estimation ten acres, be it more or less, as it bounds north on land of Stephen Winchell, sonth on land called Mr. Thompson's, west on Simsbury east line, east partly on land of Samuel Owins, and partly on the forementioned piece lying in Windsor at a place called Turkey Hills, aforesaid, with the privileges and appurtenances thereunto belonging, as fence, orchard, timber, trees, etc."

Dec. 12th, 1737, Martin united with his brother Stephen in selling to Thomas their interest in 10 acres at a place known as Pope's Farm, near Salisbury Plain [between Poquonnock and Turkey Hills].

March 4, 1739, he resold to Robert the real estate purchased of him in 1737.

May 31, 1743, he united with Stephen, Thomas, Caleb and Robert in selling a piece of land in Windsor, bordering on Suffield. He still resided in Simsbury.

Sept., 1756, he owned land in Simsbury adjoining lands owned by his brothers Caleb and Thomas.

March 1, 1759, he bought of Benjamin Griswold, for 20 shillings, 30 acres and 60 rods of land laid out to Stephen Winchell, Jr. (his brother), "bounded west on the ledge of the mountain."

Jan. 21, 1767, he is recorded as a member of the "Conformist" church in Simsbury.

Apr. 18, 1768, he bought for 10 pounds, 22 acres in the town of Windsor.

Apr. 27, 1772, he bought of Zaccheus Gillet, for 63 pounds, 9 acres in Windsor adjoining, on the west, land previously owned by him.

Nov. 3, 1772, he bought of Isaac Pinney, for 56 pounds 5 shillings, 45 acres of land in the township of Windsor, "on the Plains a little westerly of Rainbow brook," etc.

March 12, 1776, he bought of Zaccheus Gillet, for 55 pounds, 15 acres lying in Simsbury and Windsor, in Turkey Hills Parish, on the east side of the mountain, bounding west on a drain on the east side of the lake swamp, so-called," . . . "east on said Martin Winchell's land."

March 22, 1782, he purchased of Micah Moore, for 57 pounds, 9 acres in Windsor.

This seems to have been his last transaction in real estate. In the burying ground at East Granby (Turkey Hills), is the last resting place of the remains of Ensign Martin and his wife. The two stones are of Portland brown sandstone well finished for the times, still erect and in a good state of preservation. [1867.] The following are the two epitaphs: "In memory of Ensign Martin Winchell who died February the 14th A. D. 1785 in the 77th year of his age.

"Children see whare your parents lie,
"Remember you were born to die."

"Mrs. Lucy, relict of Ensign Martin Winchell died May 29th 1785 in the 71st year of her age.

"Children see whare your parence lie
"Remember you are born to die."

The inscriptions face the graves, as was customary in those days. The footstone of the first bears this inscription: "Ensign Martin Winchell"—that of the other, simply, "L W"

The various stones from which I copied epitaphs are all clustered on a little knoll close by the highway which runs east and west at this place. The stones all face south and can be distinctly seen from the highway.

56 SAMUEL WINCHELL (14 John, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert.) Col. Samuel Winchell was b. at Windsor, Ct., 15 March, 1711; m. Sarah McNeiss of Harpswell, Me., about 1738; d. Topsham, Me., 4 Feb., 1783. Lived at Topsham, where his w. died 18 Mar., 1785. She was b. 1718.

168 Hannah, b. Topsham 1759; d. Topsham, 29 July, 1823; not m.

56 Samuel seems to have penetrated into the forests of Maine as early certainly as 1738. His brother Ebenezer at first accompanied him, but subsequently returned and settled in Torrington. Another brother, John, was also with him in Maine in 1743. Samuel resided at Harpswell for some time after his marriage. In 1750 he settled at what was then and is now known as Cathance Mills, about 5 miles above the village of Bowdoinham, on the Cathance River, a tributary of the Kennebec. The mills were erected by Samuel. He acquired, with Jacob Eaton, a joint title to this property by virtue of a deed from Isaac Royall, dated 15 Nov., 1750. This conveyed 500 acres and all of Royall's rights in said stream. Samuel seems to have become one-fourth proprietor of the Cathance mill right, embracing 1100 acres.

Dec. 28, 1757, Samuel sold to Adam Hunter all his rights to 125 acres in common, and one-eighth of a double saw-mill and stream.

Nov. 21, 1759, Belcher Noyes, "foeffer in trust for ye creditors of estate of Adam Winthrop, Esq., late of Boston," seems to have sold Samuel Winchell one-eighth interest in certain undivided land in Topsham, which, Jan. 1, 1760, Samuel sold to John Patten.

June 15, 1761, in the division of the 1100 acres, a small lot, No. 4, was assigned to Samuel as his house lot.

Feb. 13, 1765, Col. Winchell sold to James and Robert Fulton "one six-teenth of ye double saw and stream on ye lower falls at Cathance."

Feb. 13, 1777, Samuel Winchell of Topsham, Mass. (now Maine), deeded land to Ebenezer Winchell of Torrington, Ct.

Samuel Winchell is said to have been styled Colonel "from ye circumstance of being a superior officer and worthy member of a fraternity" whose name is not stated.

Samuel Winchell owned a slave called Quash Winchell, in whose will, dated 3 Mar., 1788, the latter named his "friends, Anne and Hannah Winchell."

58 HANNAH WINCHELL (14 John, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Windsor, Ct., 13 Feb., 1715; m. 15 Sept., 1737, David Moore; d. before 1753.

169 Timothy, b. 6 Nov., 1737; m. Betty ————; 4 ch.
170 Elizabeth, b. 4 Oct., 1739; probably died without issue before 4 Nov., 1773.
171 Martha, b. Oct., 1741.

61 EBENEZER WINCHELL (14 John, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Windsor, Conn., 31 Mar., 1722; m. 21 Sept., 1747, Thankful Loomis of Southwick (Hist. of New Britain says Westfield), Mass. She was b. 19 Nov., 1716, and d. Torrington, Ct., and he d. same place, 2 Jan., 1778.

172 Thankful, b. Torrington, Ct., about 1756.
173 Daniel, b. Torrington, 1758.
174 Silence, b. Torrington about 1760.
175 Bethia, b. Torrington.
176 John, b. Torrington.

Apr. 24, 1733, Ebenezer Winchell of Windsor, in common with his two brothers, John and Samuel, received from his father John, a deed to certain land in Torrington.

Nov. 12, 1755, John (probably Jr.) of Windsor, and Ebenezer of Westfield, Mass., deeded certain land in Torrington to one Gaylord.

Dec. 10, 1753, land was deeded to Ebenezer of Torrington.

Feb. 3, 1777, Ebenezer purchased his brother Samuel's Torrington estate.

Ebenezer was among the first settlers of Torrington; he was there as early as 1757, and on the school committee in 1761, 1771, and 1774.

67 DANIEL WINCHELL (17 Jonathan, 3 Jonathan, 1 Robert). Born Suffield, Ct., 10 July, 1709; d. Hadley, Mass.

177 Jonathan.
178 Reuben, given as brother of Jonathan by 1269 Destina Simmons of Wolcottville, Ind.
179 Polly, given as sister of Jonathan by 1269 Destina Simmons. Polly is supposed to have been murdered.
180-185 Six daughters.

We have no direct proof that 177 Jonathan was a son of 67 Daniel. The traditions and circumstances, however, point to this connection.

70 THOMAS WINCHELL (18 Benjamin, 3 Jonathan, 1 Robert). Born Windsor, Ct., 16 Dec., 1702. Probably the same as Thomas "Winchil" who m. Lydya Hodges at Norton, Mass., 7 Dec., 1732.

186 Sarah, b. Norton, Mass., 2 May, 1733.
187 Thomas, b. Norton, Mass., 28 Feb., 1736; d. 7 Mar., 1736.

189 Hannah, b. Norton, Mass., 23 June, 1738.
190 Marcy, b. Norton, Mass., 17 Dec., 1740.
191 Abigail, b. Norton, Mass., 2 Sept., 1744.

71 SAMUEL WINCHELL (18 Benjamin, 3 Jonathan, 1 Robert). Born Suffield, Ct. (?), 20 Nov., 1704.

192 Hezekiah, probably b. Egremont, Mass., about 1730.

According to the History of Berkshire County, Mass., Samuel Winchell (probably = 71), from Amenia, N. Y., settled near North Egremont with his brother Ezeriah (probably = 73) in 1726. In 1733 Samuel removed to Twelve Mile Pond in Monterey, where he kept a hotel three years and then returned to Egremont. In 1743 he owned 15 acres of land there. He was related to the Van Guilder and Karner families. (See 195 Joseph.) He was elected clerk and assessor at the first town meeting in March, 1761. He joined the Congregational church about 1775. He with David Winchell (= 491?) and others obtained land in Egremont and Alford, Mass., from Indians in 1756. He and Hezekiah (assumed to be his son) and Joseph (= 195?) were taxpayers in 1761.

72 ISAAC WINCHELL (18 Benjamin, 3 Jonathan, 1 Robert). Born (Suffield, Ct.?) 22 Dec., 1706. Possibly the Isaac who m. Naomi ——, and had a dau.

193 Naomi, b. Waterford, 1720; m. Nathan Beckwith (b. Lyme, Ct., 1718?), 1 son.

73 AZARIAH WINCHELL (18 Benjamin, 3 Jonathan, 1 Robert). Born Suffield, 5 Apr., 1710.

194 Azariah.
195 Joseph.

There is no certain proof that 194 Azariah was the son of 73 Azariah, but circumstances strongly favor this connection. (See also 71 Samuel.)

78 SARAH WINCHELL (20 Joseph, 6 David, 1 Robert). Born Suffield, Ct., 1 Dec., 1701; m. 7 Jan., 1730, Daniel Remington, b. Suffield, 10 Feb., 1706.

84 JOSEPH WINCHELL (20 Joseph, 6 David, 1 Robert). Born Suffield, Ct., 15 May, 1720; m. wid. Ann Denslow, 11 Apr., 1751.

228 Tryphena, b. Windsor, 5 May, 1752. A child of Joseph was bapt. 27 June, 1756.

It is probable that Joseph removed from Suffield to Windsor where he married his wife. The birth of his dau. is recorded there; and he purchased a dwelling house and six acres of land in Windsor the same year that Tryphena was born. Capt.

Joseph Winchell, Jr., received a grant of land in Bernardston, Mass., June 23, 1736, receiving home lot No. 48, as a descendant of Jonathan "Tailer" of Suffield, Ct. He was Serj. in Aug., 1755, and Ensign in Nov., 1755, from Suffield.

96 DAVID WINCHELL (24 David, 6 David, 1 Robert). Born Suffield, 22 Sept., 1710; m. Mary Trumble, Suffield, 9 June, 1731.

229 David, b. Suffield.

250 Thankful, b. Kensington, Ct.; bapt. 2 Aug., 1761.

251 Amasa, b. Kensington, Ct., 15 Dec., 1766.

Lieutenant Benjamin Winchell was a drummer and sergeant during the French and Indian War and an officer in the Massachusetts troops during the Revolution. He was a corporal from Westfield, Mass., in a company raised at the alarm of Lexington, in Apr., 1775. He was later lieutenant and adjutant of the regiment and kept the records; his signature is in them in many places. He removed from Kensington, Ct., to the town of Harpersfield, about 1777, and soon after to Westfield, Mass., where he lived till 1788, when he removed to Choconut, N. Y., on the Susquehanna. In 1798 he accompanied his son Amasa to Scipio, Cayuga Co., N. Y., where he remained till his death, which, according to Mrs. Elizabeth Markham, of Suisun City, Cal., was caused by the fall of a tree.

122 ANNA WINCHELL (29 Nathanael, 10 Nathanael, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Farmington, Ct., 11 June, 1733; m. Silas Bronson, Farmington, Ct., 18 Dec. (27 Nov.?), 1760.

282 Roxana, b. Goshen, Ct., 10 Mar., 1781; lived at Camden, Conn.

Dan received from his father, by will, a farm on the mountain at Kensington, southwest of Solomon's. Dan's house was on the north side of the road a few rods west of the residence of Charles Moore. Dan served in the Revolutionary War and had (besides Ezekiel) two sons in the service, William and Ira, the latter of whom fell at Bunker Hill. Dan was at Newgate, Ct., in 1775; he was a soldier in 1759. Dan in old age lived with his son-in-law, Joseph Dutton, in Farmington; died at the home of his dau., Mrs. Candace Richards, in Bristol, Ct., a few rods from Dutton's.

131 JOB WINCHELL (34 Samuel, 11 Thomas, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born probably in Hartford Co., Ct.; m. 9 Jan., 1765, Sarah, dau. Benj. Kellogg, who was b. 28 Jan., 1746, d. and was buried at Cheshire, Ct., 5 Jan., 1770. He m. 2d in Vermont and resided there. He enlisted in the Revolutionary army and left his three children in care of one Atwater with $600 for their support. The money was spent otherwise and the children fared badly.

283 Daniel, b. 24 Oct., 1765.
284 Azariah, b. 16 Aug., 1767; bapt. Cheshire, Ct., 6 Oct., 1771; not m. Graduated at Dartmouth College; became a lawyer and a surveyor; traveled in the west and south.
285 James, b. 5 Sept., 1769; d. Cheshire, Ct., where he was buried 21 July, 1770.

Job m. 2d, Sarah Hobbs of Waterborough, Me., 1768, who d. Munroe (Me.?), 1818. He was Serj. in Capt. Jona Nowell's Co., enlisted from Berwick, Me., 2 May, 1775.

286 Anna, b. 1770, in Waterboro, Me.
287 Lydia, b. 1773.
288 Reuben, b. 1776.
289 Hannah, b. 1782.
290 Nabbie, b. 1784; d. 1786.
291 Abigail, b. 1787; m. Daniel Gliddon, Ossipee, N. H.
292 Sally, b. 1789; d. 1810.
293 Lovina, b. 1792.
294 William, b. 1796.

Job was a man of education, and is known to have been engaged in the business of teaching at or near Hartford, Ct., and afterwards at Berwick, Me. He also served his country in the struggles of the Revolution, acting, according to one statement, in the capacity of Quartermaster or Paymaster in the "Continentals." He was taken prisoner and confined in the famous prison ship Jersey, where he suffered the fate of so many of his comrades. In the graphic language of 545 Thos. J. Winchell, of this Sub-branch, "His bones bleached in the Wallabout."

NOTE.—It is probable that two Job Winchells are confused in this family. One lived in Maine and the other in Conn. and Vermont. As the ancestry of both is uncertain it seems useless to try to separate them.

132 JAMES WINCHELL (34 Samuel, 11 Thomas, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born probably in Hartford Co., Ct.; d. 1826. Lived chiefly in New York City.

295 James Fleming, b. Stamford, Ct., Jan., 1776.
296 Harriet, b. Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 1778.

James removed to New York before the Revolution, and opened a book store in Peck Slip. He owned the property on the southeast corner of Gold and Ferry Streets. "The corporation cheated his son and daughter out of this property." He was considered a very able writer. He wrote a political pamphlet advocating the cause of the patriots, for which he was imprisoned in "the old sugar house." (Mostly from the lips of Thomas J. Winchell.) Another informant states that he "was a man of piety, learning and musical talent, and took an active part in the then impending crisis."

134 LEMUEL WINCHELL (48 Stephen, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born on the Great Nine Partners' Patent, Duchess Co., N. Y., 1745; d. Olive, Ulster Co., N. Y., 16 Oct., 1827. His wife, like his father's, was Dutch (@ 781 Dewitt C. Winchell); she d. 11 Apr., 1829. A Lemuel Winchell (134?) m. Susanna Fulver in N. Y., Sept. 29, 1772.

297 Peter, b. Olive, Ulster County, N. Y., 23 May, 1773.
298 Charity, b. Olive, N. Y.
299 Anthony, b. Olive, N. Y.
300 Jacob, b. Olive, N. Y., about 1786.
301 Rebecca (twin), b. Olive, N. Y.
302 Mary (Polly), (twin), b. Olive, N. Y.
303 Susan, b. Olive, N. Y., 17 June, 1788.
304 Conrad, b. Olive, N. Y., about 1789.
305 Elizabeth (Betsey), b. Olive, N. Y., 20 Sept., 1791.
306 Lemuel, b. Olive, N. Y., about 1792.
307 Vangosbeck (Gosbeck), b. Olive, N. Y., 31 Dec., 1794.
308 Katy, b. Olive, N. Y., about 1796.
309 Stephen, b. Olive, N. Y.; d. at 2 years.

Lemuel, with his brother James, removed from Duchess Co. to Marbletown, Ulster Co., 1772, at a place called Winchell's Falls on Æsopus Creek. He signed the "Association Test" of loyalty to the Continental Congress in 1775. "He was a farmer; had a grist-mill, a forge, a saw-mill and carding-machine."

From these two brothers have descended a very numerous family, still strongly attached, for the greater part, to the familiar acres of their ancestors. 781 Dewitt C., says: "I can count 29 families by the name of Winchell" in Ulster Co., besides the females who have married into other families.

135 JAMES WINCHELL (48 Stephen, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born on the "Great Nine Partners'" Patent, Duchess Co., N. Y., 18 Mar., 1753; m. Mary Ferguson; d. Olive, 4 May, 1840. Mary was b. 29 Mar., 1761, and d. 17 June, 1839. According to First Census of U. S., he was at Marbletown, Ulster Co., N. Y., with his family of 5 ch. in 1790.

310 Mary (Polly), b. Olive, Ulster Co., N. Y., 13 May, 1779. (Some say Duchess Co.)
311 Ruth, b. Olive, N. Y., 22 July, 1782. (Some say Duchess Co.)
312 Henry, b. Olive, N. Y., 9 Sept., 1784.
313 Lewis, b. Olive, N. Y.
314 James, b. Olive, N. Y., 7 July, 1790.
315 Stephen, b. Olive, N. Y.; m. Jane North; d. Olive, N. Y.
316 Rebecca, b. Olive, N. Y.
317 Elijah, b. Olive, N. Y., 1797.
318 John, b. Olive, N. Y., 28 Mar., 1800.
319 Martin, b. Olive, N. Y.; m. Catherine Bush; lived at Olive, N. Y., 1868.

James removed from Duchess County to Ulster in 1772 (or according to some accounts, "a few years" thereafter). He was a soldier and non-commissioned officer (serg.) in the War of the Revolution, and after vexatious delays, succeeded in securing his pension.

James' wife, Mary, was aunt to Bishop Elijah Hedding, whose mother, Ruth Ferguson, m. James Hedding, the bishop's father. Mary possessed some poetical talents; and composed "some verses" on occasion of the death of her son James, by drowning, in Æsopus Creek.

136 JOHN WINCHELL (48 Stephen, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born on the estate of the "Great Nine Partners," Duchess Co., N. Y., in 1760; m. Rachel Avery (dau. of Alpheus); d. 14 Sept., 1811, aged 51 years; she was b. 1762 and d. 19 Aug., 1815, aged 53 years, as inscribed on their tombstone at Tobinsport, Ind.

320 Catherine, b. Ulster Co., N. Y., 24 Jan., 1784.
321 Smith, b. Ulster Co., N. Y., about 1786.
322 Phebe, b. Ulster Co., N. Y.
323 Uriah Avery, b. Ulster Co., N. Y., about 1790.
324 Charity, b. Ulster Co., N. Y.
325 Margaret, b. Ulster Co., N. Y.
326 John (or Jerome), b. Ulster Co., N. Y., 1793. In 1811 he started on an ammunition transport for Gen. Jackson in New Orleans, and died on the way, and was buried at the mouth of St. Francis River, Ark.

327 Roxana, b. Ulster Co., N. Y., 24 Nov., 1799.
328 Mary, b. Ulster Co., N. Y.
329 Cassandra, b. Ulster Co., N. Y.

According to Dr. A. A. Simons, of Cloverport, Ky., a grandson of 320 Catherine, 136 John first moved from his father's home in Duchess Co. across the Hudson to Ulster Co., N. Y.; later he moved into the next county to the westward (Colchester, Delaware Co.), where he seems to have lived for some years during which he made a fortune of about thirty thousand dollars in the lumber business on the Delaware River. John's daughter, Catherine, was married at Colchester in 1807. In 1808 or 1809 John started on a long trip westward with a party of seventeen, including his ten children, two children by marriage and two grandchildren (873 Ransom and 881 Melvina). The journey must have been one of many privations and dangers, over the worst of roads through the wilderness. 874 Richard was probably born somewhere on the journey. While in Pittsburg, then an unincorporated town of only 400 houses, they accidentally found Arad Simons, 320 Catherine's husband, who had preceded the main party by a considerable time, and had not been heard from for months. It was probably in Pittsburg that John joined with Burrows and McGregory in the purchase of about 42,000 acres of land, investing the greater part of his fortune in this way. The land was part of the "Dewees claim or grant," located in Randolph Co., Va. (now West Virginia), on the Dry Laurel and Gladys forks of the Cheat River. The "Dewees grant" was covered by prior grants and the investment proved a complete loss.

Upon leaving Pittsburg, the family journeyed in a flat-bottomed boat down the Ohio, stopping for a short time at Cincinnati and Louisville, to Perry Co., Ind., where they arrived probably in the fall of 1809. But John's daughter, Catherine, remained with her husband (and her sister, Charity) at Louisville, Ky., where Charity was married. In 1816 or 1817 Catherine and her family moved to Perry Co. Some of John's descendants still live near Rome, Perry Co., Ind., and in Kentucky near Cloverport. John served in the Revolutionary army.

137 REBECCA WINCHELL (48 Stephen, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born on the estate of the Nine Partners, Duchess Co., N. Y., m. Asa Bishop, who was b. 1753 and d. 1813. Lived in Ulster Co.

330 James.
331 John, b. Duchess Co., N. Y., 27 Feb., 1777; m. Rhoda Austin, Berkshire Co., Mass.; rem. to Caroline Depot, Tompkins Co., N. Y., in 1817; d. there 5 Dec., 1862.
332 Peter.
333 Asa.
334 Lydia.
335 Mary.
336 Titus.
337 Abigail.
338 Rebecca, m. Peter Lane. Removed to Michigan about 1860.
339 Jacob.

138 THOMAS WINCHELL (49 Thomas, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Turkey Hills (Windsor), Ct.; m. Mary Owen, dau. of Isaac Owen; d. Turkey Hills, 1776, in Revolutionary War.

340 Oliver, b. Turkey Hills, 1754.
341 Lavinia, b. Turkey Hills, 1758; d. Turkey Hills, 5 Apr., 1759. Her epitaph: "In memory of Lavinia, the daughter of Thomas and Mrs. Mary Winchell. She dies April ye 5th, 1759. Aged 14 months."
342 Elihu, b. Turkey Hills, 1762.
343 Simeon, b. Turkey Hills, 29 Oct., 1767.
344 William, b. Turkey Hills, 3 Aug., 1770.
345 Reuben, b. Turkey Hills, 31 May, 1775.
346 Thomas, b. Turkey Hills; not m.; d. Turkey Hills.
347 Olive, b. Turkey Hills.
348 Alice, b. Turkey Hills.

138 Thomas, in 1749, received from his father "for love and good will," as part of his portion, lands at Turkey Hills valued at 800 pounds. (See 49 Thomas.) He was a corporal in the French and Indian War in 1757.

139 ELISHA WINCHELL (49 Thomas, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Turkey Hills, Ct., 1728; m. Mary Thrall, Turkey Hills (b. 21 May, 1730); d. (of cancer) Turkey Hills, 12 June, 1798. Farmer and carpenter.

349 Elisha, b. Turkey Hills, 1754.
350 Grove, b. Turkey Hills.
351 Luke, b. Turkey Hills.
352 Eli, b. Turkey Hills, 20 May, 1767.

353 Violetta, b. Turkey Hills.
354 Jemima, b. Turkey Hills, 1769.

Lieut. Elisha was extensively engaged in business. Apr. 27, 1752, when but 24 years old, he purchased an interest in a grist- and saw-mill. Apr. 18, 1755, he received from his father, "for love and good will," a farm of 43 acres, valued at 800 pounds. He continued to make purchases till May 29, 1787, when he sold 3 acres to his son Grove. He seems now to have retired from business. His house stood on the west side of the road leading from the village south toward Hartford, and about a mile and a half from the village. It stands close to the street and looks as if built for a country tavern. It is now (1867) renovated and painted white. The old red wood-shed still stands, as also the old barn, on the opposite side of the street. On one of the braces of the latter still remain the words, "Elisha Winchel, 1756."

Epitaph of 139 Elisha at Turkey Hills (E. Granby): "In memory of Lieut. Winchell, he died 12 Jan., A. D. 1798, in the 70 year of his age.

"His virtues would a monument supply,
"But underneath this stone his ashes lie."

On the foot-stone, "Lt. Elisha Winchell."

140 JEHIEL WINCHELL (49 Thomas, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Baptized Turkey Hills, Ct., 3 Apr., 1737. Living in Simsbury in 1765 and 1768, and in Granby, Ct., in 1790.

355 Son, b. after 1774.
356 Abigail, bapt. Simsbury, 10 Mar., 1768.
357-8 (Daughters). Perhaps one dau. was the Charlotte Winchell who m. Abel Barnes, Kensington, Ct., 15 Aug., 1787.

The record of Jehiel's family in the First Census of U. S., taken in 1790, names one son under 16 and 3 dau. Jehiel was a soldier in the French and Indian War in 1755, and in the Revolution in 1780. On Nov. 7, 1767, he sold to Joel Clark, for 78 pounds, 27½ acres at Turkey Hills, bounded by land then owned by 138 Thomas and 53 Martin; April 5, 1768, he sold to his father, Lieut. Thomas, for 35 pounds, 6 acres at Turkey Hills, bounding on his brother Elisha; 1 June, 1779, he bought of John Slater, for "800 pounds, Continental bills," 54 acres in Simsbury, "near the great pond, so-called"; 21 June, 1782, he mortgaged this land to Oliver Winchell for 59 pounds, and 10 Dec., 1783, he sold it to Oliver for 130 pounds.

144 ROBERT WINCHELL (52 Robert, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Baptized Turkey Hills, Ct., 2 Sept., 1739; m. and left heirs mentioned (with no names) in his mother's will, June 20, 1772. He enlisted in the French and Indian War in 1757.

359-362 (Children).

145 TIMOTHY WINCHELL (52 Robert, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born probably on the Great Nine Partners' Manor, in the town of North East, Duchess Co., N. Y.; m. Esther Kedy at Amenia, N. Y., 7 Dec., 1784; Esther was b. 1758; d. North East, N. Y., 11 Apr., 1818.

363 Polly T. (Maria), b. 1791; d. North East, N. Y., 13 Dec., 1817. Was a seamstress. Is buried on Winchell mountain, North East.

364 Susan, m —— Griffin. Was living in Albany, N. Y., in 1830 or later, when she was visited by 384 Hon. Philo M. Winchell while in the legislature. About 1853 she visited at the house of 1118 Col. John Winchell.

365 James, b. Duchess Co., N. Y.

145 Timothy's widow, Esther, lived about North East; she died "in the old Buttolph house, as also, probably the dau."

147 JUSTUS WINCHELL (52 Robert, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born on the manor of the "Great Nine Partners," Duchess Co., N. Y., 12 July, 1755; m. Hannah Taylor, Sept., 1777; d. Wayne, Genesee Co., N. Y., 27 Nov., 1823. He served in the Revolutionary army, according to 1031 George W. Probably the Justus living in New York, who had a pension in 1820 for service in the Revolution from Massachusetts. (See U. S. Pension Rolls, 1820.)

366 Anna, b. Sandy Hill, Washington Co., N. Y., 24 Apr., 1778.
367 Heman, b. Kingsbury, Washington Co., N. Y., 20 Aug., 1779.
368 Sally, b. 10 June, 1781.
369 Mercy, b. Aug., 1783.
370 Justus, b. 24 May, 1785; d. in infancy.
371 Justus, b. 24 May, 1787.
372 Lydia, b. 24 May, 1789.
373 Robert, b. 24 Feb., 1791.

374 Polly, b. 7 Feb., 1793.
375 Ira, b. Arguile, Washington Co., N. Y., 5 May, 1795.
376 John, b. Perrysburgh, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., 22 Mar., 1797.
377 Horace, b. Aug., 1799; d. Oct., 1800.

149 MARTIN WINCHELL (53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Turkey Hills, Ct., about 1739; m. Priscilla Cent; d. Granville, Mass. Probably the Martin who m. Rachel Salter at Simsbury, Ct., 1795.

378 Deborah.
379 Silas, b. Turkey Hills, Ct., 21 Oct., 1772.
380 Priscilla, d. young.
381 Martin, b. about 1770.

149 Martin, being the oldest son, seems to have retained the homestead at Turkey Hills. The records show that he engaged in numerous transactions in real estate; but lack of space prevents the publication of abstracts. The last transaction recorded in the records of Windsor and Simsbury is under date of 31 Aug., 1782, when he sold to his brother Dan, for 800 pounds, four pieces of land in Windsor and Simsbury, amounting to 145 acres. Probably this sale was preparatory to removing to Granville, Mass., where he spent the remainder of his life. Walter Thrall, Esq., of Columbus, Ohio, states that his house was still there in 1809. Martin is well and pleasantly remembered by some of the oldest citizens of E. Granby, with whom I have conversed—especially Mrs. Hannah Clark (mother of Elmore Clark), who says Martin was a fat man and very humorous, and when he laughed his whole body was perceptibly shaken. Hence the children sometimes familiarly styled him "Shook." He used sometimes to visit his relatives in North East. 1118 Col. John Winchell, who remembers these visits, says that Martin was fleshy and had a bald head, and presented somewhat the appearance of his uncle, 382 Dea. James Winchell. He is also remembered by 1109 Horace. He was a soldier in 1759.

150 JAMES WINCHELL (53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Lieutenant James was born at Turkey Hills, Ct., 1741; m. Mary Mills near Turkey Hills; d. North East, N. Y., 13 Feb., 1778. Mary was b. 1743; d. North East, 11 March, 1785.

382 James, b. North East, N. Y., 5 Mar., 1763; m. Chloe Hartwell (see Appendix: Hartwell Genealogy), 1785; d. North East, N. Y., 8

Apr., 1834. She was b. 13 Feb., 1764, and d. North East, 4 June, 1838. As 382 James had no ch., further notice of him is here introduced. On the partition of the paternal estate (see 383 Martin Ebenezer), he settled, originally as a carpenter, in the valley east of Winchell Mountain. On "Ten Mile Creek," which flowed past his residence—at first a simple frame dwelling, afterward enlarged to an elegant mansion—he constructed a large flouring mill, which he continued to run for many years in connection with his farming operations. Subsequently, for 18 years, he rented it to Alexander McAllister. By industry and good management, James accumulated a large estate which he expended liberally in the cause of education and of the church. His parents and all his ancestry had belonged to the Presbyterian or Congregational church. In 1773, however, the influence of the revival spirit inaugurated by Whitefield, resulted in the establishment of a Baptist society in North East; and in 1775, a chapel had been opened on a site which is now embraced in the south part of the burial-ground half a mile west of "Spencer's Corner." The children of 150 James became heartily identified with this church; and his son, 382 James, for many years discharged the office of deacon in the church, and performed an active and important part in its affairs. In the enlargement of his private mansion in 1826-7, he fitted up a large room in the second story, where the society were in the habit of holding their meetings during the winter months. This was warmed by a stove. This old "Conference Room" is remembered with affection by many. In 1829 a new brick meeting house was completed at Spencer's Corner, costing about $4,700. "Toward this sum there was received from the society about $750, and from Dea. James Winchell $1,700." During the same year, through his influence and liberality a scholarship was raised and a room furnished for the Theological Seminary at Hamilton, N. Y. "His name is inscribed on the chapel walls of Madison University, in letters which, it is hoped, will not soon be effaced." "He lived a holy and useful life, and died in the full enjoyment of the Christian's blissful hope, leaving his example a priceless legacy to society, and his real estate a bequest to the church for the support of her ministry." Among other acts of benevolence he adopted and educated his orphan niece, Mary Ann Winchell. His former dwelling house is now (about 1860) the property of Perry Vroman. A noble monument of white marble marks his resting place in the burial-ground near Spencer's Corner, and the following record is part of his epitaph: "His numerous bequests to the Baptist church and society in this place will long ensure to his memory their esteem and gratitude." The following is part of the epitaph of Chloe, his wife: "Through life they walked with God, exhibiting that faith which works by love and purifies the heart. In death victorious through our Savior Jesus Christ."

Since the above was written the Winchell mill has been replaced by an iron furnace, near which the New York and Harlem Railroad passes. The establishment of the railroad station, Millerton, deflected the business from the valley in which James Winchell's residence was located, and attracted the Baptist church from Spencer's Corner to Millerton. On the death of Perry Vroman the old homestead was occupied by others. Otherwise "the valley" appears (1896), outwardly, much as it did fifty years earlier, with the sole exception that a number of new residences have been built on the south side of the creek.

383 Martin Ebenezer, b. North East, N. Y., 20 Jan., 1765.
384 Philo Mills, b. North East, N. Y., 14 Oct., 1767.
385 John, b. North East, N. Y.
386 Peter, b. North East, N. Y., 13 Apr., 1772; d. 13 Jan., 1778.
387 David, b. North East, 28 Nov., 1773; d. 29 Dec., 1777.
388 Aaron Ely, b. North East, 8 Dec., 1774.

150 James emigrated from Turkey Hills to North East, Duchess Co., N. Y., about 1760, a little before attaining his majority. His two uncles, 48 Stephen and 52 Robert, had already been settled 12 or 15 years in the county. His father, 53 Martin, is said to have aided him in effecting a location. Whether from a love of mountain slopes and mountain summits, imbibed from a residence upon the flanks of the "Turkey Hill mountain,"—called also the "copper mountain,"—or from a shrewd intuition of the extraordinary attractions of the soil and the situation, James and his father seem to have alighted upon a mountain farm which certainly must have appeared in their day infinitely less inviting than the industry of three generations has now made it. "Winchell Mountain," so called from the family which continued during three generations to possess and cultivate its surface, is one of the ridges of the Taconic Range. The summit is a fertile plateau about half a mile in width. In the middle of this, on the highway from Salisbury to Rhinebeck, James erected his dwelling, the traces of which have been visible within my own memory. The prospect from this mountain summit is magnificent. I never return to it without renewed pleasure, and a deeper love of the spot. Toward the east, the blue hills of Sharon and Norfolk and Barkhamstead, in Connecticut, notch the horizon; while toward the west, the soft, purple domes of the distant Catskills rest again the sky; and Mount Marcy, seventy miles in the northwest, lifts its head like a watch-tower on the Cyclopean ramparts of the Hudson's valley. Even toward the north, the Taconic Range, swelling, as it recedes, into mightier masses, culminates in the bald, granitic dome of Mount Washington, which looks down upon three states. In the presence and under the influence of scenes like these, the family of James was reared.

The "District School" on Winchell Mountain was taught during the winter of 1854-55 by 2378 Newton Horace, who renewed his acquaintance with the scenic beauties of the spot, and later (1887) purchased the old homestead and the farm, with a view to keeping it as a point of reunion of those of the Winchell name who were descendants of 150 James, the founder of the Duchess sub-branch. But the difficulty of looking after the property from so great a distance (Minneapolis, Minn.) necessitated the relinquishment of the project, and the place was sold to Mr. Hamblin, one of his former pupils in the district school, who now occupies it (1913).

James and his wife were exemplary members of the Presbyterian church in North East; and James "took an active part in the measures which resulted in the independence of the states; and was one of the principal supporters of the cause of Liberty in the town and county where he resided." His death was caused, at the early age of 39, by camp fever taken from a suffering soldier whom he quartered one night in his house.

An abstract of his will, dated 1 Feb., 1778, is printed in the N. Y. Historical Society Collections for 1905 on page 80.

The patriots of Duchess Co. in a convention held at Poughkeepsie adopted a pledge "that under all the ties of religion, honor and love of country, they would adopt and carry into execution whatever measures might be recommended by the Continental Congress." The pledge was sent into North East Precinct July 4, 1775, and James Winchell's name stands among the signers, as well as that of 134 Lemuel. He was a lieutenant in the Duchess Co. militia during the Revolution.

Mary Mills, James' wife, was a woman of extraordinary worth. She possessed remarkable strength of mind; great refinement of taste; excellent tact in the management of household affairs, and a sincerely Christian heart. Surviving her husband seven years, she manifested remarkable endowments in the management of the farm and the education of her children.

Mary Mills was of Dutch descent, being the daughter of Ebenezer Mills, a graduate of Yale College and a Presbyterian minister at Turkey Hills, afterward at Sandisfield, Mass. (For Mills Genealogy, see Appendix.)

tery "on the mountain," within a few rods of his home while living. Here are their epitaphs:

"In memory of Lieut. James Winchell, who departed this life 13 Feb., 1778, in the 39th year of his age."

"Jesus has sweetened this repose
"And took away the fatal sting,
"Stands ready to receive all those
"That will prepare to follow him."

"In memory of Mrs. Mary, wife to Lieut. James Winchell. She died March 11, 1785. Æt. 41.

"Let worms devour my wasting flesh
"And crumble all my bones to dust,
"My God will raise my frame afresh
"At the revival of the just."

151 Lucy "was a woman of plain manners, stout frame, and robust health; a kind-hearted Christian, always ready and willing to do her whole duty to her family and neighbors" (Genealogy of Walter Thrall, Columbus, O.). Her children are all respectable and influential members of society. Her husband was a farmer. He served as an officer in the English service in 1762, and as a Captain in the American service during the War of the Revolution. He sympathized with the malcontent Shays, in 1784, and suffered considerably thereby. He removed from Windsor to Granville, Mass., before the Revolution and was a member of the Massachusetts legislature in 1788. In 1790 he removed to Rutland, Vt.

406 James, b. W. Rutland, Vt., 3 Apr., 1796.
407 Harlow, b. W. Rutland, Vt., 1802; not m. Lived W. Rutland, 1868.

156 Nathanael's house at Turkey Hills was on the west side of the Bloomfield road, about a quarter of a mile south of the intersection of the Windsor road. In 1867 the site was a tobacco field, with no trace of the house or its appurtenances remaining, save a slight depression where the well used to be. The old barn stands close to the road, on the opposite and lower hill side.

Nathanael, between 1768 and 1786 made eight distinct purchases of real estate at Turkey Hills, of which I find records at Windsor and Simsbury. The total amount paid was 584 pounds. Sept. 23, 1771, he purchased "a mansion house," which was perhaps the one above referred to. He probably removed, not long after the beginning of 1786, to Vermont.

Nathanael was Ensign in the Revolutionary army, and was present at the execution of André. He was later Captain in the Connecticut Light Horse Militia. He is said to have been subject to fits of nervous melancholy. The following is the epitaph of his first wife, from the cemetery at Turkey Hills: "Elizabeth, wife of Ensign Nathanael Winchell, died 20 Feb., 1775, aged 20." The stone stands erect. On the foot-stone are the initials, "N. W."

157 DAN WINCHELL (53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Turkey Hills, Ct., 1753; m. Lurania Miner, Lyme, Ct.; d. Pomfret, Vt., 7 Mar., 1818. Wife d. Pomfret, 1809.

410 Lurania, b. Granville, Mass., 9 May, 1797.
411 (Dau.), b. Granville, Mass.; d. in infancy.

Jan. 10, 1774, Dan bought land in Windsor, bordering on Simsbury. Aug. 31, 1782, he bought of his brother Martin, for 800 pounds, 144 acres in Windsor and Simsbury. Apr. 1, 1783, he bought, in company with Nathanael (both of Simsbury[1]), several parcels of land in Turkey Hills for 295 pounds; Mar. 19, 1784, sold the land bought of Martin, for 700 pounds; Dec. 14, 1785, made an exchange with Nathanael, and at the same time bought 7 acres of Joel Clark. May 10, 1790, he sold 11 acres in Windsor for 15 pounds. July 27, 1791, his residence was Granville, Hampshire Co., Mass., when he sold Oliver Winchell 17½ acres in Granby (Turkey Hills), for 17 pounds. His brother Martin had preceded him at Granville by about 8 years. From Granville he removed to W. Rutland, Vt., and, about 1805, to Pomfret.

Dan used to visit his relatives at North East, Duchess Co., N. Y., and he is remembered by 1109 Horace and 1118 John as "a somewhat portly man with gray eyes and chestnut hair, jovial, fond of story-telling and very social."

158 JOHN WINCHELL (56 Samuel, 14 John, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Topsham, Me., 1739; m. Ann Given, Brunswick, Me., 19 Feb., 1767; d. Topsham, 29 Nov., 1791.

[1] The boundaries between Windsor and Simsbury seem to have been uncertain. Turkey Hills, a parish of Windsor, is sometimes referred to one town and sometimes to the other. Not unfrequently the same transaction is found recorded in both towns.

412 Samuel, b. Topsham, Me., Feb., 1768.

In 1783 Jonathan settled on the "Stanton Farm" in Essex, Chittenden Co., Vt. He was one of the first settlers, and came from Mass.

177 Jonathan removed from Connecticut to the Onion River, Vt., before the Revolutionary War. "He was driven away, with all the settlement, during the war, by the tories and Indians. Their houses were burned, their stock killed, and the settlement laid waste. Jonathan and family then removed to the head of Lake Champlain and settled at White Hall, and remained there until the close of the war, when they returned to Onion River and resided for several years. His wife d. here, aged about 40. Some time after this [in 1810, says Mrs. Gorham] he went to Plattsburg, N. Y., and lived with his son Martin until his death, at the age of 97. I saw him at 80; he was as spry as a boy and his teeth were perfectly sound." [Letter from 1271 Amaziah.] His grave in Riverside cemetery, Plattsburg, N. Y., was marked by the D. A. R. in 1900.

Rufus Ogden, grandson, writes from Keyport, Monmouth Co., N. J., May 3, 1879: "She (296 Harriet) was a splendid woman, living to see four generations below her, and dying in the triumphs of faith at the age of 97." He writes again July, 1880: "Harriet Winchell Ogden was a superior woman, a remarkably intelligent Christian, left by the early death of her husband with six children to care for. She ever displayed her lovely character. She was one of the most charming women up to the time of her death, which occurred in 1874 at the ripe age of 96 years and six months, it was ever my fortune to know and love. Just before her death I took my family with my little granddaughter, and paid her a visit. She stood upon the floor as we formed a circle around her and sang a hymn and clapped her hands with joy at the sight, and broke out in praises to God. As we got in our carriage to leave, we heard her voice above, and, on looking, saw that she had climbed out of the window, and was waving her handkerchief till we passed out of sight. I next saw her sweetly sleeping in death. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, as were all her children."

376 John removed to Detroit in 1835; he was a teacher there in 1838; a school director in 1840, a school inspector in 1842. He served in the War of 1812, being wounded at the battle of Lundy's Lane. The following account of him was printed in the Detroit Free Press, 24 Oct., 1885:

A GENUINE VET.

A CHAT WITH JOHN WINCHELL, WHO IS ALMOST A CENTENARIAN—WHAT HE REMEMBERS ABOUT THE FIGHT AT LUNDY'S LANE.

At No. 123 Fort Street east in an old-fashioned house which is back from the street quite a distance lives John Winchell, whose name appears in the last directory of the city with the title "teacher" opposite it. Mr. Winchell is of short stature, with a slight, wiry figure. He was born ninety-two years ago and even now shows in his bright eye and rather sprightly step a vitality quite remarkable. Mr. Winchell was born in Kingsbury, Washington Co., N. Y. As he puts it, he "was the last in a family of eleven children and weighed four and one-half pounds at birth."

The other day a reporter for The Free Press visited Mr. Winchell and found that, barring a severe deafness, he was a most agreeable companion. His memory is good, he is jovial and well satisfied with his lot. He first came to Detroit as a sailor in 1822, but he did not locate here until 1835.

At the outbreak of the War of 1812 Mr. Winchell enlisted under Col. Dobbins, of New York State, and he was mustered in with the rest of the command at Batavia, N. Y. He made the march to the mouth of the Niagara River, and among other interesting experiences took part in the battle of Lundy's Lane, where he was wounded in the left arm. When asked as to his remembrance of the fight he said: "I remember that the few American soldiers who were there fought hard. Our little force —the volunteers—were on the left with the regulars on the right. This placed us 'green' soldiers opposite the Royal Scots and Scotch Grays, veterans of the opposing forces and at a disadvantage. In making one advance we had to fire and run alternately as best we could. In those days we had no cartridges and breech loaders. We had to trust in God and keep our powder dry, because flint-locks and priming-pans couldn't stand much rain or even dew. When the order came for us to retreat we were about six rods from the enemy and some of us didn't hear the order."

"And you were captured?"

"No, but it confused us for a time. It was at that juncture that I got my wound. The shot knocked my musket out of my hand. Lieut. Solomon Close, who lived for a long time near Pontiac in after years, was in my company and he ordered me to the rear. I told him I wanted my musket. He said he would bring it along, but that didn't do me. I went back and picked up my musket before retiring."

In referring to his youth, Mr. Winchell told of feats of strength he performed, and of other herculean performances done when he was long past the meridian of life. Once, at a barn-raising down near Monroe, Mr. Winchell and his son lifted and carried a timber the like of which had previously tested the strength of six men, and once on the wharf, near the foot of First Street, Mr. Winchell lifted half of a safe weighing 1300 pounds. As is common with such very old men, Mr. Winchell took particular delight in referring to his muscular development "when 'bout 60 years old, younger and more active."

When asked if he remembered Gen. Scott and Gen. Brady at Lundy Lane, he replied: "Yes, I remember seeing 'em there many times, though of course, I was a private and had no business with them. I can say this, however, old Gen. Brady was always ahead of us right where the fire was the hottest—at the battle of Chippewa and the fight at Niagara—and he never asked his men to go where he did not lead."

The following is from the Boston Home Journal, 28 July, 1888:

John Winchell of Detroit has been in Washington lately looking up some arrears of the pension which was granted him for wounds received in 1814 in the battle of Lundy's Lane. Mr. Winchell is ninety-one years of age and is quite blind and deaf. In his recent journey he was accompanied by his daughter, who is sixty years old.

378 DEBORAH WINCHELL (149 Martin, 53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Turkey Hills, Ct.; m. Ezekiel Benton; removed after the death of her husband, to Galena, Ill., in 1835.

1083 Ira, d. Cal. A member of the Ohio Legislature from Ashtabula Co., in 1832-3.

1084 Harriet, m. ——, Galena, Ill.

1085 Caroline, m. Dr. —— Holcomb, Granville, O., who d. in a year at St. Louis, Mo.; m. 2d, —— Stults. A beautiful and accomplished woman, gifted with brilliant powers of conversation.

379 SILAS WINCHELL (149 Martin, 53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Turkey Hills, Ct., 21 Oct., 1772; m. Ruth Rose; d. Granville, O., 25 Apr., 1846. She was b. 1778; d. Granville, O., 29 Apr., 1839.

1088 Silas Milton, b. Granville, Mass., 9 Mar., 1800; d. Granville, O., 19 Mar., 1807.
1089 Rebecca R., b. Granville, Mass., 9 Feb., 1805.
1090 Eliza Priscilla, b. Granville, O., 10 Aug., 1808.
1091 Austa Malinda, b. Granville, O., 1809.
1092 Orlena, b. Granville, O., 10 June, 1814.
1093 Silas Newell, b. Granville, O., 29 Mar., 1823; d. 15 Aug., 1824.

379 Silas was a man of wealth and intellect, and consequently exerted a leading influence. In 1805 he, with others, organized a colony which removed from Granville, Mass., and settled in Licking County, O., at a place which they also named Granville. Though a western pioneer he gave his daughters an excellent education. "He was one of the leading men of his community,"—was banker and deacon in the church. "A sermon on the death of Dea. Silas Winchell and wife was published by Rev. Jacob Little."

381 MARTIN WINCHELL (149 Martin, 53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born "about 1764," "66 or 68"; m. Martha Selina Church (Utica, N. Y.?) about 1790; moved from Mass. to Western, Oneida Co., N. Y., "about 1785," where he was one of the first settlers "about 1788"; served in the War of 1812; d. Western, Oneida Co., N. Y., "about 1852, aged 84." Accounts of his family differ. It seems quite certain that he had the following (order doubtful):

1094 Silas, b. Western, Oneida Co., N. Y.
1095 Luther, b. Western, N. Y. (?)
1096 John, b. Western, N. Y.
1097 Seth, b. Western, N. Y., 1 May, 1808.
1098 Mary (Polly), b. Western, lived and died at Western, unmarried.
1099 Lucy, b. Western, Oneida Co., N. Y. (?)
1100 Sophia, b. Western, Oneida Co., N. Y. (?)

The following are somewhat doubtful.

1101 Cenith, m. —— Roscoe, 1836; went west and failed to report; 2281 James says she m. in Ohio.

1102 Betsey.

1103 Mary, 2281 James says she m. Daniel Lucas, but had no children.

1104 Martin Luther, b. June 11, 1793, Granville, Mass.

383 MARTIN EBENEZER WINCHELL (150 James, 53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born North East, Duchess Co., N. Y., 20 Jan., 1765; m. 1st, Clarasa Hartwell, 19 Mar., 1786; who was b. North East, 10 Nov., 1768, and d. 19 July, 1811; he d. North East, 8 Sept., 1828. Farmer and public man North East, N. Y. (For Hartwell Genealogy, see Appendix.)

1105 Mary, b. North East, Duchess Co., N. Y., 25 June, 1787.

1106 Sylvia, b. North East, 19 July, 1789.

1107 James Manning, b. North East, 8 Sept., 1791.

1108 Abraham, b. North East, 5 Apr., 1794; m. Joanna Hutchinson, only dau. of Dr. Hutchinson, Dryden, Tompkins Co., N. Y., 22 Aug., 1840; d. Dryden, N. Y., 4 Apr., 1843. After his death, Joanna m. Josiah Besemer and had Martin Besemer, who m. Mary Wolcott. Joanna d. about 1850, when Besemer m. again, and lived at Motts Corners, Tompkins Co., N. Y. (1869).

Abraham received a liberal education at Yale and Harvard Colleges, and subsequently studied law three years under Gen. James Talmadge of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He settled in his native town, but seems not to have made any great efforts to secure a large practice. He was remarkably well read in law, however, and would have made an excellent judge. He possessed a calm, judicial mind, regulated at all times by the keenest sense of justice and the purest principles of morality. He possessed remarkable elegance and fluency of diction. Few men wielded a more facile or a more graceful pen. His neighbors freely appealed to him to resolve all their legal doubts. He served them as justice of the peace and as school inspector. He seconded all educational enterprises, and never omitted the opportunity to encourage a young man aspiring for knowledge. His letters from Yale College to his brother Horace, in 1815-16-17, are model expressions of fraternal solicitude and counsel. The writer is indebted to him for some early impulses, and remembers his encouraging words with gratitude to his memory. He always calculated that his nephew would secure a liberal education, but mistakenly allotted him to the profession of law. For some years before removing west he occupied the farm that had belonged to Deacon James Winchell; and inherited from him the care of his niece Mary Ann. In Dryden, he settled on a farm. At his death he bequeathed to the writer "all his Latin, Greek and French books." Personally, Abraham was tall, with rather spare features, a high forehead, and an eye beneath whose habitual languor slumbered flashes of fire. In matters of faith he held to "open communion" and unitarianism, and rejected the doctrine of "election and reprobation." (A. W.)

1109 Horace, b. North East, N. Y., 12 Aug., 1796.

1110 Thirza, b. North East, 26 Aug., 1798.

1111 Almira, b. North East, 26 Oct., 1800.

1112 Lewis, b. North East, 1 Nov., 1802; not m.; d. North East, 13 Mar., 1869, spent his life with his brother George on the old homestead farm.

1113 Louisa, b. North East, 30 Mar., 1805.

1114 Rensselær, b. North East, 29 Mar., 1807; d. 16 Sept., 1808. Was scalded in a pail of hot water left by a servant.

1115 George R., b. North East, 22 Mar., 1809.

383 Martin Ebenezer m. 2d, Sally Elderkin, 14 Jan., 1813 (?), who was b. Roxbury, Ct., 1779, and d. North East, Apr., 29, 1815.

1116 Emeline, b. North East, 23 Aug., 1813; d. same day.

1117 Sally Emeline, b. North East, 29 Apr., 1815.

Clarasa, Clarace or Clarissa Hartwell, was dau. of Maj. Abraham Hartwell of North East, who was son of Peter Hartwell from England, who came to Hebron, Conn., about 1740. Abraham Hartwell settled in 1766 at "the old Hartwell place," on the brow of the hill, two-thirds of a mile west of Spencer's Corner (settled in 1746), and half a mile east of the "old Lawrence place" (settled in 1767). The "Hartwell place" passed into the hands of Lucius Hotchkiss about 1826 or 7, and was bought by Alexander McAllister, about 1835, who repaired and improved it, and, after occupying it till about 1841, sold to Orville Dakin. A crowd of personal recollections clusters around the spot; but in 1867, one hundred and one years after settlement, the very site was a wheat field, nothing but the old well remaining to mark the spot.

(On my visiting this spot in 1898 in the company of cousin Orrin Wakeman of Millerton, Orrin said, "Newton, did you ever know a lilac to die of old age?" and pointed to an old lilac bush growing still on the old site. On leaving the buggy it was a pleasure to find also the "old well" near the lilac bush. A sprig which I took hung in my study several years, but finally the house-cleaning fiend destroyed it. N. H. W.)

Col. M. E. Winchell's wife is remembered as a woman of great mental and bodily vigor, even to the time of her death. For some time, Col. Martin E. kept a house of entertainment for travellers; and it is said that strangers often mistook his wife for one of the daughters.

Martin E., on the premature death of his father, 150 James, was left with his brothers, 382 James and 384 Philo M., upon an estate which proved to be heavily encumbered with an obligation growing out of an endorsement by their father. These three boys, having taken counsel together, resolved to devote themselves to the work of rescuing the homestead from impending sacrifice. Never did young men labor with their own hands more industriously or more resolutely. Encouraged and counseled by their most excellent mother, they had the satisfaction of seeing the debt steadily diminish; and in good time, the old homestead was their own. James, the eldest, had left the firm, as a carpenter, and settled in the valley, adjoining Esq. Martin Lawrence. Aaron Ely, the youngest, who had been a sort of ward of his older brothers, had settled as a merchant at Pine Plains. Martin E. and Philo M. continued to work the farm in partnership for many years, until they had come into unencumbered possession of about 600 acres. Finally 385 John and 1108 Abraham were called upon to make a division of the estate in behalf of the joint owners. This was effected by lot. Martin E. drew the half which embraced the original buildings,[1] and Philo M. received the eastern portion of the farm. These two brothers—as also James and Aaron E.—erected each in 1806 a fine large two-story dwelling house.[2] These buildings were for sixty years unsurpassed in style and elegance by any structures of later erection in their respective neighborhoods, and to this day (1913), notwithstanding incidental repairs and alterations, they are conspicuous for their size and their architecture and apparently as sound and useful as ever.

Martin E. was a man of strong intelligence, and great dignity and composure of manners, exercising a cool and mature judgment and securing for himself the respect and confidence of a large neighborhood. He was remarkably kind to the poor, insomuch that this trait is mentioned in his epitaph. He was a warm adherent and supporter of the Baptist church of North East. The Centennial Church Book says of him: "He was baptized in 1786, and consecrating himself to Christ, he brought his natural ardor of temperament, and great energy of mind into active employment in the service of Christianity. He was very gifted in prayer and exhortation, and often spoke with a wisdom which few could resist. It was his honor, likewise, to be a pillar in the church, and to occupy an elevated position in society. At an early period he recognized the claims of ministerial education, and gave to his son, the Rev. James M. Winchell, advantages which he employed to the best account. * * * His memory is still fresh and grateful." He was colonel of militia, commanding the 29th regiment of the 20th brigade; and represented his assembly district in the legislature in 1826, and again in 1827. He also served as justice of the peace. A portrait of him exists in the possession of his youngest daughter, Mrs. Milan Brown, Millerton, Duchess Co., N. Y.; it is reproduced herewith.

384 PHILO MILLS WINCHELL (150 James, 53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born North East, Duchess Co., N. Y., 14 Oct., 1767; m. 1st, Mary Bishop, 29 Jan., 1792, who d. 28 Apr., 1829; he d. North East, 11 Apr., 1833.

384 Philo M. m. 2d, ——, Albany, N. Y., 1831.

The traits of character exemplified by Philo M. and his brothers in clearing their paternal inheritance from incumbrance, have already been mentioned under 383 Martin E. The discipline acquired, and the habits formed during this struggle, laid the foundation of subsequent prosperity and wealth. From the biography of Philo M., written by 1108 Abraham, I make a few extracts. He united with the Baptist church in North East in 1786, and soon took rank among the most promising members. The prominent traits of his character were "enterprise, decision, activity, perseverance, quick discernment and sound judgment." In 1829 he was chosen to the legislature of the state, and proved himself a competent and useful member. As a man, his reputation was unsullied; as a Christian, he was loved and revered; as a church member, his character for consistency, piety and zeal, was deservedly high; and as a citizen, he was greatly respected and honored. Long had he been among the pillars of the church, bearing his full share of responsibility, and discharging promptly his obligations. As might be expected, his death caused a profound melancholy in the church and in community.

Of his wife it has been written that "in her was strikingly exemplified all the qualities of a good wife and mother."

388 Aaron Ely, on the partition of his father's estate, settled at Pine Plains[1] Duchess Co., N. Y., where he engaged in mercantile business, and enjoyed great prosperity for many years. He was for a long time reputed the wealthiest man in the place. Like his older brothers, he possessed a very respectable endowment of the gift of public speaking. The writer distinctly remembers, when attending the burial of 382 James, in 1834, the earth had been thrown in the grave, the friends were crowded around, and Aaron E. suddenly stood forth, and raising his hand, addressed the crowd. He alluded to the impressive circumstance that he now was the only one surviving of a large family of brothers; and continued, for a few minutes, in a strain of remark which thrilled the hearts of his listeners. He survived 14 yrs., when his own funeral was attended at Pine Plains.

Frequent mention is made of his public services in the History of Little Nine Partners, by Isaac Huntting, 1897.

Seattle, Wash., 28 Jan., 1914. At 19 he enlisted in 10th Wis. Vol. Inf., Gen. Mitchell's Div. At the capture of Nashville was taken sick and carried to Louisville, discharged and sent home. Recovering, he re-enlisted in 38th Wis., and, at the siege of Petersburg, received a lieutenant's commission in Co. C., 50th Wis., which, after leaving the state, made St. Louis their headquarters. While in Mo., at Jefferson City, Arrow Rock and other points, was on Col. Clark's staff, Inspector of Troops, etc. Afterward was at Lawrence, Kan., and Ft. Rice, Dakota. In June, 1866, when mustered out, Lieut. Topping S. was adjutant. He lived in Orford, Ia., until 1889 when he moved to Seattle, where he became Supt. of Third St. car line. From 1900 till death he was police court bailiff. The following is a part of a notice of his death which appeared in the Seattle Times of Jan. 29, 1914:

"Tip Winchell is dead!"

This "flash" of the death of Topping S. Winchell, bailiff in the Seattle municipal court for the past decade and a half, affected the average newspaper staff of the city as few news items have done. For "Tip" Winchell was, if anything, a newspaperman's institution.

The average local newspaper reporter has at one time or another during the past fifteen years "covered" police court. And "Tip" Winchell was his friend. His was the hand that guided the "cub" or the "new man" through the mazes of the municipal court of justice; or his was the hand that "dug up the dope" when one didn't know where or how to "get his story."

Death came suddenly, due to heart disease, at the family home, 725 Twenty-fourth Avenue South, late yesterday afternoon. It was wholly unexpected. He had been at work in Justice John B. Gordon's court the day before. Surviving are the widow, Eveline, and a brother, Roger, the latter employed in the city treasurer's office.

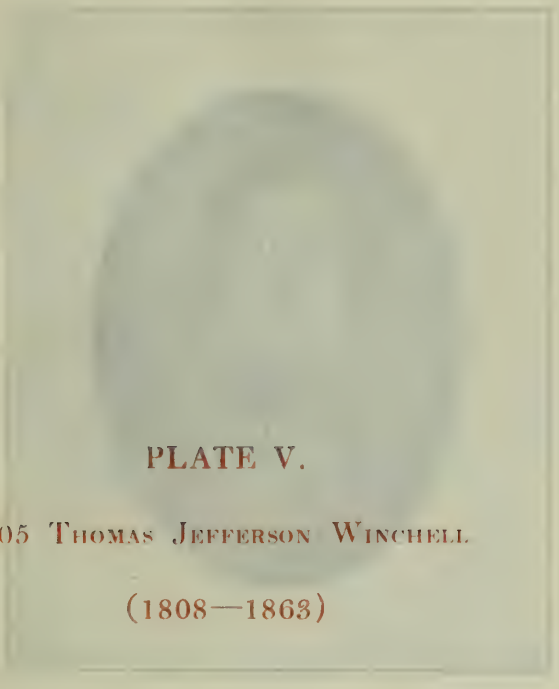

PLATE V.

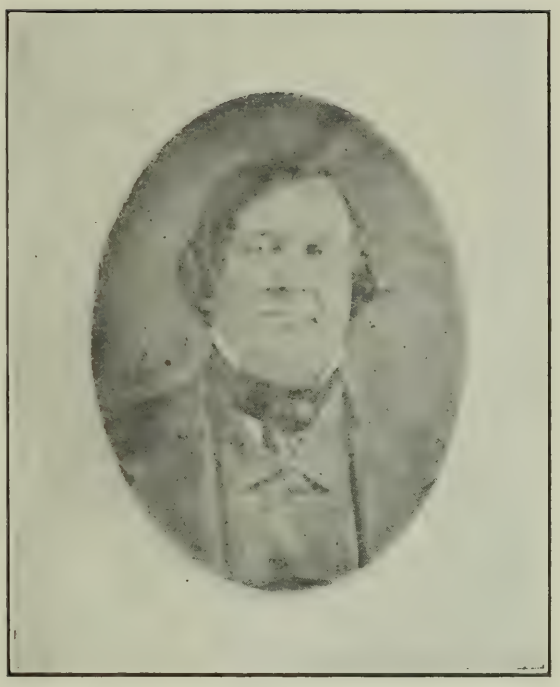
705 Thomas Jefferson Winchell

(1808—1863)



Inf. Vols., and d. in Military Hospital at Grand Rapids, Mich.

1740 Emeline Field, b. Milton Center, Saratoga Co., N. Y., 19 Jan., 1839; d. 2 Mar., 1839.

705 Thomas Jefferson was the celebrated ventriloquist and humorist. From his mother he inherited that gift of drollery and caricature which gave him a national reputation; while the delicacy and propriety of sentiment, and the fine poetic genius which always embellished his representations, and commended them to people of taste and education, were the gift of his father. From a child he manifested a marvelous power of mimicry, and an irrepressible propensity to "take off" suitable subjects for satire. On the fourth of July, 1824, he left his father's home in Baltimore, Md., and went to New York; he afterward took up his residence in Newark, N. J., where he remained several years; he then settled in Schenectady, N. Y. On one of his trips into Saratoga Co. he became acquainted with Harriet Catherine Green, whom he married in January, 1833.

In December, 1835, he commenced his public career under the management of the talented Wm. Duffy. His first appearance was a complete success, and he was eagerly caught up by Henry Meech, the proprietor of the then very popular Albany Museum. For some years he had continual engagements in the museums of the different cities of the United States; he then went to South America; upon his return, he travelled alone, making no more engagements with the museums. His artistically accurate "living portraits" made him a great favorite with the people; and years after his death many a one has been heard to exclaim: "There's but one Winchell!"

Innumerable anecdotes are told of his achievements in the way of ventriloquism; and his plays (always written by himself) are so full of it, that they can never be used by any other person. He was never personal, considering it a thing inexcusable; neither did he use the slightest deception, though he often took forty different characters in one evening, and would never allow any other person to take any of the parts, however subordinate it might be. His transformations were so perfect that the spectators seldom believed that one and the same person took all the different parts. His imitation of what was called a music box was really something wonderful. In performing this feat he carried seven different notes at one and the same time, sustaining them without inspiration for fully five minutes. Want of space forbids further description.

In personal appearance Mr. Winchell was prepossessing, being of herculean frame, over six feet in height, well proportioned, and of great muscular strength.

His benevolence was great; many a friendless sufferer still remembers his acts of kindness. His last public performance was an offering to humanity and his country. He had been performing about two weeks in Lafayette, Ind., and, although feeling very unwell, gave his final entertainment at Spenser Hall for the benefit of the Soldiers' Aid Society; he was then prostrated, and passed away on the morning of Feb. 18, 1863, having been before the public twenty-eight years.

He left two daughters, one residing (1897) in St. Louis, Mo., the other (1897) in Detroit, Mich.

"He hath dispersed abroad, he hath given to the poor."

977 Col. Elias was a merchant and postmaster at West Springfield till 1836, when the commercial crash ruined him financially. So gathering up his family of seven children he turned his back upon the luxuries of his New England home, and plunged into the almost unbroken solitudes of the great west. In June, 1837, he arrived with his family, at Quincy, Ill. The next spring he settled on a tract of wild land in Shelby County, Mo., 23 miles west of Palmyra. Here a farm was opened; by industry and good judgment field was added to field; flocks and herds were gathered; orchards began to spring up, and the comforts of New England were transplanted in the wilderness. Meantime another business—land agency—began to outstrip the farming interest, and in 1853 he removed to Palmyra. Returning in 1856, for the first time, to New England, he died in Boston, at the residence of one of his sons.

Though making no profession of religion till the age of 55 years, his life was most exemplary and Christian-like. His children received regular biblical instruction on the Sabbath, and he was himself most punctual in his attendance at church.

The character of his wife seems to have been singularly lovely. She inspired the deepest affection in the hearts of her children. One of them in speaking of her says, "She was a gem." She possessed marked intellectuality; and, in her earlier years, was quite familiar with the prominent authors—especially the poets, from whom she often quoted freely. She always kept herself well informed in regard to the state of the country; and was able to converse upon the subject in the most intelligent manner. After removal to Missouri, the entire education of her youngest son devolved upon her; and in the midst of multiplied and onerous duties, she imparted to him an education unsurpassed by that of any of his older brothers. She died with the blessings of all her acquaintances resting upon her. Seldom has the memory of the departed been so fondly cherished by so large a circle of relatives and Christian friends. Obituary notice is printed in Nathanael Ely and His Descendants, p. 130.

978 Rev. Reuben H., while living in Whateley, was a merchant; but at the close of the War of 1812 he failed. Being of a religious temper, he had believed himself called upon to be a minister of the gospel, but first entered upon the profession of teaching at Jersey City. The climate not agreeing with his wife's health, he removed to Hamilton, N. Y., and entered the Theological Seminary. After leaving it, he settled at Avon, N. Y., whence, in 1825, he removed to Lockport, N. Y. Soon after, he joined the Masonic order, but during the Morgan excitement publicly renounced it, thereby making bitter enemies, whose persecutions followed him for many years. Receiving a call from Wethersfield, Conn., he settled there, in 1828, and remained one year, when he felt impelled to return to Lockport, where he had bought 100 acres of wild land, and where he desired to meet many slanderous reports set afloat by his enemies. While living on his farm here, he traveled as a Sunday-school agent, organizing societies and churches in that region, including a portion of Canada. In 1831 he emigrated to Kalamazoo, Mich.—going in the winter with his family, by land, from Queenston by way of Detroit. He organized the 1st Baptist Church at Comstock in Galesburg, Mich., 19 Feb., 1832. The ague and the Indian war limited the residence to one summer, and he returned to Lockport in the fall. In the autumn of 1833, he became pastor of the church in Tully, N. Y., remaining a year and a half, when he yielded to the earnest request of the society at Queenston, Canada, and settled there. His throat, however, becoming affected by public speaking, he resolved to abandon it; and settling his family on his farm at Lockport, he engaged as a financial traveling agent for the American Baptist Home Missionary Society, continuing in their employ as long as his health permitted—probably till 1842. He now resided on his farm at Lockport, till 1848 or 1849, when he removed to Tully, where he died. He was a most laborious and conscientious clergyman—his forte being conciliation and organization. Nearly all his churches he found distracted by feuds, and demoralized; he al-

2165 Shalor Winchell, b. W. Springfield, Mass., 29 Aug., 1816; m. Mary R. Norton, Southampton, Mass., 23 May, 1839, who d. 5 Mar., 1869. He d. 16 Jan., 1899, at Lawrence, Kansas. Original proprietor of "Lawrence House," Lawrence, Kan.

Col. Shalor W. Eldridge removed from Mass. to Kansas City, Mo., Jan., 1855. He was for some time proprietor of the "American Hotel" there. In the spring of 1856 he purchased the hotel known as the "Free State," in Lawrence, but it was destroyed the day before it was to be opened, 21 May, 1856. In the spring of 1857, he built upon the same spot a much larger and better hotel. For some time it was the largest west of St. Louis. It was destroyed at the time of the "Lawrence Massacre," 21 Aug., 1863. He rebuilt it again in 1865, and it is still standing, though he does not own it. In 1868 he erected a large hotel in Kansas City, Mo., which his brother Thomas now owns. Col. Shalor and his brother Edwin are now in the coal business in Missouri (1868).

He attended the Philadelphia convention which nominated Fremont and was also a delegate to the Buffalo convention where he was appointed one of the National committeemen, and made agent for the Kansas immigration.

He enlisted as a private in the Second Kansas regiment; was chosen lieutenant and served six months in the "Kansas War." In 1863 he was appointed a paymaster in the United States army by Pres. Lincoln. In 1868 he was appointed Quartermaster General of Kansas by the Kansas Legislature. The next year he was elected City Marshal of Lawrence.

His wife Mary seems to have been endowed with rare gifts.

She is spoken of as one of the most earnest and active citizens of Lawrence during the troublous times of border strife. In her the poor and needy ever had a friend. She was a most devoted friend to the colored race.

He was a resident of this city way back in '45, when he had a furniture store on Woodward Avenue. The firm was known as Winchell & Co., but who the company was even the old inhabitants seem to have forgotten. He left here to join the forty-niners in the rush for gold. While out in California he picked up the title of judge. Six months after he left a son was born whom he never saw. The wife died about four years ago. One son lives in Cleveland."

1091 Austa Malinda was educated in the school of Mary Lyon, Ipswich, Mass., and "led a thronged and ardent life." Her husband is spoken of (Silliman's Journal) as the founder of Marietta College, O. He founded the Episcopal Seminary at Gambier, and held the presidency two years. He then entered the ministry of the M. E. Church; and after traveling some years was appointed to the presidency of the Preparatory Department of the Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio. Pending his entrance on the duties of the position, he preached at Chesterville; and his wife had the care of a Seminary there, in which she met with great success in her religious efforts. He raised means to found the Biblical Professorship at Delaware; and then became President of Xenia Female College; subsequently he was one of the founders of Wilberforce University. Meantime he and his wife assumed the editorship of The Beauty of Holiness, which they removed to New York City, and conducted with exceeding success till the breaking out of the Civil War. Mr. French then enlisted as a Chaplain in the Regular Army. His field of labor was South Carolina. He became deeply interested in the measures which led to the establishment of the Freedmen's Bureau, and was an intimate cooperator with Gen. O. O. Howard in securing the requisite legislation and in the management of the affairs of the Bureau.

Mrs. French speaks of their busy and earnest life as "one long sacrifice, though a joyful one, by grace."

2373 Louisa Tamma, b. Boston, Mass., 17 Dec., 1818; m. Thomas Dudley Sterling, Buffalo, N. Y., 18 June, 1846; d. Troy, N. Y., 6 Aug., 1866. She was educated by her uncle and aunt (1105 Mary). She was a vivacious and accomplished woman; possessing strong intelligence and a refined organization. Untoward circumstances blighted an existence bright with promise. He was b. 1814; was living at Yreka, Cal., in 1858; no ch.

1107 James Manning was prepared for college at Sharon, Ct., in 1806-8, under Rev. Daniel Parker. He entered Union College in 1808, and remained three years; but preferring to graduate at an institution patronized by his own Church, he entered Brown University, and graduated in 1812. Oct. 4th of the same year he was licensed to preach by the Baptist Church in North East; and in June, 1813, was ordained, at Bristol, R. I.

March 14th, 1814, he was installed pastor over the First Baptist Church in Boston, where he occupied the difficult position of successor to the great Dr. Stillman. Here he remained to the early close of his active and useful life. On Saturday, the 17th of July, 1819, he visited Beverly in his usual health, and the next day preached three sermons; but was immediately taken unwell, and never preached afterwards. He suffered from bleeding of the lungs. His funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Baldwin, of Boston. Dr. Wayland, also, if my memory serves me, preached a funeral sermon from the text, "He was a burning and a shining light," which has been published.

As a preacher Dr. Rufus Babcock compares him with Summerfield. "In person rather below the medium size, his youthful vivacity was finely tempered by a dignified Christian urbanity. His elocution was distinct, impressive and most winning. Well can I conceive how his associates, Dr. Baldwin and Dr. Sharp, should each have exclaimed at his death: 'I am distressed for thee, my brother; very dear hast thou been to me; thy love was wonderful.'"

He was, at the time of his death, joint editor, with Drs. Baldwin and Sharp, of the American Baptist Magazine, which announced his death in March, 1820. A biographical sketch was published July, 1820, Vol. II, pp. 345-353. He was also the editor of an edition of Watts' hymns, which was widely used by the Baptist churches in America under the title of Winchell's Watts. He excelled as a musician, and published a work on sacred harmony. He was also the author of Two Discourses exhibiting a Historical Sketch of the First Baptist Church in Boston, 1819, to which reference has before been made. He was regarded as destined to the presidency of Brown University. He was president of the Young Men's Auxiliary Baptist Education Society in Boston.

The fragrance of his name lingers not only in the affections of his surviving relatives, but in the memory of many survivors in the villages of eastern Massachusetts, to whom he ministered occasionally during the six laborious years of his residence in Boston. (See Sprague's Annals of the American Pulpit, vol. iv, p. 595.)

The following is from the "traveling diary" of Alexander Winchell:

1107 Rev. James M. Winchell

List of Deaths in Boston, 1810 to 1824. This says: "Rev. James M. Winchell died 22 Feb., 1820. Aged 28, of consumption." Buried in Tomb "99 C. Hill O. G." (C. Hill means "Copp's Hill" and O. G. signifies "Old Ground"—to which subsequently an addition was made. From another book I find: "Buried Feb. 25. Winslow, Undertaker." The names of the owners of the tomb are first, William Alexander and Prince Snow. These are crossed out and the name of Ann Freeland stands as the owner.

I found Edward McDonald the Superintendent of "Copp's Hill and Burial Ground," who took me to tomb 99. It is on the east side near the middle close by the iron fence. Here is a slate slab, leaning against the fence on the inside of which I find "No. 99, Tomb of Ann Freeland. Repaired 1845." On the opposite side of the slab next the fence is this: "William Alexander and Prince Snow, Junr's Tomb, October, 1807." All this agrees with the record. The name of James M. Winchell does not anywhere appear in this cemetery, and that is the reason of my failure to find his place of burial in 1869 [1] when I searched for it in company with Edward Johnson.

At a reception in Melrose I met Mrs. Mary Livermore, who states that when a young girl she attended the First Baptist Church and often heard Uncle James preach. She says that Ann Freeland and Prince Snow, whom she remembers, were his parishioners. It seems probable that his body was deposited in Ann Freeland's tomb with a view to subsequent removal to the family burial ground at North East, where a monument has been erected to his memory.

1109 HORACE WINCHELL (383 Martin, 150 James, 53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born North East, Duchess Co., N. Y., 12 Aug., 1796; m. Caroline McAllister of Salisbury, Ct., at North East, 16 Dec., 1823. She was dau. of Alexander McAllister, and b. North East, 29 Apr., 1806. They lived chiefly in North East, but also at Lakeville, Salisbury, Ct. He d. Lakeville, Litchfield Co., Ct., 27 June, 1873. She died Lynn, Mass., 23 Sept., 1892.

2381 Charles McAllister, b. North East, N. Y., 18 Dec., 1845.

The following sketch of 1109 Horace is compiled from that printed in the first edition of this work, written by his son Alexander, and from a manuscript written by his son-in-law, Edward Johnson, which was found among the papers of Prof. Johnson after his death at Lynn, Mass., in the latter part of the winter of 1893-1894, evidently written in 1873. In the compilation the writer (N. H. W.) has added some facts and reflections based on his own knowledge.

Horace was destined by his father (383 Martin Ebenezer) for a professional life and was given a thorough preparation for a collegiate course of study, at a somewhat famous classical school conducted at Sharon, Conn., by Rev. Daniel Parker. He was later in school at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He was with his brother, 1107 Rev. James M. Winchell, at Boston, during two years, and for three months attended the Phillips Academy at Andover. Here he was in poor health, and he returned (1817) abruptly to his father's house, at 21 years of age. He was shaping his studies with the intention of being a Baptist minister, in the church fellowship in which he was born and bred. He became dissatisfied with the tenets and practices of this church and absorbed in an effort to effect reforms within his church, and this effort he extended to the community and finally to the world. His ministerial mission became a sacred and impelling evangel to humanity. He was married in 1823 at 27 years of age when he was in the initial fervor of his independent ministry. He labored by personal appeal, by public addresses, and by printed works. He traversed on foot the country about, burdened with a liberal supply of his own and other pamphlets which he distributed widely and usually free of cost to the recipient. He lost the favor of his church and the confidence of his family and friends. On the death of his father in 1828 it was found that his share in the estate was diminished because of this lack of confidence. He was ostracised by his church and by society. The community in which he was born and in which he spent the greater portion of his days was dominated by the Baptist sect; and by most to whom he made his appeals he was received as a fanatical reformer. They turned away with indifference or heard him with stolid silence; but those who met him as he desired found him armed at all points.. Few have had a more exact and extensive knowledge of the literal Scriptures, and his power of quotation was amazing. He seemed to see every verse in the Bible, and when he quoted a verse he usually gave its number and chapter, others correlated with it rushing into juxtaposition at his bidding.

His first work, of 112 pages, was published as early as 1827, and was entitled The Uniting of all Christians. In this he pleads for the breaking down of the barriers between the sects; for the arbitration of national disputes, without resort to war, and the abolition of the system of slavery. Every one conversant with the progress of modern events must perceive that he was one of the very foremost to put forward three great moral ideas, whose agitation has characterized the age in which we live. In 1836 he published a pamphlet entitled A Plea for Reform; and in 1839, a Sequel to this. Other pamphlets followed in rapid succession, until no less than 22 considerable publications emanated from his pen. His style is characterized by great simplicity, unreserve and copiousness of scriptural and historical quotations.

The chief positions which he always maintained are the following: 1. The sinfulness of sectarianism, and especially the practice of close communion; 2. The duty of non-resistance, even in courts of law; 3. The sin of slavery; 4. The absurdity of the trinitarian doctrine. 5. The right of confuting the minister in the pulpit. Incidentally he taught also the doctrine of the destruction of the wicked, and the literal reign of Christ during the millennium; and later insisted upon the imminent consummation of the prophetic periods, and the near approach of the end of the world.

In short, he was a man who was ahead of his day in most of the principles which he advocated, but his voice was like a voice in the wilderness. His patrimony vanished in the face of general distrust and disbelief, and he was reduced to financial extremity. He never wavered, however, in his religious dogmas. He was one of the California "forty-niners," but he came back poorer than he went. His last days were spent at Lakeville, Ct., in arduous preparation of a new publication.

He died rather suddenly, of blood-poisoning resulting from a slight wound on his thumb which he received from a splinter when splitting wood at home. Almost before he knew the severity of his disease he was unable to articulate. Of his family those present were only his wife and his daughter Antoinette (Mrs. Johnson). His four living sons, summoned at once from Minnesota, Chicago, and Syracuse, N. Y., arrived only in time to bear him to his tomb, which was in the cemetery at Spencer's Corner. On his grave stone, below his name and the dates of his birth and death, were simply the words:

How often he said:

"I do not expect my reward in this world."

After the death of his wife in 1892 his remains and those of his deceased daughters Clarissa and Laura were removed to the cemetery at Winchell mountain, and all were interred there with a common granite monument marking the spot.

1111 Almira was a girl of uncommon beauty, and became a woman of strong intelligence and energy of character. She was, moreover, exemplary for her piety and benevolence, especially to the poor. She delighted to extend her hospitalities to her friends, and particularly to ministers of the gospel. She was very successful in domestic management; and though she raised a large family, she imparted to all an unexceptionable domestic education. Her husband was a man of extraordinary mental endowments; abounding in ideas, but closely confined to his business, which he prosecuted with great pecuniary success.

1113 LOUISA WINCHELL (383 Martin, 150 James, 53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born North East, Duchess Co., N. Y., 30 Mar., 1805; m. Edmund Reed; d. Bethany, Pa., 22 May, 1834. He was b. 28 Dec., 1801; d. Bethany, Wayne Co., Pa., 1857. He m. 2d, ——?

1121 Dea. Martin Ely retained the homestead of his father, 384 Philo M. The family mansion is located on the eastern brow of Winchell Mountain. (See 383 Martin E.) He was strongly attached to his family, and greatly afflicted at the frequent deaths of his children. The monument which marks the place of the remains of Sarah and Emily bears the following inscriptions:

[Sarah's Words]

Short was our passage to the grave;
Yet not in those cold vaults we dwell;
We rose with Him who died to save,
And all, dear parents, all is well.

[Emily's Words]

In those bright mansions of the blest
Where never dying anthems swell,
Sweetly in Jesus' arms we rest.
Then, till you join us there, farewell.

[The Parents' Response]

Fondly the parent weepeth o'er the urn
Of infant ashes; yet with Christ ye dwell;
And to his throne our anxious eyes we turn.
Then, till again we greet you there, farewell.

1122 WILLIAM WINCHELL (384 Philo, 150 James, 53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born North East, N. Y., 21 Aug., 1802; m. Laura E. Lawrence, North East, 28 Sept., 1825, who was b. North East, 22 Feb., 1806. (For Lawrence Genealogy see Appendix.) Lived Springfield, O., 1870.

2422 William Lawrence, b. North East, N. Y., 31 Aug., 1827.
2423 Flora Avonette, b. North East, N. Y., 23 July, 1830. Lived Springfield, O., 1870.
2424 Elizabeth Lorain, b. North East, 9 Oct., 1833.
2425 Hilen Bryan, b. North East, 9 July, 1836; d. North East, 12 Sept., 1838.
2426 Helen Bryan, b. North East, 3 Dec., 1842; m. Capt. Vincent Davis, and resided (in 1886) at Alexandria, D. C.
2427 James Frank, b. North East, 19 Apr., 1847; m. Lida L. Jones, Yellow Springs, O., 11 Nov., 1868. Inventor of "Champion Adjustable Road Scraper" and "Champion Corn and Cane Harvester," also a fruit jar, No. 58,185; President of the "Winchell Machine Manufacturing Co.," Springfield, O., 1870.

1122 William settled at Spencer's Corner, Duchess Co., N. Y., as a merchant, as early probably as 1831. He did business under the firm of "Winchell & Tripp," and continued at the old stand, after Tripp's death. He erected a fine dwelling house nearly in the style adopted by his relatives in the preceding generation. On the diversion of the settlement to Millerton, on the Harlem R. R., and the consequent decline of business at Spencer's Corner, he removed to Springfield, O., where he lived in 1868.

1123 CAROLINE WINCHELL (384 Philo, 150 James, 53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born North East, 2 Apr., 1804; m. Perry, son of Douglass Clark, 19 Feb., 1829; d. North East, 20 Oct., 1863. He was b. 7 May, 1801; d. Hartford, Ct., 27 May, 1838.

2428 Edward W., b. North East, Feb. 25, 1830; m. Mary J. Mead, Amenia, N. Y., 29 Sept., 1858, who was b. 3 July, 1832. Was ordained to the Baptist ministry at Logansport, Ind., and was pastor of the church there in 1859-60; was editor and publisher of the Witness—a Baptist paper for Ind.—about 4½ years (about half this time in partnership with M. G. Clark). At this time the Witness and the Christian Times, of Chicago, were united; and for two years he was associate editor of the new paper, residing at Indianapolis. In the autumn of 1868 he connected himself with the Baptist mission in India—taking the appointment of "Missionary and Printer," with his station at Sibsagor in Assam, a province in eastern India. He was to have charge of the Baptist printing establishment at that place. He sailed with his wife 21 Oct., 1868.

2428 Edward W. graduated with A. M. at Brown University in 1857; given degree of D. D. by same in 1906—largely for reducing to writing one more of the languages of India, and for work in that language and respecting it.

In 1876 at his own request he was released from the work at Sibsagor to commence mission work among the savage hill tribes south of Assam. On application to the Governor General of India representing the Crown of England for consent to take up his abode on these hills beyond English jurisdiction, he was told he must do so at his own personal risk, not depending upon the English Government for protection or redress. Here with his wife he has toiled,—is toiling still,—has given to this unlettered Naga tribe a written language—the Gospel and books. Schools have been established, churches organized, and a knowledge more or less of the wide world opened to them. Several of these formerly savage tribes have accepted Christianity and are annexed to the English government. Other missionaries have followed and the work is still progressing. Mr. Clark is now on the field to complete a Naga-English dictionary after which he will expect to retire. During these 42½ years of service he has had only two furloughs and these 2 or 2½ years each.

His wife has published a sketch of this work entitled A Corner in India.

2429 Philo Winchell, b. North East, 18 Dec., 1831; m. Alice M. Harris, 5 Sept., 1860, who d. 4 July, 1864. Farmer, on the homestead, Millerton, N. Y., 1868.

2538 Alice, b. 13 June, 1848.

1271 Amaziah's earliest recollection is of the burning of the barracks at Plattsburg by the British in 1813; the next, of the severe winter of 1815-16, when his only clothing consisted of a woolen shirt, while his father lived at Ticonderoga in a poor log house. When his father removed to Shoreham, Vt., Amaziah worked among the farmers for 12½ cents a day. At 17, he was bound out; at 21, he received $50 and his father $60 for his services. He had also had six months' schooling. After marriage, came to Michigan, being in Detroit in 1833, and settling at Lima, Washtenaw Co., in 1836. Was in the "Toledo War," enjoying the rank of 1st Sergeant in the Washtenaw Regt. Sold out and bought in Livingston Co., where Pinckney now stands. Sold his last purchase and bought a farm in Ingham Co. in 1838 when there were only 3 houses in the county. He summoned the first jury and opened the first court in the county. Farm now (1868) consists of 200 acres—150 improved, with good buildings and unincumbered. Held the office of High Sheriff in Ingham Co. four years; was representative in the legislature in 1849-50, and held some town office most of the time for 25 years. He helped raise the first four shanties for white settlers in Ingham Co. Was in Vermont in June, 1867, and saw the field where he picked up wheat, head by head, after the reapers, to buy the first hat he ever had; saw the old shoe-shop where were made the first shoes he ever had, though 13 years old. Was on board the Meteor when she collided with the Pewabic, 9 Aug., 1865.

1309 Milo resided in Madison Co., N. Y., until 1823. He then spent ten years in traveling through the middle and southern states, when, after marrying, he settled in his native town. In June, 1836, he removed to West Northfield, Cook Co., Ill.

Of his children, 2603 Ann and 2607 Harriet became noted as teachers in the schools of Chicago. On the day after the death of the elder the Chicago Record-Herald printed the following:

"Chicago school children, both the younger and the 'grown-ups,' who are handling the affairs of the city, lost a beloved friend yesterday in the death of Miss Ann Elizabeth Winchell, thirty-eight years a teacher in the city's public schools.

"In those years the kindly teacher, who some times served as family adviser and even as nurse to her charges, saw the city destroyed by the great fire and saw much of the business district rebuilt under the personal direction of her 'children.'

"Suffers Over Six Years.

"Miss Winchell died shortly after noon yesterday of paralysis, from which she had been suffering more than six years. Death came in the pretty little home in Norwood Park, where the Winchells have lived since 1872. Funeral services will be held there to-morrow afternoon, after which the body will be taken to Northfield, Ill., for interment.

"Miss Winchell and her sister, Miss Harriet N. Winchell, had the proud distinction of being two of the oldest, if not the oldest, school-teachers in Chicago. The former came to Chicago when only 2 years old from the Winchell homestead in New York, where she was born in 1834. When the Chicago Normal School was opened in 1857 she was one of the first to enroll as a pupil. Likewise, she was in the first graduating class that received diplomas in 1859.

"It was but a few days later that she was assigned to teach in 'one of the outlying schools,' a branch of the old Jones School at Twelfth Street and Michigan Avenue. To reach the school it was necessary to 'drive out,' as the locality, now the center of the automobile row, was considered the farthermost corner of Chicago's outskirts then.

"Faithful Work Rewarded.

"A year later the school officials recognized Miss Winchell's faithful service and rewarded it by making her a head assistant at the Foster School on the West Side.

"Miss Winchell served in that capacity nearly five years, when she was transferred to the historic old Scammon School, which occupied the present site of John M. Smyth's store on West Madison Street. While teaching in the Scammon School Miss Winchell had as her pupils children who later became Chicago's most prominent citizens. Among them were Dr. William T. Belfield, Dr. Theodore Roberg, former Judge Lineberger, James A. Petersen and Lynden Bates. Lucia Ames Mead of Boston, who is prominently associated with the international peace movement, also was her pupil, as was the late John Ballantyne.

"The stroke of paralysis which yesterday proved fatal compelled Miss Winchell to cease teaching in 1897. She was able to be out of her home for brief periods after the first stroke, but never recovered her health."

The same newspaper, Feb. 4, 1910, had given a similar sketch of the life of the younger teacher, viz.:

"Harriet N. Winchell has been principal of the Samuel J. Tilden School at West Lake and Elizabeth Streets for twenty-four years. She is still there. Her sister Ann's teaching career began in 1859 and continued until 1897, when she suffered a stroke of paralysis and was compelled to retire. Both live together in a pretty home in Norwood Park.

"In the years that Miss Harriet has been connected with the Tilden School she has seen the district degenerate from a fashionable one to one in which the families of the poor predominate. In the early days she had as her pupils Richard T. Crane, Jr., Charles R. Crane, C. K. G. Billings, his wife, who was Miss Blanch McLeish, Lillian Russell, and Beatrice MacKenzie, the actresses, and other persons now well known. Until his death 'Tad' Lincoln was one of her boys.

"To-day the whole district about the school has changed. The wealthy families have moved away and their places have been taken by the cosmopolitan population that goes to make up a factory district. Yet through all this Miss Winchell's love for the old school has not changed. Repeatedly influential friends have sought to induce her to take up school work in a more aristocratic section, but to all these friends she replies:

" 'No, I like my work here and I shall stay. The district has changed, it is true, but so have my ideals. I feel that I can do more good here than I could anywhere else.'

" 'Time has created entirely new demands on the principal in this school,' said Miss Winchell yesterday, as she watched her pupils pouring pell-mell out of the building into the streets. 'In the old days I was merely a teacher, for my pupils had the best of home influences and needed none of the preliminary training that the offspring of the very poor do. Now I am teacher, nurse and family adviser. My responsibilities have enlarged. I am a much more important figure in this community than I was twenty years ago. My deliberate choice is to remain always in the Tilden School, for there is a work doing here that is vital to the future of Chicago.'

"Since she was 19 years old Miss Winchell has been a school-teacher. After she had graduated in 1864 in the Chicago Normal School her first appointment was to the Newberry School, in charge of the first grade. A month later she was transferred to the Washington School, and in 1867 was assigned as head teacher to the Elizabeth Street Primary School, then occupying the site of the Tilden School. Two years later she was made principal.

"When, eighteen years ago, Richard T. Crane volunteered to equip a workshop in the Tilden School for the practical education of seventh and eighth grade boys, that building became the experiment station of the Chicago public schools. And there, under Miss Winchell, industrial training had its inception. Four years later the board of education took hold of the plan and extended manual training to other schools. Miss Winchell's school to-day is the only school in which girls are instructed both in sewing and cooking, a fact accountable also by Crane's interest in this kind of practical education.

" 'The unstable social conditions of the locality form the only drawback to our efforts to teach boys and girls how to use their hands,' said Miss Winchell. 'There are many reasons why their attendance is not regular.

" 'There seems never to have been a time when the efficiency of public school education has been considered more seriously than now. The value of industrial training is acknowledged by all educators. Home training and social conditions have changed. Schools must do what the home has failed to do for the protection of future government.' "

In 1916, 2607 Harriet retired as principal of the Tilden School after a continuous school service of 51 years. Shortly afterward she died suddenly of heart failure on April 19, 1916. She was then vice-president of the Principals' Association of Chicago. Her portrait is given herewith.

Two Moods.

"O, my heart is light, and the world is bright
As the wild flowers in the meadow;
And the days are fair—on the ambient air,
Lies never a cloud or a shadow,

And my heart in its quiet trust is at rest,
Since whatever cometh—'He knoweth best.'

"O, I envy the dead in their narrow bed,
For they hear no sound of weeping;
And no grief can come in that long, long home,
Where they're gently, quietly sleeping.
For the world is dark, and my heart is 'lone,
Friendship is dead and Hope has flown!

"Thus ever along life's pathway
We mingle pleasure with pain,
And the sun in its silvery brightness
Is hidden by the rain."

3654 Flora Mabel, b. Boston, Mass., 29 Nov., 1864. Graduate of the Boston Girls' High School; after teaching for some years she became assistant librarian at the Forbes Library, Northampton, Mass.; since 1902 has been librarian of City Library at Manchester, N. H.

2148 Rensselær, removing to the wilderness of Missouri with his father, in 1837-8, spent some time in clearing up the land, but, becoming convinced of his duty to enter the ministry, he commenced preparation for college. Wholly self-taught, he entered Marion College, Mo., with superior preparation, but, after one year, removed to Illinois College, at Jacksonville, where he graduated as valedictorian, 25 June, 1845. Spending two years in the Theological Seminary at Andover, Mass., he was called to serve his Alma Mater as Tutor in Greek and Latin—occupying the position of a professor. Here his health began to give way under too severe mental labor, and his last year at Andover was spent under less favorable circumstances than his first. He graduated there, however, 5 Sept., 1849. For five years he struggled with failing health, in the labors of the ministry, preaching at Tully, Mo., in 1850, and in southern Iowa, in 1852; but finally was compelled to desist. He left Iowa in Nov., 1853, and has since resided in Boston, seeking such employment as would best comport with his feeble health. His wife, married in Illinois, was one of "Gov. Slade's Teachers," so called. His estimation of her is shown from the fact that he considers the following passage, struck upon in a trial of the "Virgilian Sortes," in his first year at college, as providentially pointing her out:

> Ad terram Hesperiam venies, ubi Lydius arva
> Inter opima virûm leni fluit agmine Tybris.
> Illic res lætæ, regnumque, et regia conjux
> Parta tibi. [Æneid II.: 731–4.]

He wrote (Apr., 1897): "My next birthday will record me 80. My hand does not tremble, and I am well and hearty, having no pains or aches; and I go up and down stairs about as well as I ever did." All this in spite of early feeble health, as mentioned. He knows a great many Winchells and is cordial and interested. Address, Dryads Green, Northampton, Mass.

Hon. Thomas L. Anderson was a member of Congress from Missouri.

2151 ELISHA COTTON WINCHELL (977 Elias, 349 Elisha, 139 Elisha, 49 Thomas, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born West Springfield, Mass., 25 July, 1826; m. Laura Coralie Alsip, Sacramento, Calif., 7 July, 1853. She was born at Sheppardstown, Va., 28 Mar., 1834 (3d dau. Dr. Joseph Alsip and Mary De Butts McKim), and died at San Francisco, Calif., 17 Nov., 1908, as a result of exposure during the San Francisco earthquake and resultant fire. He d. Berkeley, Calif., July 24, 1913.

3667 Edwin (twin), b. Sacramento, Calif., Mar., 1854; d. in infancy.

3668 Elisha (twin with 3667), d. in infancy.

3669 Lilbourne Alsip, b. Sacramento, Calif., 9 Oct., 1855.

3670 Iva Mary, b. Sacramento, Calif., Feb., 1856; d. Sacramento, 10 Aug., 1858.

3671 Ledyard Frink, b. Fort Miller, Fresno County, Calif., 30 Nov., 1859.

3672 Anna Cora, b. "Rancho de los Ulpinos," near Rio Vista, Solano Co., Calif., 24 June, 1870. Graduated at "Field Seminary" in Oakland in 1889. In the summer of 1900 she ascended Mount Goddard, 14,600 feet above sea level, with her brother and others, being the second white woman to reach the peak. In 1902 she became music and dramatic critic for the San Francisco Dramatic Review and also pipe organist at Howard Methodist Church; in 1904 she joined the staff of the San Francisco Call as assistant society editor.

April 18th, 1906, a large part of San Francisco was shaken into chaos, to be consumed by fire. The editor in her night-clothes,—wrapped in a bed-quilt hastily caught up,—fled from the fourth story of the Hotel Argyle, 234 McAllister Street, just escaping being crushed by a heavy brick cornice that fell and piled the sidewalk with débris. Directly opposite, the ponderous columns and massive walls of the City Hall were crashing into McAllister Street, and the four stories of the Supreme Court Building on the corner of Larkin, were hurled across that street to the farther sidewalk.

Running to the center of these cross-streets as the only place of safety, she stood until the air was free of flying missiles, and the earth was firm below,—when friends brought her some promiscuous articles of attire, with which, in a deserted saloon, she made her morning toilet. Abandoning the tottering hotel with her furniture, piano, music, pictures, books, valuables and mementoes, and saving only a music-book and pair of shoes, she hurried to rejoin the affrighted ladies of the "Argyle," waiting in disheveled robes at a safer spot, corner of Larkin Street and Golden Gate Avenue. In a vacated shanty, recently an Italian restaurant, they had dry bread and coffee for breakfast.

Towering columns of black smoke and red flashes of fire were already bursting forth, fed by volumes of gas pouring from broken pipes,—heralding the doom of the shattered city.

The group of forlorn ladies, each with a handful of belongings, were soon seated on the bottom of a rough lumber-wagon provided by a Standard Oil manager, and hauled to the Golden Gate Park, two miles distant, where they found refuge for three days in a U. S. Army tent. The ocean of fire that swept the city for three days and nights, destroyed all the family property elsewhere, leaving her only the misfit raiment in which she was attired, and her music-book.

After temporarily resuming work on the Call, she accepted a position on the staff of the San Francisco Chronicle, in 1906, and took charge of the "Army and Navy" Department, the "Relief Corporation" of the "Red Cross" funds, and general assignments.

From the age of five to eleven, 2151 Elisha attended the public schools of West Springfield, Mass. On the 13th day of Nov., 1833, at two o'clock in the morning, he witnessed the appalling storm of many-colored fires that, for two hours, filled the eastern heavens; the first meteoric shower recorded in the western hemisphere.

His father lost most of his property in 1837 and the family set forth overland for the wild domains beyond the Mississippi River.

Traversing western Massachusetts, New York, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, crossing Lake Erie by steamer from Buffalo to Detroit, they reached Quincy, Ill., on the Mississippi, 9 Aug.,

(1826—1913)

1837. There were no railroads except from Albany to Schenectady, 16 miles, and from Niagara to Buffalo, 22 miles. In January, 1838, they crossed the Mississippi with wagons over the upturned and refrozen icebergs, and took refuge in a log cabin by a marsh near the swampy hamlet, Marion City, Mo., on the west bank of the river.

In Apr., 1838, they journeyed thirty miles west, and on the 18th, made a new home on a lonely prairie, in a new log cabin without door, floor, window or chimney. Two miles away dwelt their only neighbor. There were no towns, villages, churches, schools, nor post-offices, no flour mills, sawmills, lumber, brick nor lime in this land of deer, wild turkeys, prairie hens, quails, rabbits, hares, wolves, wild cats, badgers, opossums, rattlesnakes and wild honey-bees!

The merchant-manufacturer of mid-New England, with his young sons,—novices to the wilderness,—most courageously aided by the devoted wife and young daughters,—now faced the task of carving a new home out of the solitudes. Forest trees were wrought into rails, wide fields enclosed, grains and vegetables planted, orchards set, cattle and swine reared, wild bees captured, their treasures confiscated and new hives set up, while herds of kine supplied generous treasures of the dairy.

A limestone ledge gave lime for a chimney, and the sombre-walled cabin became an alabaster cottage. At last, abundance, prosperity and happiness rewarded the courage and toils of the refugees. All of which, 2151 Elisha beheld,—in much of which he participated.

The mother and the daughters of fifteen and seventeen taught the boys of five, eight and twelve, who afterwards became teachers in the wide-scattered, log school-houses in the endless forests. The daughters subsequently taught in the principal schools in Palmyra.

Once a week the mails were brought on horseback to the lonely cottage, which became, in Sept., 1838, the "West Springfield" post office.

After a term at Marion College, in Marion County, 2151 Elisha entered as a law student the law office of Messrs. Anderson and Dryden, his brothers-in-law, at Palmyra; and, in June, 1848, was admitted to the bar. In November following, he opened a law office in Paris, Monroe County, forty miles west, but on Apr. 11, 1850, with three other young men, he set out with a wagon and six horses, to cross the continent to dig gold in California.

Floundering through the black prairie mud of Missouri for four weeks, they reached, May 10th, the city of St. Joseph, on the Missouri River, the "ultima thule" of civilization. On the 17th they crossed to the west bank on a mud-scow rowed by oars, landing in a camp of Kickapoo Indians.

The next day they joined an endless caravan of white-topped wagons, horses, mules and oxen and launched out on a lonely waste of two thousand miles inhabited only by savage Indians. Following the turbid Nebraska and bright Sweet Water Rivers, they crossed, June 25th, the "roof of the continent," the Rocky Mountains, by the south pass, at an altitude of 7490 feet, whence they plunged into the silent expanse of waterless, yellow deserts that lie between that chain and the Snow Mountains of California.

July 27th, at the Humboldt River, 600 miles from Sutter's Fort (Sacramento), their provisions nearly exhausted, and their animals unable, from starvation, to haul their wagon, they cut out its spokes and sides to make pack-saddles. Then, abandoning everything except their arms, a little food and their blankets, they took their way down the Humboldt Valley, a hideous desert, which, for three hundred miles, was strewed with dead and dying animals. The river was a "Styx" of polluted, alkali water, unfit for man or beast. Four of their horses died and the party scattered. During the night of August 11th and the forenoon of the 12th, 2151 Elisha led his staggering horses through scenes of death and desolation, over the arid sands of the 40-mile Humboldt Desert, to the ice-fed waters of the Carson River. Following that stream southward for eighty miles, he entered, August 25th, the "Carson Cañon," a cleft in the granite wall opening into the Snow Mountains, beyond which lay the gold of California. August 26th, he crossed the territorial line of California, two weeks prior to its admission as a state into the Federal Union. Abandoning here, on a grassy meadow, his helpless animals and shouldering a 30-pound pack of law-books, biscuit and bacon, he slowly approached the granite ledges and snow-fields of the Californian chain, which, three days later, he surmounted and crossed at 9338 feet, and at once began the rough descent to the Pacific Ocean.

At dark of Aug. 31, 1850, no roof at hand, he made his leafy couch under a low-branching tree, sleeping soundly until the frost, at dawn, awakened him. Before him was his last day's journey. Sutter's Fort (Sacramento) was forty miles distant. At sunrise, by a brook, he breakfasted on two ship's crackers with ice-cold water. At sunset, half-starved, but in robust health, in tatters and wholly penniless, but in high spirits, he entered the mush-room city of cloth and clapboards—Sacramento—half-hidden in the willow thickets by the river, thus happily ending his pilgrimage of 142 days from Paris. One week later, his three companions arrived in similar plight. Two years afterward, they had all vanished from earthly scenes. He, only, of the four, survived.

The first of the Winchell family, so far as is known, to set foot on California soil, he has never left its confines. [Note 1109 Horace was in California as one of the "forty-niners" but returned in 1850. N. H. W.] He came to dig gold, scorning all other occupations. But the eager "49-ers" had scraped bare the surface "placers." To work the deep, gold-bearing ledges required capital and machinery, which he had not.

In Jan., 1851, he opened a law-office in Sacramento and in 1852 was elected a Justice of the Peace, with an annual salary of $5000. In 1855 he was elected City Assessor of Sacramento. In 1857 a frenzied rush of Californians to British Columbia gold mines paralyzed, for the time, all business; and, closing his office, he took charge, for 18 months, of a large cattle and dairy ranch in Solano County.

In July, 1859, with his wife and infant son, he removed to Millerton, county seat of Fresno County, a newly-opened region of mining and agricultural wealth, 250 miles southeast of Sacramento. He resumed the practice of law, and, in 1860, being appointed superintendent of public schools, he organized the first public schools in the county. The same year, he was appointed commissioner to survey the boundary line between Fresno and Mariposa Counties, through one of the most rugged sections of the Sierras.

In Sept., 1860, as a candidate against three opponents for the state legislature, he canvassed, on horseback, the counties of Fresno, Tulare and Kern,—as large as all New England,—but was defeated by a small vote. In 1861 he was elected district attorney, and in 1863 county judge. In 1862 he organized a company to explore the gold deposits in an ancient river bed under "Table Mountain," covered by 200 feet of Plutonian outflows. After the tunnel had reached the old channel, an avalanche of basaltic lava buried and destroyed the works and terminated the enterprise. In 1863, he formed a company to develop a copper mine on the Chowchilla River, thirty miles north from Millerton, which, after fluctuating prosperity, was sold for a large sum to eastern capitalists.

In 1874 the county seat was transferred from Millerton, in the foothills, to a new railroad "siding," called "Fresno," 25 miles distant, in the uninhabited desert of the San Joaquin Valley. In that solitary hamlet, now (1915) a busy city of forty thousand inhabitants, he opened, in May, 1874, the first law office. In October he brought his family, and Fresno continued to be their home for twenty-two years.

The San Joaquin Valley, rich as the Nile delta, baked by a cloudless sun from April to October, was worthless for farming without irrigation. In 1880 he organized a corporation which, by damming a large mountain stream, King's River, twenty miles distant, brought out, by a large canal, one thousand cubic feet of water per second, which irrigated, through lateral canals, 150,000 acres of this Sahara, transforming it into a garden of tropical luxuriance and abounding wealth. This was among the first of the irrigating canals constructed in the United States, except at Salt Lake City, and the second of those in the San Joaquin Valley.

Riparian owners of Spanish grants, chiefly cattle-raisers, opposed the irrigation system, and years of litigation followed, during which 2151 Elisha defended in the courts the rights of the farmers, with the result that final decrees of the courts have left the irrigators in the enjoyment of the free use of the water.

In 1887 he erected in Fresno, at a cost of $45,000 for lot and building, a two-story brick structure and furnished the lower half of it as a United States post office, the use of which he gave to the government and to the people of Fresno free of rent for five years. He also erected in Fresno other buildings for commercial purposes, of the value, with the land, of $120,000.

In 1894-5, with his eldest son, L. A. Winchell, he engaged in manufacturing and shipping lumber from the mountains to Fresno, but the widespread financial revulsions suspended the enterprise.

The serious condition of his wife's health now required her removal to the cool climate of the coast. Disposing of the Fresno interests, he moved his family first to Oakland and, in 1900, to San Francisco, where his wife died, 17 Nov., 1908. In June, 1909, he moved to Berkeley, the seat of the state university where, having retired from business activities, he lived till his death in 1913.

2152 HOMER HOWARD WINCHELL (977 Elias, 349 Elisha, 139 Elisha, 49 Thomas, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born West Springfield, Mass., 9 May, 1828; m. Susan Mary McAfee, LaGrange, Mo., 5 Nov., 1850, who was dau. of Samuel McAfee. He d. 16 Oct., 1912, at Parkville, Mo.

3683 Harold Ludington, b. Palmyra, Mo., 14 May, 1879 (twin).

2152 Homer H. was clerk of the Circuit Court, 16th Judicial Circuit of Missouri, and also Superintendent of the Presbyterian Sunday School (1868). He lived at Parkville, Mo., for many years.

2153 JOSEPH RICE WINCHELL (977 Elias, 349 Elisha, 139 Elisha, 49 Thomas, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born West Springfield, Mass., 18 Apr., 1831; m. Kate Anna Lafon, Palmyra, Mo., 2 Sept., 1857.

3684 Benjamin Lafon, b. Palmyra, Mo., 8 July, 1858.
3685 Sarah Miller, b. Palmyra, Mo., 5 Sept., 1862.
3686 Mary Paulina, b. Hannibal, Mo., 16 May, 1865.
3687 Joseph Lafon, b. Hannibal, 29 May, 1868.
3688 Frank Ely, b. Hannibal, 20 Apr., 1871.

2153 Joseph Rice emigrated with his parents in 1837 to Quincy, Ill., and in Apr., 1838, to Shelby Co., Mo.; remained working a farm until 1850, when he entered the printing office of Jacob Losey, Palmyra, Mo., and learned the business in the brief space of two years, "graduating" in 1852. Returning to the farm, he remained until the spring of 1853, when he went to Jacksonville, Ill., and worked as journeyman till Oct., 1853. Health failing, returned to Palmyra and entered his father's real estate office. On the death of his father, in 1856, assumed the entire management of the "North Missouri Land Agency," which still remains (1869) under his charge. In 1860, bought a half interest in the Palmyra Courier, assuming the editorial management. In 1861 bought the other half interest and continued the publication of the paper—thoroughly loyal, and true to the Union—till Feb., 1863, when the Courier was united with the Hannibal Messenger, and assumed the name of the "North Missouri Courier."

He made many enemies in Missouri by his staunch patriotism at the time of the Civil War. They sought his life. Guerrillas surrounded his house and searched it. He stood up behind the clothes that hung on the wall of a small hall-room. They searched the room twice but failed to find him. Another man caught at the same time was killed. He continued to publish the Daily and Weekly Courier, which increased in circulation and influence; and as a Republican paper ranked next, in the state, to the St. Louis Democrat; it was published by the firm, "Winchell, Ebert and March," whose business increased rapidly in 1867-1870. He was for some time in the United States customs service as deputy collector and collector. At New Haven, Ct., 1897.

2157 REUBEN HURLBURT WINCHELL (978 Reuben, 349 Elisha, 139 Elisha, 49 Thomas, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Whateley, Mass., 20 Oct., 1815; m. 1st, Priscilla Alden Warren (b. Buckfield, Me., 1815), Stockbridge, N. Y., 8 May, 1836; m. 2d, Laura Ludington; d. Herkimer Co., N. Y., 1845.

3692 Maria Louisa, b. 1845; m. Dr. John E. Ennis, pass. agt. Int. & Gt. Nor. R. R. of Texas.

Mrs. Priscilla Winchell lived at several places in Wis., then moved to Lyons, Ia.; lived there in 1879 with her daughter; owned land there and in Illinois and Wisconsin.

2162 JAMES MANNING WINCHELL (978 Reuben, 349 Elisha, 139 Elisha, 49 Thomas, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathaniel, 1 Robert).

Born Avon, Livingston Co., N. Y., 4 Feb., 1824; m. Elizabeth Earll, Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 1, 1851, dau. of Judge N. H. Earll, Syracuse. She was b. Onondaga Hill, N. Y., 16 Dec., 1829. Teacher, journalist, public man and farmer. In 1867 retired from active business and bought the estate at Hyde Park, N. Y., where he died, Feb. 6, 1879.

3693 Clarence Earll, b. Syracuse, 5 Aug., 1852; d. New York, 1 Apr., 1854.

2162 James had a remarkably busy and diversified life. His father, Rev. Reuben Winchell, supervised his education, and gave his son the instruction he could not obtain at the district school. In 1846, having determined to become a professional teacher, he obtained admission to the State Normal School at Albany. Two years later he was graduated, and became a teacher in the public schools of Syracuse. While in that position he was connected with several journalistic enterprises, and he bought a small farm in the vicinity of Syracuse. This he sold in 1854 and removed to Kansas, where for more than ten years he was in the midst of the political disturbances which marked the period introductory to the Civil War. He was a witness of the incursion of armed Missourians in 1855, and for some time he was instrumental in averting bloodshed and in bringing about a "treaty" by the terms of which the Missourians dispersed. In the spring of 1856, after the raid of Buford and Atchison, he was appointed by the citizens of Lawrence to memorialize the president on the outrages, which he did; and the same year he was appointed a delegate to the first national Republican convention at Philadelphia, which nominated Gen. Fremont for the presidency. The same year he was instrumental in having a supply of firearms sent from Iowa City to Council City, Kansas, for the use of the citizens in repelling future raids from Missouri. At the Republican convention he was a member of the committee on platform and resolutions. He was a member also of the Kansas "central committee" chosen for the purpose of relief and defense. He was one of the party who established the town of Wyandot, Kansas, where he participated actively in current politics, during the exciting times of 1857 and 1858. He was a member of the constitutional convention which met at Leavenworth in 1858 where he was chairman of the committee to memorialize congress and present the constitution, and in 1859 was president of a like convention held at Wyandot. He here took an active part in framing the instrument which became the organic law of the State in its admission to the Union, and was chairman of the committee on nominations in the convention which nominated the first state officers. During 1860 and 1861 he was a member of the Territorial Legislature. On the admission of Kansas into the Union, under the Wyandot constitution, he became the representative of the New York Times, and followed the rôle of a newspaper correspondent during the continuance of the Civil War. He was at Cairo during the spring of 1861; followed the fortunes of Gen. Lyon in the Missouri Valley; was in West Virginia with Gens. McClellan and Rosecrans for a short time; and the following winter went for a few weeks to Kansas for the purpose of joining Lane's famous projected expedition to the Gulf. On the abandonment of that brilliant fantasy, he joined the expedition of Gen. Hunter to Port Royal, where he remained till after the capitulation of Fort Pulaski. He now purposed to abandon the business of war correspondent, but was induced to spend the autumn of 1862 at Washington editor of the Times, with the view of reorganizing that bureau, which had fallen into a condition of great inefficiency. He had intended, as a citizen of Kansas, to devote himself during the ensuing winter to the interests of the Kansas branch of the Pacific R. R., but was finally constrained to remain in Washington till the close of the session of Congress, March 4, 1863. He now took up his residence in New York and closely identified himself with the negotiations which resulted in the purchase of the franchise of the Kansas Pacific Railroad, by Samuel Hallett and Gen. Fremont, and the commencement of the construction of the road at Wyandot. While in Lawrence, on the 21st of August, in connection with this business, he witnessed, for the third time, the hostile approach of the enemies of free state principles, which, on this occasion, resulted in the massacre of a hundred and fifty of its defenseless citizens by the guerrilla Quantrell.

The following winter he was much in Washington on business of the Pacific R. R. Companies, and was naturally drawn into politics again. The reasons which actuated a large body of respectable politicians to look to Secretary Chase as a successor to President Lincoln, induced him to identify himself with the movement; and he became Secretary of the Chase National Committee, and as such, prepared the somewhat noted Chase-Pomeroy Circular issued by that Committee, which contained a severe indictment of the conservative war policy of Mr. Lincoln.

The assassination of Samuel Hallett in the summer of 1864 changed his relations to the Pacific Railway enterprises; and the following years, till the fall of 1867, he devoted to the organization of several mining companies, which met with various degrees of success and failure. At that time he resolved to retire again to the country, and gratify his tastes and recruit his health in the pursuits of agriculture. He purchased property at Hyde Park, on the Hudson River, where he continued to reside till his death in 1879, at the age of 53 years.

2163 PRINCESS ADELINE WINCHELL (979 Shaler, 349 Elisha, 139 Elisha, 49 Thomas, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born West Springfield, Mass., 4 Dec., 1814; m. William C. Brief Sketch of 2374 Alexander.

The writer is impressed by three controlling facts, in attempting to write a sketch of his eldest brother. First, the propriety and the need of a sufficient account of his life and work; second, the impossibility of getting such appropriate sketch into the limits to which a genealogical sketch should be restricted in a work of this character, and third, the impelling motive of fraternal love and pride.

There is no doubt that among the thousands in America who have been born to the surname Winchell none has shed greater luster upon it than Alexander, and this remark can be extended truthfully to the family that remain in Europe. On account of the multiplicity and variety of his professional labors but little more can be done here than to enumerate some of the principal events and achievements which resulted directly from his activity, referring the reader who desires more detail and other appreciative estimates to those formal biographic sketches which have been published elsewhere, and especially to "An Editorial Tribute," published in the American Geologist, February, 1892 (Vol. IX); "Memorial Sketch and Eulogium," in the Bulletin of the Geological Society of America, Vol. III, 1891; "Funeral Oration" of Dr. Wm. S. Studley, with remarks at a special memorial service in the Methodist Church at Ann Arbor, Mich.; "Alexander Winchell," in Review of Reviews, May, 1892; The University Herald, Syracuse, N. Y., "Dr. Alexander Winchell, a Man but Half Understood," Nov., 1898, and Popular Science Monthly, October, 1892, pp. 837-843.

Of these that of the Popular Science Monthly is most condensed and is reproduced herewith.

"While he was industrious and versatile as an original investigator, Prof. Alexander Winchell was best known as a successful, instructive, and entertaining lecturer on subjects of science, especially of geology and evolution, and as the author of numerous books which have found their way into the households of our country, describing in a style interesting and comprehensible to all the latest results of research and of his own labors in those fields.

"Alexander Winchell was born in Northeast, Duchess County, N. Y., December 31, 1824, and died in Ann Arbor, Mich., February 19, 1891. His family were in moderately comfortable circumstances. His father and mother had been teachers in the public schools of the town. He showed a taste for mathematics at an early age, which was illustrated by his having completed the first part of Emerson's arithmetic and his reciting the entire multiplication table without mistake on the day he was seven years old. When a little more than ten years old he had completed Willett's arithmetic, and had transcribed all the definitions, rules, problems, and full solutions in a manuscript book. He attended the Stockbridge Academy and the village school. It had been intended that he should study medicine, but on his expressing, when sixteen years old, a desire to teach, his father engaged a district school in which he taught during the winter of 1840 and 1841. As by-pursuits he collected and solved arithmetical problems, and began the practices, which he never discontinued, of recording the results of his reading and study, and keeping a diary and a strict account of expenditures. He continued his mathematical studies, soon acquired an enlarged idea of the preparation needed to fit him to become a doctor, became more attached to the profession of teacher, and had 'his imagination fired' by the study of astronomy. In 1843 he became assistant in Amenia Seminary, where he had attended for a year as a student. Having entered Wesleyan University in 1844 as a sophomore, 'he encountered with indignation,' says his editorial biographer in the American Geologist, 'the first check in his educational ardor and success in a rigorous "marking system," which at that time laid special stress on the literal reproduction of the words of the text-books. Though ambitious for honors, he refused to compete for them under those conditions. Having been graduated in 1847, he was appointed teacher of natural science in Pennington Male Seminary, New Jersey, when he entered with irrepressible zeal and delight upon the study of the flora of the vicinity. The Morse telegraph having just come into operation, he attempted with success, and with no special knowledge beyond the fundamental principles, the production of a working instrument, which he exhibited at a public lecture.

"His ambition was now extending beyond mathematics. Declining offers of a tutorship in that science in Wesleyan University and of continued position in Pennington Seminary, he accepted the chair of Natural Science in Amenia Seminary. Here he gave his first public geological lectures; explored the flora of the vicinity, of which he contributed a catalogue to the regents of the university; observed solar spots; and began a series of meteorological observations.

"He removed in 1850 to take charge of an academy at Newbern, Ala. Finding the prospects of the institution not equal to his expectations, he undertook to revive a suspended institution at Eutaw in the same county. Here he began a course of scientific investigations which he had been indefinitely projecting for some time. He communicated to the American Journal of Science notes on the cold of January at Eutaw, and on the aurora borealis of September 29, 1851; opened a correspondence with the Smithsonian Institution, to which he sent collections of plants, alcoholic specimens, and preserved skins, including the new species of fish, Hybopsis Winchelli; and communicated to the American Association in 1853 the first scientific description of the Cretaceous Choctaw Bluff, on the Black Warrior River.

In 1853 Prof. Winchell became President of the Masonic University, Selma, Ala., and made a tour of the southern part of the State, to interest the people in the institution. The tour was also a geological one, and took him through a country rich in Cretaceous and Tertiary fossils, where Hippurites encumbered the ground and were burned into lime, and the 'precious vertebræ' of Zeuglodon were used for andirons, stiles, and gate-weights. He sent a collection of fishes to the Smithsonian Institution, in acknowledging which Prof. Baird predicted that in not many years he would be called to a big professorship somewhere North or East. 'Nine days after these words were penned,' says his biographer in the American Geologist, 'he was elected to a chair in the University of Michigan.' This was in 1853; the professorship was that of Physics and Civil Engineering. He found on taking his chair, in January, 1854, that no good elementary text-books on civil engineering were in existence, and that he had to originate matter and methods. As a branch of physics he attended to the keeping of a complete series of meteorological observations, which, while he held the chair, he reported to the Smithsonian Institution. In the next year he was transferred, in accordance with an understanding that was had when he first went to the university, to the newly created chair of Geology, Zoölogy, and Botany. In a paper On the Importance of the Study of Natural History, read before the State Teachers' Association in 1856, he advocated the introduction of that subject into the Union schools and the lower classes of the colleges. In the fall of 1857 he opened a class in comparative osteology. A geological survey of the State of Michigan having been ordered, he was commissioned as its director, and began, in 1859, with one assistant, the examination of the southern part of the lower peninsula. He fixed the position of the salt waters of East Saginaw to within two feet of their actual level, and in his report, published in August, 1861, fully anticipated the vast development of the salt interest in the Saginaw Valley. The official survey was suspended by the breaking out of the Civil War, but the paleontological investigations were carried on privately. Prof. Winchell pointed out the gypsum bed near Tawas, which had been pronounced barren, but has proved marvelously rich; studied the 'Marshall group' and its relations with the Chemung; investigated the cherry slug and currant worm; published numerous geological papers and an address on the soils and subsoils of Michigan, in which he insisted on the agricultural value of the pine lands; studied the oil-producing regions of the United States and Canada; and published a report on the Grand Traverse region, and a paper on the fruit-bearing belt of Michigan, in which attention was first called to the influence of Lake Michigan in ameliorating the climate of the State and prolonging the growing period. The Geological Survey of Michigan was reorganized in 1869, and Prof. Winchell was again appointed its director. He had learned much during the interval since the survey was suspended, as our enumeration shows, in his private travels for economical surveys, of the rock structure and physical features of the State. In 1871 he had prepared a preliminary report; but hostile political and personal influences had been working against him, and the appropriation for printing the report failed to pass the Legislature. He resigned his position, and the report, embodying the results of two seasons of field work in the lower peninsula, largely remains unpublished. A part of the material intended for it was condensed for Walling's Atlas of Michigan, and these memoirs were afterward collected in a volume, accompanied by topographical, geological, and isothermal charts.

"In 1873 Prof. Winchell was called to the position of Chancellor of Syracuse University. He held it only for about one year, when the anticipated financial resources of the institution having shrunken considerably in the actuality, and he having been asked to take part in public efforts to augment the endowment, he resigned it. He had been told that the authorities of the institution had been attracted to him by his scientific reputation, and that they wished him not to discontinue his pursuits in that line. He had, however, already found the presidency interfering with his scientific work, and the additional burden was too much. 'For the duties of solicitor of money,' says his biographer, 'he had no qualifications. Between paleontologist and financial agent was a gap so broad that he had never contemplated crossing it.' He, however, in December, 1874, accepted the chair of Geology in the same university. For this department he prepared an extended syllabus of a proposed course of geological lectures, which should possess interest for the general public, but found it difficult in the financial condition of the institution to equip and maintain laboratories corresponding with his ideas of the professorship of Geology. While occupied with this problem, he was invited to become Professor of Geology, Zoölogy, and Botany, in Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. He accepted an engagement for three months, without severing his connection with Syracuse University, for he opened there a School of Geology, in January, 1876, which he wished to make a permanent feature of the institution; but the enterprise was not fully successful till 1878. He divided his time between Syracuse and Vanderbilt Universities. He found the authorities of the latter institution attached to the old ideas, and in no way disposed to give ear to the new theories of evolution. He nevertheless began his course under what might be considered favorable auspices. In 1877 he published a theory of a relation of meteorites to the disturbances of the satellites of Mars, and several papers in strictly orthodox books and newspapers, unfolding his theory of Preadamites, or of the existence of races of men before Adam; which, he held, was not contrary to divine revelation, but was authorized by a proper construction of the Scriptures. His views were kindly received, even when they were not believed, in the North, but were very unwelcome to his Southern friends. At the commencement season of Vanderbilt University of 1878, Prof. Winchell was warned that his 'heterodox' position in reference to Preadamites and evolution was having an influence adverse to the interests of the university, and was asked to decline a reappointment to his professorship. He refused to do this on such grounds as were alleged. On the same evening he delivered one of the addresses of the commencement occasion; and on the next morning the Board of Trust of the university abolished his chair. It had been intended to have the thing quietly done, but Prof. Winchell published all the facts, and was not the one who suffered in reputation from the transaction. Of this incident, Dr. Andrew D. White says, in his New Chapters in the Warfare of Science: 'That his lectures at the Vanderbilt University were learned, attractive, and stimulating, even his enemies were forced to admit; but he was soon found to believe that there had been men earlier than the period of Adam, and even that all the human race are not descended from Adam. His effort in this was to reconcile science and Scripture, and he was now treated by a Methodist Episcopal bishop in Tennessee just as, two centuries before, La Peyrère had been treated for a similar offense by a Roman Catholic vicar-general in Belgium. The publication of a series of articles on the subject, contributed by the professor to a Northern religious newspaper, at its own request, brought matters to a climax, for, the articles having fallen under the notice of the leading Southwestern organ of the denomination controlling the Vanderbilt University, the result was a most bitter denunciation of Prof. Winchell and of his views. Shortly afterward the professor was told by Bishop McTyeire that "our people believe that such views are contrary to the plan of redemption," and was requested by the bishop to quietly resign his chair. To this the professor made the fitting reply: "If the Board of Trustees have the manliness to dismiss me for cause, and declare the cause, I prefer that they should do it; no power on earth could persuade me to decline." "We do not propose," said the bishop, with gratuitous suggestiveness, "to treat you as the Inquisition treated Galileo." "But what you propose is the same thing," rejoined Dr. Winchell. "It is ecclesiastical proscription for an opinion which must be settled by scientific evidence." Twenty-four hours later Dr. Winchell was informed that his chair had been abolished, and its duties, with its salary, added to those of a colleague; the public were given to understand that the reasons were purely economic; the banished scholar was heaped with official compliments, evidently in hope that he would keep silence. Such was not Dr. Winchell's view. In a frank letter to the leading journal of the university town, he stated the whole matter. The intolerance-hating press of the country, religious and secular, did not hold its peace. In vain the authorities of the university waited for the storm to blow over. It was evident, at last, that a defense must be made, and a local organ of the sect, which, under the editorship of a fellow-professor, had always treated Dr. Winchell's views with the luminous inaccuracy which usually characterizes a professor's ideas of a rival's teachings, assumed the task. In the articles which followed, the usual scientific hypotheses as to the creation were declared to be "absurd," "vague and unintelligible," "preposterous and gratuitous." ' While in Nashville Prof. Winchell constructed some pieces of microscopic apparatus and a small working steam-engine of one-fifth horse-power, and completed a survey of the sanitary geology of that city.

"In June, 1879, Prof. Winchell was unanimously recalled by the Board of Regents of the University of Michigan—a body that was by no means united on most questions—to the professorship of Geology and Paleontology in that institution. He went back under much more favorable conditions for scientific advancement than had existed when he left the institution seven years before. 'His duties at that time were spread over the whole field of geology, zoölogy, botany, museum and microscopical work. When he returned, the faculty embraced a Professor of Geology and Paleontology; a Professor of Mineralogy and Economic Geology; a Professor of Zoölogy; an Assistant Professor of Botany; an Instructor in the Microscopical Laboratory; and a Curator of the Museum—all of whose duties devolved upon one man in 1872.' He began on his return to the university the preparation of an extended syllabus of a course of instruction in general geology, accompanied by copious references to sources of information. He presided over the Section of Anthropology at the Montreal meeting of the American Association. He spent the summer of 1886 in connection with the Geological Survey of Minnesota in field work in the extreme northern part of the State, north of Lake Superior. His work extended into twenty-four townships, where he noted and studied the outcrops at eight hundred and ninety localities, and he spent much time in the succeeding winter in the study for his first Minnesota report of the Archæan problems thus developed. The observations made in this survey were important, and were found to throw much light on some of the problems of Archæan geology. The plan of the next year's survey extended over the original Huronian area, and also over the iron regions of Michigan and Wisconsin and into the area of the Animikie in northern Minnesota. He entered into the study and discussion of practical questions touching the stratigraphic relations of the older terranes and accumulated a large mass of data, the discussion of which he was never able to complete. He planned for a thorough discussion and examination of the data of the Archæan rocks, including their field relations and petrographic characters, and for the sake of it declined all but the most important invitations to lecture. In pursuance of this work he communicated to the eighteenth report of the Minnesota Survey (1889) a review of American opinion on the Presilurian rocks, and presented further results of his work in northern Minnesota at the Toronto meeting of the American Association. His last year (1890) was one of his busiest, and was occupied with lectures, attendance on scientific meetings, geological excursions, and the preparation of plans for enlarging the laboratory of the university. Prof. Winchell was a leading spirit in the formation of the Geological Society of America and in the establishment of the American Geologist.

"His biographer in the American Geologist believes that Dr. Winchell was perhaps the very first man of science in America 'who descended before popular audiences from that high-caste and stately but dry and unpopular style in which the older scientists had thought it fit to cloak the dignity of science. . . . Agassiz simplified zoölogical themes rather than popularized them, and lifted up his voice only . . . where the select appreciators of science were numerous enough to constitute an audience.' Societies for scientific culture, summer institutes, and similar organizations formed a large part of the audiences.

"Prof. Winchell was a voluminous writer. The list of his books and papers in the American Geologist includes two hundred and fifty-five titles. A predominant idea running through his Christian Theology Illustrated from Nature was that of the harmony between the indications and doctrines of science and the central doctrines of the Christian religion. A similar thought ran through several other of his works. His Geology of the Stars and his World Life were attempts to extend the history of the earth as recorded in the geological strata so as to include the whole lifetime of a world, or to present, as he said in the preface, 'a thoughtful review of the processes of world formation, world growth, and world decadence.' Many of the thoughts in these works were so novel that he was not able to get an expression of opinion upon them from his fellow-students. A large proportion of his books are scientific treatises for popular reading—vivacious, suggestive, embodying the accurate results of scientific investigation, sparkling with original thoughts, and well adapted to their purpose.

"The burden of his educational labor, according to his biographer, lay in the direction of widening the avenues of natural science and of its introduction into secondary schools. 'He insisted that the young student is more observing than reflective or analytic, that the education of the mind should be by an appeal to its most accessible and most powerful impulses, and that the influence of science on the human mind, especially in its formative stage, is more healthful to a normal growth, more conducive to moral rectitude, and more stimulating toward a right ambition, than any other field of knowledge. . . . He believed that there is as much mental and ethical culture to be derived from the study of natural science, when pursued with equal thoroughness and exactness, as from the study of Greek or Latin literature or of mathematics.' ''

2376 MARTIN EBENEZER WINCHELL (1109 Horace, 383 Martin, 150 James, 53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born North East, Duchess Co., N. Y., 14 Oct., 1829; m. Mary Malvina Ryckman, New York, 8 Oct., 1863; d. Tensas Parish, La., 1 May, 1864; his widow removed, with the body of her late husband, to New York where he was interred in Greenwood Cemetery. She m. 2d, —— Mead; lived St. Johns Pl., Brooklyn.

3901 Martin Ryckman, b. New York City, 8 Oct., 1864; m. Eleanor A. ——, and lived in Chicago, 1914. He is court reporter. No children.

An earnest, blameless valuable life, ended in the morning of its usefulness and success. 2376 Martin E., even while acquiring a primary education in his native town, taught a district school in North East, in 1847; at Ore Hill, Salisbury, Ct., in 1848, and another in Stanford, N. Y., in 1849. He pursued more advanced studies at Amenia Seminary, preparatory to entering upon a course of professional study. He remained in the Seminary and read medicine with 1631 Dr. L. W. Stanton, until January, 1850. He passed examinations for entrance at Union College, Jan. 23, 1850, but decided, probably from pecuniary considerations, not to prosecute his collegiate course. He accordingly went to Durham, Ct., and conducted the Academy there during 1851 and 1852, at the same time continuing his medical studies under Dr. Fowler, of that place. In 1852 he went to Pottstown, Penn., as ''representative principal'' of a school for boys. He attended lectures in the Medical Department of Yale College, and graduated 7 Jan., 1853. He spent about a year as Assistant Physician to King's County Hospital for the Insane, at Flatbush, L. I. Here he suffered a very severe attack of fever. In 1854 he received the appointment of Assistant Physician in the New Jersey State Lunatic Asylum at Trenton, where he remained two years. In the summer of 1856, he made a tour through the West, with a view of locating in general practice; but finally concluded to settle in New York City; choosing to grapple with the formidable difficulties of establishing a reputation in the metropolis, and eventually reaping the fruits of a successful metropolitan practice, rather than seek the limited rewards of a country practice more easily secured. In September, 1856, he opened an office at 339, Fourth Avenue, New York, removing, Dec., 1861, to 337, 4th Ave. With nothing but his own merits to commend him, he rapidly made friends; and in the course of seven years of patient and resolute working and waiting, he built up a remunerative business. While in practice there, he was connected with the North-western and Demilt Dispensaries. In Jan., 1864, won by the tempting but illusory and treacherous scheme of cotton raising put forth by government authority, he engaged, with others, in cotton planting in Tensas Parish, La. Though encouraged by the fairest pledges of military protection, the place was sacked by guerrillas on the morning of May 1st, 1864, when he fell a victim to their barbarity. His remains were conveyed to New York, and interred in Greenwood Cemetery.

The New York Academy of Medicine adopted expressive resolutions of respect to his memory; and the medical journals commemorated the event by appropriate notices.

Dr. M. E. Winchell was an industrious student of medicine and collateral sciences. The subject of insanity engrossed a large share of his attention, and he was predisposed to make its treatment a specialty. Though reserved in the communication of the results of his labors to the public, the columns of The True American, of Trenton, N. J., contain his reports of complete meteorological observations taken while connected with the State Asylum; and other papers have published occasional contributions on other subjects. The New York Journal of Medicine contains an article of his on the "Relations of the Medical Profession to the Insane"; a report of "Two cases of Trephining," and a paper on "Delphinium and Vomiting in Pregnancy." Two extremely well-considered articles of his on the "Breadth of the Teacher's Vocation," were published in the Michigan Journal of Education in 1859. He possessed a large share of poetical genius and published a number of occasional pieces of great sweetness of rhythm and sentiment.

He was a Fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine, and a member of the New York County Medical Society. His diploma of the latter is dated 7 Dec., 1863.

2376 Dr. Martin E. Winchell

(1829—1864)

He was a member and regular attendant of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church; and deeply interested himself in its religious and benevolent enterprises. He was connected with one of the Mission Sunday Schools of that society at the time of his death. He was made a life member of the Youth's Missionary Society of Trinity M. E. Church, 27 Nov., 1859.

He was a man of strong constitution and vigorous mind. His plans were well considered but prosecuted with inflexible purpose and unfailing patience. He was eminently conscientious, and always reliable. "His love for justice and truth was unparalleled." Too reserved to win a hasty and sensational popularity, he made fast friends of those who discovered his merits. Always courteous and gentle in his deportment he manifested exemplary forbearance under provocations. In all things he remembered his religious duties. In the language of one of his published biographies "he has left a name beloved by all who knew him, and unsullied by a single blemish." * * *

2378 Newton Horace taught the public school on Winchell Mountain the winter in which he became 16 years old (1855-56). The following summer he taught the school at Lakeville, Ct., and the winter 1856-57 he taught the public school at Millerton, N. Y. In the spring of 1857 he went to Ann Arbor, Mich., at the invitation of his brother Alexander. This was the commencement of a period of study and teaching which continued to 1866, when he completed the course of undergraduate study at Ann Arbor and received his degree. During this period he was much at the home of his brother, and received from him the best of fraternal advice and aid. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted, was elected Lieutenant of his company, and directed the drilling and other training in the camp at Ann Arbor; a prolonged attack of typhoid fever prevented his going to the front. Prior to graduation he had married, had served on the Michigan Geological Survey, and was superintendent of city schools at St. Clair, Mich. In 1866 he was principal of a seminary at Colon and superintendent of schools at Port Huron, Mich. From 1867 to 1870 he was superintendent of schools at Adrian, Mich., which office he resigned to accept a position under his brother Alexander on the revived Geological Survey of Michigan, which had been suspended on account of the Civil War. The following year he was appointed an assistant on the Ohio Geological Survey under Dr. J. S. Newberry, whence he was called, in 1872, to become state geologist of Minnesota, and professor in the state university. Here his work was multifarious and unremitted. With a corp of assistant geologists he prosecuted the geological survey of that state till 1900, a period of 28 years, during which he had surveyed, mapped and reported on every county of the state. This work was described in a series of twenty-four annual reports, and was concluded by a series of six quarto volumes, which were illustrated by many maps and suitable diagrams and figures. Some special topics were reported in "bulletins" of which he published ten. With the progress of the survey the museum of the University was built up by him.

In 1874 he was geologist of an expedition authorized by the Federal Government, under Gen. G. A. Custer, to explore the Black Hills of Dakota, and he made and published in his report of this trip the first geological map of the interior of the Black Hills.

In 1888, with the coöperation of five other geologists, including his brother Alexander, he established the American Geologist, which he edited and published during eighteen years, issuing thirty-six volumes, when the magazine was combined with another, enlarged and continued under the name Economic Geology. In this form it is still published (1916).

In 1905 he became archeologist of the Minnesota Historical Society, and as a result of his work in that capacity he issued in 1909, through the Society, a large quarto volume entitled The Aborigines of Minnesota, with chapters on their predecessors in America and on their migrations, and in 1913 a treatise on the Paleoliths of Kansas, showing that man existed in America prior to the ice age.

In 1909, in collaboration with his son, Alexander N., he published, through the Van Nostrand Company, of New York, a university textbook on the Elements of Optical Mineralogy.

His chief scientific work was the geological survey of Minnesota, but because of it, and along with it, he encountered numerous questions, both of administration and of geological research. These he discussed in his reports and in the scientific journals, particularly in the American Geologist. The list of his published papers, including those which are archeological, numbers more than 300. He found himself sometimes at variance with the conclusions of the geologists of the United States Geological Survey respecting the geological structure of the region of Lake Superior, and respecting the origin of the iron ores of that region. By the latest researches, however, his views in both respects have been confirmed in large measure. The points at issue are important scientifically and economically, but this is not the place to review them.

He had the satisfaction of seeing his sons, Horace V. and Alexander N., as well as his son-in-law, U. S. Grant, become geologists of prominence in the United States.

His work, in comparison with that of his brother Alexander, was confined more closely to original research, and less to the dissemination of science. He found the exactions of careful field-work and of accurate discussion and publication of his results so imperative that he was not able to give time to lecturing or to the popularization of scientific themes.

He was a member of many scientific societies both in America and Europe. He was one of the founders of the Minnesota Academy of Science in 1873 and served three terms as its president. The first movements for the organization of the Geological Society of America were instigated by him at the Cincinnati meeting (1881) of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. In 1884 he was vice-president of the American Association, and in 1902 he was elected president of the Geological Society. He was elected an honorary member of the Lake Superior Mining Institute. He was for many years a member of the Executive Council of the Minnesota Historical Society.

He also held membership in the following organizations: American Anthropological Society, Geological Society of London, Mississippi Valley Historical Association, National Geographic Society, International Geological Congress, Société Française de Minéralogie, Société Géologique de Belgique.

He was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, being a lineal descendant from two of the officers in the war of the Revolution.

Although an ardent Republican he was appointed by Pres. Cleveland (Democrat) a member of the Federal Assay Commission, for 1886, and inspected and reported upon the U. S. Mint at Philadelphia, receiving a bronze medal from the President in token of his service.

At the Cotton Centennial Exposition at New Orleans in 1884 he had charge of and installed the mineral exhibit of the State of Minnesota.

At the St. Louis Exposition in 1904 he was awarded a gold medal in recognition of his work on the Geological and Natural History Survey of Minnesota.

Soon after the death of his brother Alexander in 1891 he began to plan for the revision of the Winchell Genealogy, which labor of love he actually began in 1897 and continued with untiring persistence until suddenly called away by death, although pressure of other duties and serious illness in 1904 interrupted the work, which was not resumed again until 1910, when it was again entered upon zealously, and thereafter for four years every spare moment was devoted to hastening its completion. Often when reminded of his weariness and need of rest at the close of a full day spent at his office, he would reply: "I must work to get the genealogy done."

In his will dated 15 June, 1912 (not probated because attested by only one witness) the following paragraph is included: "My work on the Genealogy of the Winchell Family, if not finished at the time of my death, I bequeath to my sons Horace and Alexander, with the hope that they will complete it. This work has been in progress for many years, and I shall deeply regret the leaving of it unfinished."

His wife has been active and prominent in educational and philanthropic work. Her first public work was to organize "Soldiers' Aid" societies during the Civil War. She served as a member and secretary of the St. Anthony school board in 1886-1888 and until St. Anthony was united with Minneapolis, and her historical sketch of the St. Anthony schools was incorporated in the annual report of the state superintendent of schools. For 15 years she was an active worker in the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, serving it as state superintendent of scientific temperance instruction in the schools, and securing the law for such instruction in the schools of the state; in 1895 she was delegate to the World's W. C. T. U. Convention at London. In 1883 she aided in organizing the Minneapolis Branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, and has been identified with it, in all its work, since that date, serving as Conference Secretary, and Corresponding Secretary of the Minneapolis Branch for 12 years, and as editor and publisher of the Branch periodicals.

2379 ANTOINETTE CAROLINE WINCHELL (1109 Horace, 383 Martin, 150 James, 53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born North East, Duchess Co., N. Y., 4 Feb., 1841; m. Edward Johnson, Lynn, Mass., 6 Aug., 1861; she d. 30 Nov., 1916.

3908 Edward Alexander, b. Lakeville, Ct., 8 July, 1866; m. Carrie Whitcomb Lovering, Boston, Mass., 5 Sept., 1889, and has Marguerite Stowell, b. Lynn, Mass., 11 Mar., 1890. He has been with the General Electric Company at Schenectady, N. Y., for 25 years, and is now an efficiency engineer in the commercial and controller's depts., organizing the work at the many branch offices (1916).

3909 Mabel Martina, b. Lynn, Mass., 7 Feb., 1874; spent a year at Lucy Wheelock's Kindergarten Training School at Boston and another at the Normal School at New Britain, Conn., where she graduated in 1898. She was at once employed in the public schools of Hartford, Conn., where she still remains (1915).

2379 Antoinette C. was a teacher from fifteen years of age, first in Marian Holden's private school at Lakeville, Ct., and then in succession to her brother Newton in the public school on Winchell Mountain. She was (later) educated at Amenia Seminary, N. Y., and after her marriage went to Pittsburg, Pa., where she and her husband were employed as teachers in the Pittsburg Female College. In 1864 she devoted much time to oil painting and at Stanstead, Quebec, was a teacher of painting and music. Settling in Lynn, Mass., in 1868, Prof. Johnson founded a classical school which he conducted for many years with great success, and until his health failed. He conducted a book store in Lynn for some years. He was a graduate of Wesleyan University (1856) with Phi Beta Kappa honors and became a most popular teacher at Amenia, at Pittsburg, at Auburndale, Mass., and at Stanstead (Quebec), as well as at Lynn. He died at Lynn, Mass., Feb. 24, 1894. She was a member of Lynn School Board for seven years. She lived at Hartford, Conn., with her daughter Mabel, 1916.

After her husband's death Antoinette served for several years as matron in the Hotchkiss school at Lakeville, Ct.

2380 SAMUEL ROBERTSON WINCHELL (1109 Horace, 383 Martin, 150 James, 53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born North East, Duchess Co., N. Y., 26 Nov., 1843; m. Calphurnia E. Corson, Birmingham, Mich., 2 Aug., 1870; she was b. Birmingham, Mich., 10 July, 1845.

gan in 1870. Principal of the High School at Ann Arbor, Mich., 1869-73; of the Milwaukee (Wis.) High School, 1873-1875; editor and publisher of the Educational Weekly in Chicago, 1876-1880; manager of the New England Department of D. Appleton & Co., 1881-1886; manager of the Interstate Publishing Company, 1886-1888; manager of the National Young Folks Reading Circle, 1888-92; Professor of Latin in the University of Illinois, 1889-91. Proprietor of the Winchell Teachers' Agency and Lecture Bureau, 1892-1912. Principal of the Winchell Academy, Evanston, Ill., 1894-97. Editor of Teacher and Student, a literary and educational magazine, 1894-98, Winchell's Quarterly and The Rostrum, 1898-1903.

Samuel Robertson was eminently successful as a teacher, but was lured into business by better pecuniary rewards, and to conserve his health, which was always delicate. While acting as teacher and editor he compiled and wrote several volumes of a practical kind, the chief of which were: Latin Prose Composition, 1875; Elementary Lessons in Greek Syntax, 1887; Orthography, Etymology and Punctuation, 1901; Chicago, Past, Present, and Future, 1905; The Artists' Blue Book of Chicago, 1906; A Civic Manual of Chicago, Cook County and Illinois, 1910.

As a publisher he was the pioneer in furnishing "supplementary reading" for the public schools, having edited and published nearly five hundred volumes and pamphlets of an educational character.

In private life he has always been respected as a man whose word was as good as his bond, ever ready to lend a helping hand to those in need, and faithful in his devotion to Church and Sunday School. He resided in Minneapolis, Minn., in 1916.

His wife, Calphurnia E. Corson, besides devoting herself to the promotion of his literary and educational enterprises, has written a number of very sweet little poems, many of which have appeared in print. From these the following is selected:

A SUMMER EVENING.

The sun has shone all day with fiery heat;
Slowly, at last, it sinks beneath the waves,
Tinting the clouds with roseate hue; it bathes
The lake in splendor, in its slow retreat.
The waves lap softly on the sandy shore;
Forgotten now are noonday ills. A bird,
Twittering good night to nesting mate, is heard;
A robin sings its love song o'er and o'er.

Silent, o'er lake and forest, hill and stream,
The quiet shadows of the summer night
Have gathered. From the town there shines a light
In happy homes, where sleeping children dream.
The day is done, and, like a soft-toned prayer,
The faint perfume of flowers pervades the air.

2381 CHARLES McALLISTER WINCHELL (1109 Horace, 383 Martin, 150 James, 53 Martin, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born North East, Duchess Co., N. Y., 18 Dec., 1845; m. Wm. Edward Penney was a merchant and also a poet, the author of a volume of poems called "Yankee Ballads," from which, among others of peculiar sentiment characteristic of the agricultural communities of New England, the following is selected:

ON WINCHELL MOUNTAIN.

By William Edward Penney.

When the mist hangs in the valley
Like a great white motionless sea,
The sunlight crowns the mountain top,
And the breeze blows strong and free

From the Catskills crest
In the distant west,
And it tosses and sways in boisterous glee
The mighty arms of each grand old tree
On the top of Winchell Mountain.

At last the mists in the valley feel
A touch of the breeze and slowly reel
In forms fantastic, and then they rise
To melt away in the morning skies,
And a picture rare,
Through the misty air
As it slowly rises there stands revealed
Stretches of woodland, of meadow field,
Seen from lofty Winchell Mountain.

And all through the sultry summer day
The breeze keeps rocking the maples there.
As 'neath their shadow you sit and gaze
At a painting vast, through the summer haze,
Of valleys wide
On either side,
And the distant mountains that silently stand
Like sentinels guarding a fairy land
At the foot of Winchell Mountain.

And the clouds slow sailing overhead
Cast grotesque shadows o'er the scene,
As sun and shade alternate fall
On farmhouse white and fields of green,
While here and there,
On the soft air,
Comes tinkling of bells, and the wild birds' song
Borne on the summer breeze along
To the top of Winchell Mountain.

3669 LILBOURNE ALSIP WINCHELL (2151 Elisha, 977 Elias, 349 Elisha, 139 Elisha, 49 Thomas, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Sacramento, Cal., 9 Oct., 1855; m. Oakland, Cal., 7 Sept., 1883, Ernestine Miller, eldest daughter of Phydella Mary Ann Roberts and John Alan Miller, the marriage being performed by Rev. O. C. Wheeler, who officiated in 1853 at the marriage of 2151 Elisha. Her maternal ancestor moved from England to Conn. in 1694.

4418 Geraldine, b. Fresno, Cal., 28 July, 1884; m. Fresno, Calif., 30 June, 1913, Charles Francis Ramsey, eldest son John B. M. and Minerva C. (Dean) Ramsey. He was b. Brighton, Mo., 29 July, 1876; a school teacher, 1906-1912.

4419 Donald Raymond, b. Fresno, Cal., 4 Sept., 1886; d. Fresno, Cal., Mar. 1, 1889.

4420 Lilbourne Ely, b. Fresno, Cal., 10 May, 1890. In June, 1907, he enlisted as apprentice seaman, at the U. S. training school at Yerba Buena Island in the harbor of San Francisco. Within a year he was transferred to the battle-ship Nebraska, and joined the memorable procession of the "Atlantic Fleet" as it entered the harbor of San Francisco, May 6th, 1908. On the 7th of July, this imposing Armada sailed to encircle the globe. Visiting ancient seaports, skirting tropical shores, the fleet reëntered New York harbor a year later.

During two years of maneuvers on the Atlantic shores which followed, he gave himself to the study of steam and electric machinery, and, in 1910, sailed with the fleet to visit cities of the European coasts, finishing with London,—thence returning to New York, to recount, with enthusiasm, the hospitality of the English people towards the officers and men of the American fleet.

He re-enlisted in 1911 and was soon promoted to the Flagship Wyoming. Leaving the service with high credits, 1 June, 1915, he entered practice as a mechanical engineer.

3669 Lilbourne Alsip, after graduating from the San Francisco grammar schools, and from Heald's Business College in that city in 1876, returned to Fresno where he held the position of chief deputy in the county assessor's office for fourteen years. An enthusiastic lover of the mountains, his summer vacations were often spent in the untrodden, high Sierras with rifle, camera, compass and note-book. In 1879, he explored the almost unknown gorges of Kings' River, with a comrade, forcing his difficult way through pathless, tangled jungles of chaparral, down the precipitous wall of a profound abyss,—the "Tehipite Cañon" of Kings' River—lying 4,000 feet above the sea, and whose bordering, stupendous cliffs rise a mile higher. They were the first to photograph those majestic heights and gloomy depths, and to make their matchless grandeur known to the world. For four days they were here imprisoned, leagues from the haunts of civilized man, seeking a practicable route of egress from the cañon; and it was only after ten hours of incessant climbing, and exhausting toil, that they escaped from this granite bastile of the Sierras.

In 1879 (Sept. 23) he scaled the summit of Mount Goddard, an isolated peak at the head of the south fork of the San Joaquin River, 14,600 feet above the sea,—the first white man to accomplish this feat; taking photographs of the tremendous panorama which encircles it. On the snowy top he erected a stone monument within which he placed a record of the event.

Further explorations of the high, alpine region of the Sierra Nevada, embracing the serrated summit known as the Palisades, and the circumjacent territory which contributes to the sources of the San Joaquin and Kings' Rivers, were made during this summer of 1879 and many succeeding years.

He furnished to the public the first map of this terra incognita with notes, sketches and the names bestowed by himself upon prominent features of this wonderland; including a description of the great residual glacier which lies in the deep gorge at the foot of the "Mother Palisade," and whose existence was hitherto unknown to the world.

To the three highest of these Palisade spires were given the names of "Winchell's Peak," in honor of Alexander Winchell, the eminent American geologist and author; "Agassiz' Needle," and the "Mother Palisade"—all rising about 14,000 feet.

In 1894, following a political revolution, and financial disaster from the national panic, he removed his family from Fresno to make a new home in the Sierras, 4,000 feet above the sea, where he built an attractive cottage by a perpetual spring in the edge of a forest. Here he devoted himself to horticulture, plant-improvement, intensive farming and stock-raising.

His familiarity with the forests and mountains led the U. S. Government to appoint him to a position in the Forest Reserve service which he held for five years, resigning to devote himself exclusively to his farming and fruit-raising interests.

In the fall of 1910, he prepared a new home for his family in the city of Fresno, where, after an absence of fifteen years of memorable mountain life, they now reside.

Ernestine Miller, wife of 3669 Lilbourne Alsip, was born in Niagara County, New York, June 1, 1865. Moved to Fresno, Calif., in 1822. In late years she has contributed, with marked success, to various magazines, many short stories of the mountains, presenting striking portraitures of aboriginal character, and sketches of life among the Indians of California. For a long period she wrote articles devoted to a study of child life for the Mothers' Magazine.

3671 LEDYARD FRINK WINCHELL (2151 Elisha, 977 Elias, 349 Elisha, 139 Elisha, 49 Thomas, 13 Stephen, 2 Nathanael, 1 Robert). Born Fort Miller, Fresno Co., Cal., 30 Nov., 1859; m. Marie Louise Packard, Fresno, Cal., 17 June, 1885, who was b. Rockport, Me., 19 June, 1860, being the eldest dau. of Cyrus C. and Cophia A. (Merriam) Packard.

4421 Adele Coralie, b. Fresno, Cal., 10 Apr., 1886.

4422 Marie Louise, b. Fresno, Cal., 9 May, 1888.

4423 Ledyard Frink, b. Fresno, Cal., 4 Feb., 1890. At the age of 14 he enlisted in the "Starr King Cadet Corps" of San Francisco, in which he continued for two years. During the earthquake commotions of April, 1906, he was detailed with other cadets, under Federal orders, at Fort Mason, in the presidio, and with other contingents, for the protection and assistance of the hosts of refugees thronging the streets and fleeing for shelter to the parks, cemeteries, beaches and sand-hills. They assisted also in the distribution of food; and on one occasion, from their post near the "Scott Key Monument," they dealt out—among other supplies—tons of corned beef to the hungry people in the "Bread Lines."

In May, 1906, he enlisted in Co. H, Fifth Inft., of the "Nat'l. Guard of California," known as "The Nationals," organized in 1855, the oldest military organization in the state. In 1909 he became Color Sergeant, and in 1915 was elected 2d Lieutenant.

4424 Laurel Emmaline, b. Fresno, Cal., 11 Dec., 1891.

3671 Ledyard Frink was educated by his mother and in the public schools of San Francisco and Oakland, Cal. From 1877 to 1880, acted as clerk in his father's law office and in the county recorder's office in Fresno. Entering a commercial college in San Jose, Cal., he graduated in 1881.

Dec. 7, 1878, he was made secretary of the first hook and ladder company of Fresno whose equipment was burned in July, 1882. This was replaced by a hand-engine and hose-cart, venerable relics of 1850, which, as first assistant foreman, he operated with his company until 1885, when he became first assistant chief, and the first steam fire-engine in Fresno was brought into use. In recognition of his conspicuous services, he was, in 1889, elected in San Francisco, "honorary member" of "The Veteran Volunteer Fireman's Association" of California.

After a second term in the collector's and recorder's office in Fresno, he was, in 1884, elected constable of third township, and also served as deputy sheriff during 1886-87 and 1892-93.

In June, 1885, he aided the organization of, and enlisted as private in, Company "C" of Sixth Inft., National Guard of California. Corporal in 1887 and 2d Lieut. in 1889, he was elected Captain, 16 December, 1891. In December, 1893, he was, by Governor Markham, appointed brigade inspector, with rank of major, on the staff of Brigadier-General M. W. Muller.

During the widespread strike of railroad employees of 1894, he was detailed commissary and quartermaster of the military camp at Bakersfield in Kern County, Cal., whence the first strike-bound trains in the state were moved, opening the Southern Pacific R. R. to traffic from San Francisco to Los Angeles. His services at this juncture were commended in the military reports.

May 21, 1895, he retired as brigade inspector; but when the U. S. battleship Maine was blown up in Havana Harbor, he tendered his services to the government for the war with Spain.

After his marriage, he had given up the civil positions that he had held, to engage, in 1888, in mercantile lines. But again, in 1892, as deputy sheriff, he took active part in the pursuit of a band of train robbers, the boldness of whose deeds in every state, from Illinois to California, aroused the entire state, resulting in their capture and imprisonment for long terms.

In 1889, he, with others, located extensive oil lands in Fresno County; and in 1900, having enlisted San Francisco capital in these enterprises, he moved with his family to that city to supervise their development. Dividends being delayed, however, many of his associates lost heart and the property lapsed.

The real estate business, which he entered without delay, prospered until the 18th of April, 1906, when it was abruptly terminated by the earthquake and fire. Since then he has been engaged in a manufacturing corporation under encouraging auspices.

round the world in 1894-1896, with the world's Commission of the Field Columbian Museum; and is at present (1900) of the Cushman-Winchell Press, New York and Pittsburg, and was formerly proprietor of the Winchell Printing Company, New York. The strong credentials of the U. S. Government caused the Commission's favorable reception and royal attention by eastern nations. He improved the opportunity to glean information and ideas on engraving, printing and designing, and greatly increased his experience and knowledge in his favorite profession. In the Inland Printer (Chicago and New York), February, 1900, is a sketch of him, with a portrait, from which the following is extracted:

"Winchell is nothing if he is not Winchellesque. He suddenly closed out his business in the Winchell Printing Company, right in the zenith of his brilliant success, and put off as a member of the World's Commission, already mentioned. It was then that he established the Cushman-Winchell Company. He excels as a designer and draughtsman, rendering with equal fidelity figures, animals, landscapes, machinery and architecture. He is at once painter, sculptor, architect and mechanical draughtsman. He is inclined to the humorous in social moments, thoughtful and serious when discussing business; dreamy in repose, indicating the rare combination of business ability and artistic temperament. He is a clever talker, enjoys and can tell a good story, and has a wide circle of personal friends, attracted to him by his personal magnetism."

5107 Anna, b. Goshen, Ct.

5101 Munson, according to information from 5109 John Winchell, "was one of seven brothers who served in the British army, in the war before the revolution." He says, "I never knew the names of any of his brothers. If rightly informed, they each had the British crown, with the lion and unicorn, wrought in needle-work, on the frontispiece of their caps. My grandfather was at Detroit, Mich., while in the service. He knew nothing of his brothers after the close of the war."

According to 5114 Munson Winchell, 5101 Munson came from England with two brothers and joined the revolutionary army; and in the first battle in which they were engaged, they became separated, and he never heard of either of them thereafter.

Some details of 5101 Munson's family have also been received from 5119 William Austin Winchell, who states that he "came from a distance" to Goshen, Ct.

According to Colonial records of Connecticut, Munson served in the French and Indian War in 1758; was a corporal in 1759 and a sergeant in 1760.

One informant states that he married "after the Revolution"; but it was probably after the "French and Indian War," in which he had served as a soldier. His wife, Sarah Beach, is said to have been "a beautiful and accomplished lady."

It would not be a matter of surprise if it should yet be discovered that 5101 Munson and his brothers were descended from Robert of the Windsor Branch.

Evidence is still lacking to prove that Munson was descended from Robert, but two facts are now known which suggest such an ancestry. In the History of Goshen (by A. G. Hibbard) it is related that Munson was on a scouting expedition from Goshen during the French and Indian War, when he was surprised by an Indian, who shot at him, the ball passing between his body and his arm. He promptly shot the Indian dead, took his knife, and scalped him. The knife had twenty-four notches on the back, which were supposed to represent the number of men scalped by the Indian.

This adventure might well have befallen a settler in the colonies who was used to the methods of Indian warfare, but it is not likely that a recent arrival from England would have scalped the Indian, even if he had been out on such a scouting trip.

Munson was married at Great Barrington, Mass., and it is reasonable to think that he grew up there. David Winchell was one of the original proprietors of that place, about 1735. This can not be any David Winchell named in the preceding pages. In February, 1744, Samuel Winchell, Jr., was recorded as a member of the church at Great Barrington. If the father of this Samuel, Jr., is included in the preceding pages, he was probably 34 Samuel. It is probable that David and Samuel, Jr., were brothers, and David may reasonably be regarded as the father of Munson.

V. JOCKGRIM BRANCH.

FIRST GENERATION.

5501 GEORG MICHAEL WINCHELL. Born Jockgrim, in the Palatinate (Rheinpfalz), Bavaria; m. Elizabeth Baur, Jockgrim, 1816; d, Jockgrim, 15 May, 1850. Wife d. 2 Mar., 1854.

5502 Elizabeth, b. Jockgrim; m. Joseph Dionys Preis. Lived Richmond, O., 1868.
5503 Franz Michael, b. Jockgrim. Lived in Germany, 1868.
5504 Andreas, b. Jockgrim; d. with w. and ch. in New Orleans.
5505 Salome, b. Jockgrim. Lived in Germany, 1868.
5506 Anthon, b. Jockgrim, 8 Nov., 1828.
5507 John Adam, b. Jockgrim. Farmer, Perry Co., Mo., 1868.
5508 Franziska, b. Jockgrim; m. William Ohlmann. Lived at Cincinnati, O., 1868.

The only information[1] obtained of this branch is from 5506 Anthon, with whom correspondence has been conducted in the German language. 5501 Georg Michael, in his 20th year, became a soldier under Napoleon; was nine years in "the Guard"; 18 months a prisoner in Spain; returned in 1806; obtained his discharge in 1815.

5506 Anthon writes further that he has never before found any one with exactly his own family name, though he has traveled a good deal in Germany and America. He has, however, in Germany, known many in his native neighborhood by the name of Wünstel. He found the same name in Cincinnati, and supposed it was his own, until comparison was made. He has also met with some by the name of Wenzel. "We had also a cousin, at one time, in our neighborhood, who bore our name. When I was a schoolboy, our father used often jokingly to say to us children that he had a rich uncle, but we could never find out where he was. More frequently he spoke of Poland; and he desired at one time to remove there, but the mother did not consent."

[1] See 5521-5527 for others probably related to this branch.

As stated in the Introduction, it is probable that the members of this sub-branch, and all who in Germany give the English orthography or pronunciation to the name, are descendants from ancestors who lived in England; though such ancestors were themselves descended perhaps from an ancient Saxon family.

SECOND GENERATION.

5506 ANTHON WINCHELL (5501 Georg). Born Jockgrim, Bavaria. Turner, 2517 Broadway, St. Louis, Mo., 1868.

5509 ———.
5510 ———.
5511 ———.

5506 Anthon served six years as soldier in the garrison of Augsburg. He came to America in 1856.

The following families are probably related to the Jockgrim Branch through the daughter (5521) of a Winchell who lived in Bavaria.

FIRST GENERATION.

5521 —— WINCHELL. Born in Germany; m. a man named Meyers.

5524 JAMES GEORGE WINCHELL (5523 James, 5522 James, 5521 ——). Born Munich, Bavaria, 1819; m. Elizabeth Scranton, an English lady, Brussels, Belgium, who d. Chalons, France, 1859. He d. Galveston, Texas, 10 Aug., 1853.

5525 John Keys, b. Galveston, Tex., 15 Dec., 1841; m. Gertrude Elizabeth Heald, Chicago, Ill., 27 Oct., 1867. Architect, Chicago, in good business, in 1868.

5526 William Reinhold, b. Galveston, Tex., 4 July, 1843. Lived at Lyons, France, a bookkeeper in a silk factory in 1868.

5527 Elizabeth, b. Havana, Cuba, 17 Jan., 1845; d. Chalons, France, Oct., 1861.

5524 James George removed to Galveston, Texas (probably from The Hague) about 1839 and settled on a farm. After 4 years he purchased a farm near Havana, Cuba. He lived alternately on these two farms till his death, when his family (excepting John K.) returned to Europe and settled at Chalons.

THE ARITHMETIC OF COUSINSHIP.

To find the relationship existing between two persons of the same Branch and the same Generation.

RULE.—Trace each person's genealogy back till you come to the name in which the two lines converge. Subtract the number (or order) of this generation from that of the generation to which the persons belong. The remainder diminished by one denotes the degree of cousinship subsisting between the two persons.

Example.—What is the relationship between 2162 James M. and 2374 Alexander, both of the eighth generation?

We may arrange the line of descent as follows:

NAME.	NAME.	GENERATION.	RELATIONSHIP.
2162 James M.,	2374 Alexander,	VIII.	4th Cousins.
Son of 978 Reuben H.,	Son of 1109 Horace,	VII.	3d Cousins.
Son of 349 Elisha,	Son of 383 Martin E.,	VI.	2d Cousins.
Son of 139 Elisha,	Son of 150 James,	V.	1st Cousins.
Son of 49 Thomas,	Son of 53 Martin,	IV.	Brothers.
Son of 13 Stephen.	Son of 13 Stephen.	III.

The lines converge in the IIId. generation. Now 8 less 3 equals 5, and hence the cousinship is the 4th degree.

Hart-Porter Ancestry.

1. STEPHEN HART, b. Braintree, Co. Essex, England, about 1605; m. 1st, ——; m. 2nd, Margaret ——, as 3d husband. He came to Cambridge, Mass., 1632; removed to Hartford in 1635, where he was an original proprietor; moved to Farmington about 1650. He was a "deputy" or representative, 1647-55 and 1660; d. May, 1683, aged 77. It is said he discovered the ford over the Connecticut River, whence the name Hart-ford. His will is abstracted in Early Conn. Probate Records, I, p. 320.

i. John, b. England; lived Farmington, Conn.; his house was burned by Indians in 1666, and all perished except his son John.
ii. Thomas, b. 1644; m. Ruth Hawkins; representative 1690-1700; d. 1726.
2. iii. Sarah, m. Thomas Porter.
iv. Mary, m. —— Lee.
v. Stephen.
vi. (Dau.), m. John Cole; probably d. before 1683.

2. SARAH HART, m. Thomas Porter, who d. 1697. His will is abstracted in Early Conn. Probate Records, I, p. 579; it names sons Thomas and Samuel and dau. Dorothy, and does not name a dau. Sarah.

i. Thomas.
ii. Dorothy.
iii. Samuel.
3. iv. Sarah, b. 1646; m. 2 Nathanael Winchell.

3. SARAH PORTER, b. 1646; m. 2 Nathanael Winchell, 8 Apr., 1664; d. Windsor, Ct., 7 Oct., 1725. For children see 2 Nathanael. The ancestry of Sarah is doubtful. Stiles (Ancient Windsor) says she was "dau. Thomas (though possibly John) Porter of Farmington." Thomas does not mention her in his will, but neither can she be placed in the known families of any John Porter of Farmington.
